ELECTRIC POWER.

Every plumber, carpenter and hardware merchant ought to have a small electric motor, say one-half horse power.

You will be surprised at the kind and amount of work that can be done with a motor of this size, such as sharpening skates, scythes and all kinds of cutlery, polishing and grinding metals, splitting and cutting up stock for windows and door screens, etc.

The motors are cheap and cost of operation is very small. Let us help you in any matter pertaining to power.

Why Vote for Dr. Fawcett

1st. Because she is a PROPERLY QUALIFIED WOMAN, and we feel it a duty to secure a fair representation of such women on our School Board.

2nd. Because today we have only ONE woman on the board and FOURTEEN men.

3rd. Because there is no physician on the board, and in view of the fact that she has made a special study of nervous and contagious diseases, also of sanitation, we feel that her services would be of GREAT value, ESPECIALLY as touching ventilation, fumigation and in dealing with some of the most serious problems which confront Educators today. Namely: Physical training as well as mental, and over work which causes so many nervous breakdowns among our young students.

4th. Because as a QUALIFIED woman she is entitled to the support of every citizen who believes in women on the board.

5th. Because this is not a question of PARTY AFFILIATION, but it is your opportunity to elect the RIGHT woman.

THE HALF-DOLLAR MUSIC SERIES

A unique edition and one that will be of interest to all music lovers, whether teachers or students, is the "Half-Dollar Music Series," published by the Oliver Ditson Company. It consists of twenty-six different books, each containing sixty or more pages of music of proven acceptability. Eleven volumes of this series are for piano solo, some being in the very easiest grades for beginners. "Waltzes and Two-steps for the Piano" and "Easy Salon Music," while of a popular order, are not in the same class with the "rag-time" variety, which we regret to say, is found in many homes where one would expect to find music more in keeping with a higher standard of intelligence. Three books of piano duets are among the number, and other volumes are for the violin, mandolin and other instruments. "Thirty Songs for Children" is a book that will furnish entertainment to the little ones for many a long winter evening.

One of the latest additions to the series and a collection that is sure to meet with favor is "Popular Church Organ Pieces," compiled and edited by Hans Lichter. This book comprises fourteen numbers, all of which are eminently suited to the church service. The registration in every number is clearly indicated and they may be played on two manual organs. Raff's "Cavatina," Chopin's "Noctturne in G Minor," "Consolation" and "Spring Song" by Mendelssohn and "Lovely Appeal" from "The Redemption" are among the contents of this book. One organist writes: "I am much pleased with Popular Church Organ Pieces; the type is good, the form convenient and the pieces therein 'popular' in the best sense of the word."

The prices of the volumes of the series are uniformly 50 cents, as its title implies. This includes postage. A complete catalog of the Half-Dollar Music Series, giving description and the contents of each volume, will be sent free, postpaid, to any address by applying to the Oliver Ditson Company, 151 Tremont Street, Boston.

Captain Artemus Wyman.

Captain Artemus B. Wyman, one of the best known citizens of West Newton died of apoplexy on the street within a few yards of his home on Greenwood avenue at 3.30 Friday afternoon. He had returned from his daily trip to Boston and was walking along toward home, reading a newspaper, when he suddenly fell to the ground. He was carried to a nearby residence and Dr. F. L. McIntosh was summoned, but Mr. Wyman died before his arrival.

Captain Wyman was born in Calais, Me., seventy-eight years ago. When about twelve years old he went to sea, and rose rapidly until, at the age of nineteen, he was in command of the full-rigged ship Medora, which carried cotton to Europe. He had made several trips around the world and had sailed the numerous ships under his command to every country on the globe. At one time, while in command of the clipper ship, A. B. Wyman, named for himself, he had loaded a cargo of cotton for Europe. While in midocean the vessel was struck by lightning and burned. The entire crew was rescued.

After being in the cotton trade many years, Captain Wyman retired from the sea and engaged in the ship brokerage and commission business in New Orleans, where his name was well known. After being in business in New Orleans twenty years he retired from active service and for the past ten years had made his home at 60 Greenwood avenue, West Newton, with his son-in-law.

He leaves a widow, who is seventy-six years of age; a son and a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Noyes. He was a member of the Masonic order, having received the degree in Star of Bethlehem Lodge, Chelsea, over fifty years ago, and he was one of the first candidates exalted in the Royal Arch Chapter of the Sheshin, in that city, in March, 1856. He also was a member of Boston Marine Society.

Funeral services were held from the house Sunday afternoon at 2.30. Rev. Albert Hammett, pastor of the First Universalist church officiating, and the interment was in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Savings Banks.

Either you, one of your family or some one in whom you are interested have a deposit in some savings bank. This can be said of every person in Massachusetts. We have Savings Banks on every hand, within everybody's reach and by long experience the people have come to consider their deposits not only absolutely safe but where, when necessity arises they can be drawn immediately for whatever purpose the money may be needed.

Savings banks in Massachusetts are established by and under authority of this state, are conducted under the wise laws of the state and are under the supervision of a Board of Savings Bank Commissioners whose duty it is to protect the interests of the banks and of the deposits placed therein by our citizens.

It may be said in passing that the bank laws of this state are considered and often quoted as a model for other states to follow.

There is a very wide distinction between Savings Banks in Massachusetts on one hand and National banks and trust companies on the other. The latter are commercial institutions. They have a capital stock, owned by their shareholders and are in business to make money with which to pay dividends to their shareholders as well as for the public's accommodation.

Not so with the savings bank. It has no capital stock but is a purely mutual concern owned entirely by its depositors. Its assets belong to the depositors only and of these there is no favored class. The dividends paid on the very small accounts, of which there are many, are at exactly the same rate as paid on accounts of $1,000 which is the largest amount the law permits the savings bank to receive from one person.

The management is in the hands of a Board of Trustees composed of public spirited citizens who undertake and discharge their duties entirely without compensation. On this board will be found representative men of the community in which the bank is located, men of unquestionable integrity who realize their individual responsibility and appreciate the trust reposed in them. The trustees is an honorable position.

Of the Trustee's duties that of investing the funds is probably the most important. A committee called the Board of Investment is usually appointed for this work and all loans and investments are approved by them before being made. This is no light duty as on their judgment and efforts depends the earning capacity of the institution. The state laws are such that a savings bank cannot invest indiscriminately and securities which are often so in name only are never found in its assets. Bonds of the United States, this State, of cities and towns and of the strongest railroads and first mortgages on real estate at not exceeding sixty per cent of the value comprise the bulk of the investments.

Daily we find advertisements in the newspapers offering stocks in unknown companies, urging the public to buy and holding up in derision the low rate of interest paid by savings banks and setting forth in most glowing terms the merits of these so-called investments. It must be admitted that these advertisements are usually well written and calculated to convince. They do convince many people and to their sorrow. The cost of the advertisement is but a drop in the bucket compared to the returns they bring from people who believe them, don't know how to investigate into the value or haven't time to do so. It is deplorable that this condition should be allowed to exist but exist it will until the general public cease to support such schemes and make them profitable to the unprincipled promoters.

The principal is not the fault of a mechanic, laborer or ordinary business man if he doesn't know what securities to purchase for investment. He isn't in touch with financial affairs and does not know how to investigate values. It is wise for some such a person to believe what some unscrupulous promoter, absolutely unknown to him writes in a newspaper advertisement and send him his good money? Why not first consult someone familiar with financial matters of a legitimate character. Such advice would seldom be refused and would save many a man his hard-earned money.

Savings banks are established for the purpose of caring for and investing the savings of those who are unable to safely invest for themselves and the dividends paid are as large as is consistent with the absolute safety of the principal. The principal is safe, not taxable and can be withdrawn at any time when the use of the money is necessary.

It is well to pause in the haste for wealth and be very sure that the small substance is not being exchanged for a large shadow.

Double Funeral

One of the saddest events of the year reached its climax last Sunday afternoon at the funeral of the late Austin W. and Leon Redpath, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Elsie W. Redpath formerly of Highland avenue, Newtonville.

The elder son, Austin died in California some months ago, and the father and mother were bringing home his body when the shocking news reached them of the death of the only remaining son, Leon at Parkin, N. J., as the result of a gunpowder explosion.

The double funeral was held from the chapel of the Swedenborgian church in Newtonville Sunday afternoon and was conducted by Rev. John Goddard pastor of the church. A large number of relatives and friends were present and of beautiful design. The services were of marked impressiveness and a fitting part was the finely rendered solo, "Rest in the Lord," sang by Mrs. George R. Pulsifer. The pall bearers were Messrs. James L. Knapp, Albert P. Carter, Reginald Brown, Walter Crawley, William Hollings and Richard Carter, all life long friends of the brothers. The interment was in Newton Cemetery.

Miss Eugenia A. Bridges, daughter of the late Ziba Bridges, died at the Newton hospital Friday after a long period of failing health. She was a native of Newton and was 68 years of age. She was a member of Eliot church. Funeral services were held from the chapel of Eliot church Monday at 2.30. Rev. F. S. Hatch officiating and the interment was in the family lot in the Common Street Cemetery, Watertown.

Whitman, of Chestnut Hill, became the bride of Mr. Richard Darwin Ware of Boston, on Tuesday, the ceremony taking place at 12.30 o'clock in the Church of the Redeemer in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends. The pastor, Rev. David C. Garrett officiated and the quaint little edifice was tastefully decorated with pale pink chrysanthemums. The bride was dressed in white satin with point applique lace and was given in marriage by her father. The maid of honor was Miss Edith Whitman, the bride's sister, and the bridesmaid was Mrs. J. H. Rhoades, Jr., of New York. Mr. W. A. L. Hazley of Boston was the best man and Mr. Charles Warren, Dr. Farrar Cobb, Major Thomas Talbot, Mr. Joseph W. Lund, Mr. Henry Goodrich, Mr. Olin Roberts, Mr. Gardner Perry and Mr. Stephen Colman all of Boston were the ushers.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony, at the Whitman residence on Hammond street. Mr. and Mrs. Ware will reside at 138 Marlboro St., Boston.

Y. M. C. A.

The Newton branch of the Y. M. C. A. was represented at the funeral of Sir George Williams, the founder of the first Association.

The services were held in St. Paul's, London, Oct. 14th. Dr. Shinn was staying in the neighborhood and was invited to be one of the representatives of the American branch. Every honor was paid the memory of Sir George Williams by Church and by State. The only contest at the coming municipal election is that for school committee in Ward 7 between Mr. Herbert Stebbins, the Republican nominee and Miss Dr. Fawcett, the candidate named by the women and who also has the democratic nomination. While the entire affair is but a tempest in a teapot, so far as practical results are concerned, there is considerable bickering on both sides and charges and counter charges are almost as numerous as in a Boston campaign. Billed over to its essence, the facts are substantially as follows:—
When Rev. Mr. Smith decided to accept a parish at Westfield, he, with a few others, naturally thought about the choice of his successor in the school committee. And some days before the fact that he was to leave the city had become known outside of his circle of friends, Mr. Stebbins had been asked to take his place on that board. When the resignation of Rev. Mr. Smith became known to the public, immediate steps were taken by the women to have one of their sex elected in his stead. It naturally took some time to determine upon a suitable candidate and the nomination lists for the primaries had to be filed within six days from the time the matter was first published. With but little or no experience in the complications of the candidacy law, and with absolutely no assistance given them by the members of the Republican city committee, it was a foregone conclusion that the women would not be able to get their candidate in line for the regular party nomination.

Such was the case and the only resource left to the ladies was to carry the contest to the polls.
The woman's candidate Dr. Deborah Fawcett, is a citizen and voter of Newton. She has resided here some six years and has made many friends in professional and social circles. She is regarded as an able and energetic woman by all who know her and one who would be able to take a direct and personal interest in school work. Her professional knowledge would unquestion-ably be of value in many matters relating to sanitation and ventilation of school buildings and medical care of the children.

The Republican candidate, Mr. Stebbins is an able business man and with children in the schools. Without doubt he would make a good member of the school committee, but it is not so certain that he would bring to that body any special qualifications.
A glance at the personnel of the school committee may be of interest in this connection. It is made up of one woman, six business men, four lawyers, two school teachers, one clergyman and one retired gentleman. From this showing it would seem as if the financial side of the schools, would be well taken care of with the present business men and lawyers, and that the professional knowledge and womanly qualities of Dr.
Fawcett might be of value to the Newton schools. For this reason the GRAPHIC will support Dr. Fawcett for the position.

In the matter of appropriations for water purposes, the expected has happened and the aldermen have authorized the application of the entire water income for 1906 towards the payment of such water charges as payment of serial bonds, interest and sinking funds on water bonds, maintenance of the water system and metropolitan water assessments. The balance estimated at about $7,000 is to be used for water construction purposes, which hitherto have been paid for from the proceeds of the sale of thirty year bonds. It is to this last item that we enter a protest on behalf of the tax payers of 1906, and suggest a remedy by which the tax payers of that year may receive some benefit from the excess income in the water department.

The position of the GRAPHIC on all matters where the annual tax levy is called upon to pay for permanent improvements, such as drains, sewers and water is so well known that we fear to weary our readers if we again call attention to the subject. But to paraphrase a familiar saying of a generation ago
"The only way to reduce the tax rate, is to reduce it." We can only obtain the tax rate which will attract desirable residents, by a strict scrutiny of the yearly appropriations and the elimination for the next few years at least, of all items where the total cost of permanent improvements is charged up to the annual tax levy.

In the present instance, the act of the aldermen, is required by the strict construction of the statute and while we do not believe the Legislature intended that act to apply to a city like Newton, which does not take water from the metropolitan board, still, it is not worth while to attempt to obtain special legislation in the face of the strong feeling at the State House on such matters. The best course and one which is clearly open for us to take as a city is to reduce the water rates and meter rentals. We are fully aware that this is a big matter and should be approached with caution, but it is the only way in which the individual citizen would be able to realize any benefit from the prosperous condition of the water department.

The time has now arrived when the water rates and meter rentals can be reduced so as to compare more favorably with our neighbor, the town of Brookline and the GRAPHIC urges upon the city fathers the necessity and desirability of reducing the rate per thousand gallons from 35 cents to 30 cents and the meter rental from $1.50 to $1.00.

On present consumption this would mean an annual saving of about $16,000 to the residents of Newton and we believe it would be the most popular act the city government could authorize.

While the passage of the annual appropriation order by the city government has become each year more and more perfunctory on the surface, the truth is, that the numerous items contained in that important document are so thoroughly thrashed out by the department itself, then by the mayor and subsequently by the committee on Finance that the result of such deliberations comes as near the correct figure as is possible. As a matter of fact of the total figure of rising $1,055,000, nearly $300,000 is required by five departments of the city, about $300,000 being needed for the interest and sinking fund requirements of the city debt alone.

The present budget which was passed last week by the aldermen, was given the utmost consideration by Mayor Weed, and the suggestion of President Saltonstall that other members of the board be invited to attend the meetings of the Finance Committee, greatly aided the final consideration of the matter by the city government.

The tax payers of Newton are to be congratulated as the new budget marks the beginning of a new order of things, when, for a season at least, the total appropriations are less than those of the preceding year. Let the good work continue.

In marked contrast to the recent action of the National Federation of Christian churches was the union meeting last Sunday night at Watertown, where all the Protestant churches of that place omitted their regular services to join with the Unitarian church in the celebration of its 275th anniversary. The old First Parish is the mother of the West Newton Unitarian and of the Channing churches of this city, and the ancestor of one of our prominent Newton families, Sir Richard Saltonstall was one of its founders.

The disorders in Boston last Saturday evening after the college football game, at which it was necessary to have a force of 300 additional police and to rope off a portion of Boylston street, are a disgrace to any community. Harvard college will be a synonym for hoedownism if such actions are allowed to continue.

Rowdyism.

The officials of the Boston elevated railway company assert that a dangerous and disgraceful species of rowdyism in connection with football games is becoming too prevalent to be further ignored. It has become, they declare, the custom of certain football players and fans to follow the teams, when returning in a street car from a game, to turn out the lights, to cut bell cords, to evade fares, to steal signs and to annoy and even insult other passengers in cars. In relation to the subject an official of the road said yesterday:

"While the company desires to make all due allowance for the natural exuberance of youthful spirit, it cannot in justice to the riding public or to itself ignore misconduct that is both disorderly and dangerous. The evil is growing both in extent and seriousness.

"In a recent case investigated by the company members or followers of the team turned off the lights in a car, defied the conductor, and proceeded to have what they called a 'rough house', in which they committed all of the acts above specified. The assistant manager of this particular team frankly admitted that it is a common occurrence for the boys to steal signs. One of the members of the team said that the members of the team had been reprimanded by the head of the school. He said, 'in years past I know that we have made a practice of not paying our fares on our way home after playing football. I know that somebody makes a practice of turning the lights out, and it is impossible for the conductor to get his fares.'

"It is the custom of certain teams and their followers, when the lights are turned out, to endanger the safety of passengers by their wild acts, to indulge in profanity and sometimes to insult women; and further, and more serious, by the very act of putting out the lights,
take away the means which the drivers of teams and the motormen of other cars have of seeing the car and preventing a collision. These boys injure and destroy the company's property, interfere with the proper running of the car, evade fares, and in general violate public peace and safety."

The company is determined, so far as it legally can, to protect its other patrons and doubtless officers in citizens' clothes will ride upon the cars to arrest those guilty of disorderly conduct.

Communication.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC

Mrs. Frank L. Miller in your last week's issue referred to alleged mis-statements which had been made in regard to Miss Fawcett's recent naturalization and her brief residence in Newton. The reference was obviously to certain statements in the letter from the Republican Ward Committee.

The Committee did not desire to detract from Miss Fawcett's ability by referring to her recent naturalization. The fact was mentioned for two reasons, first, as indicative of the extent of her past interest in school matters and voting for school committee and, second, as an insuperable reason for not presenting her name to the Republican caucus. Her naturalization on November 11th may be regarded by Mrs. Miller as a "simple affair" but it bridged the chasm between non-eligibility and eligibility to vote and to be voted for as a candidate for the School Board. It was the assumption of American citizenship and in reality a solemn and sacred ceremony not to be lightly regarded.

Mrs. Miller states that Miss Fawcett "has been a resident of Newton for the past six years" while the Committee stated that she had lived here about two years. True this is not a matter of vital importance but the voters of Newton are entitled to be correctly informed on this matter which goes to show the extent of Miss Fawcett's familiarity with our institutions, our aims and our ideals. Now the statement of the Committee was based not only on many inquiries of long-time residents of Newton but upon the following records in regard to the matter.

Miss Fawcett was a student at the Medical School of Boston University from 1900 to 1903 and in each of the catalogues published during those four years her home appeared as Stamford, New Jersey.

While during portions of her course in the Medical School she may have boarded in Newton evidently she did not then or later consider herself as belonging here.

On July 6, 1903, a little more than two years ago Miss Fawcett filed at the Massachusetts State House her application to the State Board of Registration in Medicine and therein stated under oath that she was "of New York."

Alfred H. Wing,
Secretary Ward Seven Republican Committee.

Newton, Nov. 30, 1905.

A Successful Whist.

A successful whist party and dance, under the auspices of the Newton Hospital Catholic Aid Association, was held in the Bray halls Wednesday evening. Whist was played in the banquet hall and dancing was enjoyed in the large hall from 8 to 12. Music Kutz orchestra. The floor was in charge of vice president Thomas M. Holden who was assisted by a corps of aids. About 600 were present. The prizes were won by Mrs. Francy, Miss Nora Coleman, Miss Florence Driscoll, Miss Anna McDonald, Edward Pantou, W. B. Cushing, Frank Daley and Daniel Warren. The consolation prize was awarded to Miss Kate Mead.

BARGAINS IN USED PIANOS

Many buyers are surprised to find how thoroughly satisfactory in looks and sound are the used pianos that we offer for sale. Every piano that comes to us in exchange goes to our factory in Cambridge and is thoroughly overhauled. When needed, new hammers, new strings and even new actions are put in. As makers, we can do this intelligently and economically. Perhaps a piano made by one of the celebrated makers, renewed by us, will please you. If so you may save $100 or $200. It's worth considering. We will mail you a list of the used pianos we offer if inconvenient to call.

At the Theatres

Tremont Theatre—Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan Company will begin next Monday at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, a three weeks' engagement in C. M. S. McLehman's drama, "Leah Kleschna." No dramatic offering of the season equals in importance the appearance of this distinguished actress in the most popular play of her career. It is Mrs. Fiske's first appearance in Boston in three years. "Leah Kleschna" is one of the most successful dramas the American stage has known. It is modern, full of action and incident, and absorbing in story. The play is a succession of strong scenes and gives Mrs. Fiske opportunity for one of her greatest triumphs. The mounting is beautiful and artistic, as are all of Mrs. Fiske's offerings. The last act, showing a lettuce field steeped in sunshine, is an unusual example of the scene painter's art. Matinees will be given on Saturday only. Seats for the entire engagement are now on sale. Mail orders accompanied by remittance and stamped and addressed envelope will be filled.

Grand Opera House—When "Secret Service Sam," the new melodrama in which Chas. F. Aldrich is the star, comes next week at the Boston Grand Opera House, the theatre loving public will have an opportunity of witnessing one of the most interesting and sensational plays written in the past decade. "Secret Service Sam" is one surprise party from start to finish. A. H. Woods has given the play a capable cast, appropriate scenery and effects, and, as usual, expense of production cuts no figure as against giving the public a first class evening's amusement. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Keith's Theatre—Another big vaudeville program is announced from Keith's for the week of Dec. 4. The "headline" feature will be the City Girls, an organization of eight young women under the leadership of Truly Shattuck, presenting the "Song of the Cities" from the "Prince of Pilsen" by special arrangement with Henry W. Savage. It is said to be a vocal offering of decided merit and has been scoring a big hit in vaudeville theatres of the west. Each young woman represents one of the large cities of the United States. Miss Boston being portrayed by Alice Finch. Truly Shattuck is an importation from musical comedy, last season being prominently identified with "Little Johnny Jones." The surrounding show is fully up to the standard set by the attraction containing the names of many entertainers from Europe and vaudevillians of this country who have not been seen here for long periods. Prominent on the list are Harry McElroy, "the Bernhardt of vaudeville," in his satirical impersonations of famous actresses; the wonderful Dollar troupe of acrobats; Hoey and Lee, the best of all Hebrew dialect comedians and parody singers; Bert Levy, in an idol of the studio; "The Artist and the Model"; LaValle trio, talented female instrumentalists; Sator and Williams, "real com" comedians, singers and dancers; the Brothers Durant, in an European acrobatic novelty; Milt Wood, clever dancer; the Jess, novelty gymnasts; Honey and Steele, singers and dancers; and Billy Kincaid, comedy juggler. The usual entire new list of comedy and interesting motion pictures will be exhibited in the kinetograph.

GYPSY MOTHS.

More than 500 men are now destroying the poisonous brown-tail moths in eastern Massachusetts. This small army is composed of town and city forces working under the direction of tree wardens and local health inspectors. The following instructions have been sent out from the Boston office of the State Superintendent of moth work to these local officials:—

"In carrying out the provisions of the law in regard to the brown-tail moth, trees on streets, parks and commons must, of course, be cleared. All thickly settled residential districts must be cleared through their entire extent by getting property owners to do as effectively work on their lands as the town or city does on the street trees—this to do away with the danger of poisoning next summer. Orchards, as well as yards, must be protected by owner. Where woodlands adjoin dwelling houses, an effort should be made by the owner to clear a zone of safety at least 100 feet wide around his property for his own protection.

The above instructions should be heeded by citizens generally, for it is only by entering into a great and united army the two million inhabitants of the moth-infested district of Massachusetts that success can be won in the war against the pest.

William Phineas Upham.

Mr. William Phineas Upham, who died in Newtonville, last week Tuesday, was one of the best-known antiquarians in New England. He was the son of Rev. Charles W. Upham of Salem, author of the "History of the Salem Witchcraft," and his mother was a sister of Oliver Wendell Holmes. Mr. Upham was a graduate of Harvard College, class of 1860, and was a life member of the Massachusetts Historical Association, and of the Massachusetts Historical Society. For many years he was engaged in restoring, classifying and indexing the manuscript records of Essex County and of Suffolk County, through which work, together with his own independent researches, he became an authority on the early history of these counties. He was the author of numerous pamphlets on antiquarian subjects, and at the time of his death had nearly completed in collaboration with Mr. John Noble, clerk of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, an edition of "Records of the Court of Assistants of Massachusetts Bay," never before published. His exhaustive knowledge of the systems of shorthand in use during the Colonial period enabled him to decipher manuscripts that must otherwise have remained unintelligible, a notable achievement being his recent recovery of the phonetic alphabet employed by Jonathan Edwards. He invented a "rational" system of shorthand, which is extensively used in England. He was recently elected ed to membership in the Harvard Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, in recognition of his many contributions to antiquarian scholarship. Mr. Upham was a member of the Essex bar. He leaves a widow and two daughters. Funeral services were held from the late residence of the deceased Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. Edwin C. Rolles of Tufts College and Rev. John Goddard pastor of the Swedenborgian church. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends and the many floral tributes were a mute testimony of love and respect. The burial, which was private was in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

The Woman's World Club met Nov. 20 at the home of Mrs. Arthur Comer, Beacon street.

At the business meeting it was voted that Mrs. Sharp, the wife of our rector, be made an honorary member.

A report was made by Mrs. Addie Miller of the School Suffrage Committee. It was voted that our club give all aid possible to this committee in assisting in the election of Dr. Deborah Fawcett to the School Board of Newton.

A resume of foreign news was given by Mrs. Willard Everett.

Dr. F. E. Spaulding then spoke to the club on "The Newton Schools."

After a statement that he believed the reputation of the Newton schools was well established and that he found the reputation fully sustained as regards ventilation, sanitation, lighting and excellent corps of teachers.

He felt that, as with all works of man, some possible improvement might be made. With changes in conditions of modern life, the conception of education has changed. More industrial training and interest in the handicrafts would be desirable. More careful grading in all schools would be an advantage to pupils, a year seeming to great a step between classes.

The meeting adjourned giving the members opportunity for personal discussion with Mr. Spaulding, of this serious subject.

The Newton Equal Suffrage League held its annual meeting with Mr. and Mrs. James P. Tolman, Highland street, West Newton, Thursday evening of last week. The report of the year was given by Miss Susan A. Whiting, the chairman of the directors. The following list of officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Richard Rowe; vice-presidents, Mrs. James P. Tolman, Mrs. Nathaniel T. Allen, Mrs. Gorham D. Gilman, Dr. Samuel L. Eaton, Hon. William D. Gilman, Jesse C. Levy, Mrs. Kate Lente Stevenson, George A. Walton; recording secretary, Mrs. W. D. Tripp; corresponding secretary, Mrs. George F. Lowell; treasurer, Mrs. T. E. Stutson; directors, Miss Susan A. Whiting, chairman, Mrs. Jane M. Hastings, Mrs. George H. Brown, Mrs. Anna M. Langley, Mrs. Edward C. Burrage, Mrs. C. W. Eaton, Mrs. John Carter, Mrs. S. E. Hayward, Mrs. Albert Carter, Mrs. Henry K. Burrisson, Miss Amelia Davis, Mrs. L. E. Brown.

After the business meeting at which Mrs. Electa N. L. Walton presided in the absence of the president, Mr. Edgar O. Achorn of Newton Highlands, spoke on "Isen at Home." Mr. Achorn said that a marriage relation which gave him an audience with the king did not serve him in securing an interview with Isen. After trying in vain to secure one through friends of the famous man he at length succeeded through direct communication with Isen himself. The speaker was greatly impressed with his masterful personality and seems in turn to have made a favorable impression himself for he was accorded more than one opportunity to talk with him and to visit his home. Isen absolutely refused to be filmed and his friends protect him with jealous care. Mr. Achorn asked him why he did not visit America, but the writer said his knowledge of English was so slight that it would be difficult for him and on being assured that there were plenty of people who spoke German and French, his reply was that those were not the ones in whom he was interested, but the real Americans. After describing the interview in detail Mr. Achorn spoke of Isen's works and classified them.

At the close of the lecture light refreshments were served during the social hour.

At the meeting of the New England Women's Club on November thirteenth some vacation experiences were given by several members including Mrs. E. N. L. Walton of West Newton who contrasted a days visit to Ossipee Park, N. H. with one passed in Rochester, N. Y. the home of Susan B. Anthony, a well known pioneer in the cause of equal rights for women.

Miss Julia Sprague the club historian gave a humorous account of her enforced vacation from numerous activities owing to circumstances beyond her control. A reception and tea in honor of Miss Sprague's 80th birthday followed and she was the recipient of beautiful flowers and many affectionate greetings from the large number of members and friends present.

The following lines written by Mrs. F. D. Sampson of Newton were read by Mrs. T. W. White, chairman of the afternoon:

Full four score years have come and gone
Since—mildst a joyous little band,
A royal heritage to be born
In this, our own dear favored land
A wanderer came after deserting the air,
A baby princess sweet and fair,
Who smiling in her cradle lay,
And watched the fairies gathered there.Each showered her with gifts of worth,
With grace of person and of mind,
And blessed the moment of her birth
With benison of varied kind.
A heart to feel for other's grief,
The power to lead, by one bestow'd;
And sparkling wit, which gives relief
To dullest mite along life's road.And one, a mirror brought of gold,
"Look in," she said, "this art it lends,
True friends thou'lt ever make and hold,
Such magic in this mirror blends."
Unlabeled by years the mirror gleams
Reflects the loved of Long ago,
And yet today these magic scenes
This thrang of loving friends to show.Dear princess, look within we pray, Gaze in the fairy's gift of gold,
And see reflected there today
Tried friends and true, both new and old.
O little princess sweet and fair,
With bladem of silvered hair,
Accept the crown of Love we bring,
"The Friendship's golden offering."

The West Newton Women's Educational Club held its regular meeting on Friday, November 24. A few words were spoken in regard to two members who had died during the summer, Mrs. B. Loring White and Mrs. N. Emmons Paine. Mrs. Walton also spoke appreciatively of Master Dudley Cate who played so acceptably at the previous meeting and whose tragic death had shocked the members.

The program was in charge of the Art and Literature committee, Mrs. George Hyfield, chairman. The speaker was Hon. Alden P. White of Salem, and his subject, The Song of Hiawatha.

The speaker said, That his purpose was particularly to show the relation of the poem to the material out of which it was built and quoted extracts from Longfellow's diary in which he mentioned his plan of work and entries from day to day, noting how the work was progressing. The poet became interested in Schoolcraft's books on the Indians and from them obtained the stories which he afterwards wove into the poem "Hiawatha." These stories which comprise the mythology of the Indians. Schoolcraft had heard the squaws tell their children, just as modern mothers tell Mother Goose to their children, and he translated them into English. Mr. White read from Schoolcraft the stories of Wabun and the Morning Star, Shingibis, the Diver, and Kwasind the Strong Man, and then gave Longfellow's version of them in poetry. The canto known as Hiawatha's Wooing, the speaker said was most nearly Longfellow's own and is one of the most beautiful parts of the whole poem. Mr. White's rendering of the poem was delightful.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Social Science Club will be held next Wednesday morning. The usual meeting was omitted this week on account of Thanksgiving.

The regular meeting of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands took the form of a donation party for the Pomroy Home, Newton, this week. The program was Current Events. The Home served light refreshments and a pleasant time was enjoyed. The club will meet next week with Mrs. Luitwieler.

Mrs. Sarah S. Platt Decker, president of the General Federation, in the December Federation Bulletin this sends out her greetings to all club women for the holiday season:

The desire of my soul is that the club women of America may come more fully to believe and realize the high mission of the Federation; that it may dawn upon each and every one of you that this union of forces is here, not a happening, not for a few years, but a part of the plan of the world; that it is a great, helpful, uplifting influence for the making of the kingdom. We have not united in this great union for fame, for notoriety, for discontent. We have joined hands to work for better homes, for better laws, for better schools, for the honest, systematic, scientific upbuilding of a great nation. May the three wishes be granted,—the shining of the spirit, the useful world's work, the abiding faith in the Federation; and may this be truly said of us and all of us."

The regular monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club was held on Thursday afternoon, November 23. The president, Mrs. F. E. Anderson, introduced for the speaker of the afternoon, Mr. Charles Mason Fuller, who gave an illustrated lecture on "The Panama Canal and Cuba."

Besides describing the country and picturing its native life and native beauties, Mr. Fuller spoke of the great gain that the Panama canal will make in transportation. It will cut off almost 10,000 miles between San Francisco and New York and will do more to shorten the distance around the world than the Suez canal. Mr. Fuller spoke also of the industrial conditions in Cuba and of the great industrial opportunities opening up there to American capital and capitalists.

The unusually large audience was enthusiastic in its appreciation of the afternoon's program.

After the close of the lecture, Mrs. F. L. Miller, chairman of the school suffrage committee of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, addressed the club a few moments in regard to the federation's candidate for school committee, Dr. Deborah Fawcett.

At the morning meeting of the club on December 14, Mr. Almon J. Fairbanks will give a musicale, assisted by violin, cello and other soloists.

Thursday evening, December 28, will be guest night, with dramatics. A special translation of "Les Romantiques" has been made for the occasion, and a most delightful entertainment is anticipated. This will be followed by refreshments and a social hour. Great preparations are being made for this occasion, as this will be the first guest night of the woman's club for several years.

NOT NEGLIGENT

Board of Health Agent ExoneratedFull Report of Board on Recent Charges

City Hall, West Newton, 4 Dec. 1905.
Messrs. E. Ray Speare et al., Gentlemen:—

The Board of Health having considered the matters brought before it in a petition signed by E. Ray Speare and others, and also the statements made by Mr. A. C. Burnham and others, submits the following:—

The question naturally divides itself into two heads, namely, the Alfredson case and the charges against the Agent of the Board, and these will be considered separately.

In the Alfredson case the point at issue is, was the Board, acting through its Agent, negligent in not disinfecting a room in the Mason School on Monday, Oct. 30th? The answer to this must lie in the answer to the further question: do the facts warrant the supposition that the boy had diphtheria on Oct. 25th when he was at school?

The testimony of all who were in direct contact with the boy: his parents, his teacher, and the physician in charge of the case, goes to show that the boy was not ill on Oct. 25th.

The testimony of the boy's parents is as follows: he returned from school on Oct. 25th at the usual hour in his usual health. To the direct question, "Did the boy seem ill when he returned from school on Wednesday?" the reply was, "No, he was perfectly well and played out of doors as usual all the afternoon." On the evening of Oct. 25th he attended a party. On his return he complained of a headache and his mother said that she would keep him at home the next day and give him a dose of physic. For certain reasons this dose was not given until the afternoon and the boy played out of doors during the day as usual. On Friday, Oct. 27th, he seemed ill enough to require the services of a physician who pronounced it a probable case of tonsillitis. The subsequent history is too well known to need repeating.

The teacher says that on the afternoon of Wednesday, Oct. 25th, she noticed that the boy looked heavy eyed and languid. On a previous occasion he had seemed in a similar condition—apparently due to heat—his desk being near the radiator, and she had allowed him to go out for a short time with beneficial results. On Wednesday noticing his condition, she asked him if he felt badly and on receiving an affirmative reply sent him into the open air. After remaining out for fifteen or twenty minutes he returned and finished the session.

We come now to what may be called the unconscious testimony of the physician, who, on seeing the boy on Oct. 27th, 30 hours at least after he has left school, detects no sign of diphtheria, (as is evidenced by his acts) and on Oct. 28th sees only a suspicious case from which a culture should be taken as a precautionary measure. So much for the testimony of those most closely in contact with the case.

Before going further it may not be out of place to refer for a moment to the letter from Dr. McCullum which was read at the hearing. In this letter Dr. McCullum replied to certain questions in regard to diphtheria which were submitted to him. No one with the slightest knowledge of the nature of the contagion of diphtheria would hesitate for a moment to endorse what Dr. McCullum has said, but the present question is not a didactic one bearing on the general subject of the virulence of the contagion of diphtheria, nor the necessity of disinfection after exposure thereto,—there is no room for debate upon these subjects at the present day,—but is a discussion upon the necessity of disinfecting a school room in a certain specific instance, and Dr. McCullum expresses no opinion upon that point.

It has been said that if there was a necessity for disinfecting the room on Nov. 4th, after the Dudley case, there was an equal or greater necessity for doing so on Oct. 30th, after the fatal Alfredson case. These two cases are entirely different. In the Dudley case the child was at school on the morning of Nov. 3rd and did not return in the afternoon; a culture was taken the same day and reported positive the next morning.

In this case where the patient was at school only a few hours before he became ill enough to require the services of a physician, there was no question as to the necessity of subsequent disinfection and it was done on Nov. 4th as a matter of course.

In the Alfredson case the boy did not show the clinical signs of diphtheria until more than 48 hours after leaving school and did not even have a sore throat until at least 36 hours after being at school. At most it can only be conjectured that he may have had the specific germ of diphtheria present in his throat when he was at school, and even then it must be looked upon as a possibility rather than a probability. This possibility must be looked upon more as a theoretical than a practical condition, and treated accordingly, that is the theoretically possible condition must be ignored and action based upon the probable condition, as it would be impossible to carry out any line of sanitation based upon the former.

One other argument may be advanced as tending to show that the Alfredson boy did not have diphtheria when he was at school and that is the fact that no other cases, with the possible exception of the Dudley case, can be traced to it.

The boy attended a party on Wednesday evening; he played with his usual companions on Wednesday afternoon; and was with them on Thursday noon, yet none of the children with whom he came in contact developed diphtheria. It is admitted that this is not a very strong argument, but it is valuable in serving as corroborative evidence as to the boy being free from diphtheria on Oct. 25th. The total number of cases of diphtheria reported among the scholars of the Mason School during the period under consideration, from Oct. 25th to Nov. 20th, was 3, including the Alfredson case. One of these, the second Alfredson boy, was in another room at the school and undoubtedly contracted his disease from his brother on Saturday.

The other one, the Dudley case, came from the same room it is true, but did not develop until 9 days after the Alfredson boy left school and there is a possibility that she may have contracted the disease elsewhere.

In view of its investigations the Board is satisfied that the Agent was not negligent in not disinfecting the room on Oct. 30th, and the charge of negligence is dismissed.

To the question, was it not advisable to have disinfected the room in this case in view of the general demand for such action, and in order to allay public alarm, the answer must be different, and the Board, while denying the necessity, from a protective standpoint, for any such action freely admits that it would have been much better to have disinfected the room in question.

In order to allay public anxiety the Board will in the future disinfect the schools after every case of contagious disease occurring among the pupils although it appreciates that this course will necessarily cause a great disturbance of the school work.

In regard to the charges made against the Agent of the Board to the effect that on Nov. 5th he made a false statement to a citizen about the disinfection of a dressing room in the Mason School, the Board has considered the charge and heard the Agent's statement. The opinion of the Board is that there was an opportunity for misunderstanding between the agent and the gentleman with whom he talked by telephone, and that the Agent was not guilty of making a deliberate false statement.

In regard to the other charges against the Agent, the Board is of the opinion that no further action is necessary.

For the Board of Health,
Francis Geo. Curtis, Chairman.

Nevin Recital

At the Methodist church last Wednesday evening Miss Elsa M. Leonard gave a piano recital of Nevin's music. Her touch was light and in her execution of the various selections she showed a true conception of this composer's delightful work. Miss Laura Rice gave an introductory sketch of Ethelbert Nevin and the assisting artists were Miss Helen Bassett, soprano; Mrs. George Barber, mezzo soprano and Miss Cecil Smith, reader.

Where the Injustice Lies

To the Editor of the Graphic:

There appears to be a feeling in some quarters that it was unwise if not unjust to present upon independent nomination papers a woman candidate for school committee from Ward 7 after a man candidate had been brought forward by the Republican Ward and City Committee.

I make this inference from a brief item in one of our local papers, from reading two communications from the Ward 7 Committee, and from reference to the matter by two individuals. But I can see neither wisdom nor injustice in such action: it is in accordance with a law under which the ward and city committee offer their candidate. If there is any injustice, it lies in the law itself which virtually empowers a ward committee of three or four persons to select the candidates to be voted for by the 7000 voters of the city.

If any have a grievance it is the women who are either thoughtlessly or intentionally ignored in the selection of candidates for the office. The present instance is not exceptional in this regard. The right of women to hold an office in which they can render needful service is infringed when their entrance into it is thus barred.

Either repeal the law which makes women equally responsible with men for the condition of the schools, or give them a fair opportunity to discharge the duty imposed upon them.

I rejoice in the existence of an organized effort to secure a fair proportion of women upon the School Board, and so long as they are ignored in the political party nominations, a wise selection of candidates independent of party, will merit, and will, I believe, receive the support of Newton's citizens.

Geo. A. Walton.
West Newton, Dec. 5, 1905.

A Popular Organization

Bostonians thought there was plenty of cold wave lying around loose this morning and plenty of wind to "drive it in," but the wave didn't come up with one they had in New England a generation ago. Two Vermonters were telling in the Adams House last night what they had heard from their fathers about it. One man from Montpelier said that as the day darkened the candle which furnished the only light in the cabin grew dim. Investigation showed that the wick was burning down, leaving an unmelting cylinder of tallow around it. "But I haven't got through," said he.

"before morning the flame itself froze. You bet we had a narrow escape." Then the man from Eden, Vt., chimed in. "But I think the most remarkable thing about it," he remarked, "was the suddenness with which the blizzard commenced in the mountains. We were having a thunder shower, regular spring weather. Well sir, it began to grow cold in the middle of that thunder storm, the lightning began to cease playing, but that cold wave came on so fast the last small, weak streak of electricity froze just as it struck my father's barn and broke in to crisp, slim fragments, something like icicles. Father kept pieces of that frozen juice for years.

Mr. Mozealous' Concert

A large and representative audience was present in Temple hall, Newtonville, Tuesday evening when a grand concert was given by the Mozart Club under the management of Mr. Henry E. Mozealous. The artists were: Charles Farrington Atwood, tenor; Clifton H. Norris, tenor; Henry Edmund Mozealous, baritone and orchestra pianist; Charles H. Amadon, basso and violinist; Charles H. Prescott, cornetist and musical director and Everett H. Titcomb, piano soloist and accompanist. Each number of the program, which was a most artistic one, was well received and applause requiring encores were frequent.

Dinner at the Brae Burn Club

A dinner was given at the Brae Burn Country Club, Tuesday evening to a number of gentlemen who are interested in the purchase of the Clafin estate at Newtonville for municipal purposes. Considerable enthusiasm was manifested among those present and definite plans adopted for interesting the citizens at large upon the subject. Among those present were Aldermen Frank A. Day, Chas. S. Denison, Chas. E. Riley, Benj. S. Palmer, Edward P. Bosson, Hon. Edward L. Pickard, Mayor elect Edgar W. Warren, Robert S. Gorham, Seward W. Jones, Frank J. Hale, Chas. E. Kelley, S. A. Shamon, Geo. S. Smith, Ernest Winsor, Arthur C. Farley, John R. Prescott, Henry Whitmore, Wm. E. Garcelon and Chas. E. Hatfield.

Universalist Men's Club

The monthly meeting of the Universalist Men's Club was held at the parish house last Monday night with the largest attendance in its history. Its numerical strength was increased by the addition of several new members. After disposing of a good supper, the members indulged in a jolly, good sing with Dudley Fitch at the piano. The address was given by Mr. J. B. Harboure who announced as his topic "Blessed Be Humor." He held his audience spellbound for nearly an hour and a half. If any man had the blues before the lecture began, they were thoroughly dispelled before he had finished his exuberantly witty but nevertheless wise and most helpful address. This club in its central purpose, in its dominating spirit is not a denominational affair, but is decidedly broad-gauged, and undenominational. Its growth has been steady and substantial. It seeks to bring men together in social fellowship; to help them to know and to feel that we are "brethren all;" to enrich the mind with noble truths, to foster high ideals, to promote deeper and truer friendships. Its meetings held the first Monday in the month, are attracting an increasing number of bright, busy men.

Christmas Sale

The Universalists will hold a sale in their parish-house next Thursday and Friday. They will have a great variety of fancy and useful articles, pictures all framed and ready to hang, china, ornaments and embroideries, all suitable for Christmas gifts. Thursday night there will be a turkey supper to be followed by an entertainment given by members of the Tufts College Glee Club. Friday night the supper will consist of chicken salad and escalloped oysters. There will be a children's party, Friday afternoon at three.

Foraging Party

A "Foraging Party" will be held in the vestry of the Methodist Episcopal church, Newton, Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Society. For several weeks the members have been getting their "Plunder Sacks" full of money under instructions to report at Camp Sophronia H. Butters on Wednesday evening. They have been earning their money in all sorts of ways from cooking to blacking boots, sewing and putting on storm windows, selling candy and pop corn. Nearly every one in the church has enlisted in one of the twenty companies, though a few have been acting as scouts and runners. A fine U. S. flag is to be awarded to the captain of the most successful company.

The captains of the twenty companies are: Mr. Albert G. Barber, Mrs. D. F. Barber, Mrs. F. O. Barber, Miss Mina Berry, Miss Helen Blackwell, Mrs. Geo. S. Butters, Miss C. M. Cushman, Mrs. Ada Davidson, Mr. Edward Earle, Mrs. Chas. Lawrence, Miss Grace B. Leonard, Mr. John Little, Miss Eliza McPhee, Miss Rachael Rice, Mr. Rupert Thompson, Miss Eva Viles, Miss Eva Warren, Miss Winona Webster, Mrs. A. R. Weed and Miss Mabel P. Whitman.

The entertainment Wednesday evening will include illustrated scenes of life in camp with war songs and stories, vocal and cornet solos. The captains and privates will report the success of their expeditions, prizes and medals will be awarded and hard tack and coffee will be served to all. Everyone bringing a plunder sack will be admitted free; others will be subject to a trial by court martial and sentenced to pay a fine. The proceeds will enrich the treasury of the Ladies' Society.

Jackson-Bosworth

A pretty home wedding occurred at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. N. Fred Bosworth, 12 Cross street, Thursday afternoon, when their daughter Lillian was united in marriage to Mr. Fred Jackson of Portland, Me. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry Patrick, D. D. The bride was attractively gowned in a wine colored broadcloth travelling suit. Immediately after the wedding the happy couple left for New York. After their return they will reside at 41 Stone street, Portland, Maine.

Fugue and Oration Guilman

Recital.

A large and appreciative audience gathered at the beautiful home of Mrs. Warren F. Gregory, Walnut street, Newtonville, on Monday evening to hear Mrs. Blanche C. Martin's presentation of Justin H. McCarthy's "If I were King." The dramatization, Mrs. Martin's own work, was particularly good, while her rendering of the whole was of high order, her impersonation of the King was especially fine. Mrs. Martin is a reader of attractive personality and possesses great dramatic ability. The evening was a benefit for the Newton Associated Charities.

About Town

How many of Newton's men and women realize the dormant but increasing power which is represented in the large numbers of children who pass through the streets to and from school. As Bishop John H. Vincent has aptly said, "The Children of Today are Heirs of Tomorrow." Give the children the best care and education possible for among them are future mayors, governors, teachers and possibly one or two presidents.

One of Newton's representative citizens, the other day, gave a pretty bright reason for so much warm weather. He stated that it was because the gulf stream had strayed from its course and had come up the Charles river. The cold weather which followed was the natural consequence when the stream returned to its usual channel.

Two young girls from New York have been in this vicinity the past week on a holiday. Figuratively speaking they have painted the "Hub of the Universe" a lurid red, have seen all the places of historic interest, ridden on all the street car lines and are unanimous in the opinion that Newton is "just too sweet for anything."

In a recent issue of one of the Boston papers mentioning the fact that Hon. J. M. W. Hall, a former mayor of Cambridge, was moving to Newton stated that it was unusual for a man, who had been the official head of a city, to move elsewhere. This is at least the second case here, however, for among Newton's most representative citizens is Hon. W. H. Furbur, ex-mayor of Somerville.

Castle Square Theatre

Castle Square Theatre—For the further convenience of the patrons of the Castle Square Theatre, branch box-offices have been established for the sale of seats at various places throughout the suburbs. Newton patrons may hereafter purchase tickets at the Woodman News Co., where choice seats may be secured without extra charge. The downtown office in Boston will be continued as heretofore at 15 Winter street.

Boston Theatre

Boston Theatre—"Fantana," the most successful musical comedy of the last five years, is the holiday attraction at the Boston Theatre, beginning Monday, December 18. Needless to state, the play's star, Jefferson De Angeles, has scored a hit, being one of the best comedians now before the American public. The attraction comes to Boston after a run of nine months in New York and five months in Chicago. It is something of a record that the star has not missed a single performance, though suffering at one time from the severe effects of an automobile accident. "Fantana" is the work of the late Sam. S. Shubert and Robert B. Smith, and the music was written by Raymond Hubbell. It was staged under the direction of R. H. Burasade, while the best artists in the country provided the massive scenes. In "Fantana" Mr. De Angeles has been fortunate in securing a congenial role, the opportunities of which he thoroughly realizes. His chief assistant in the funmaking is Miss Toby Claude, the little woman who will be remembered for her excellent work in "A Chinese Honeymoon." The company also includes Julia Sanderson, the new beauty, Hubert Wilke, Frank Rushworth, William Blaisdell, Robert Broderick and many others. The chorus is large and liberally endowed with good looks and good voices. The Messrs. Shubert will bring the entire company, scenic equipment and stage accessories to Boston. Seats for "Fantana" will go on sale next Monday morning.

"It has a flavor all its own."

panied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be

An important policy to be settled next Tuesday will be that of pensioning city employees. While the question at issue this year is that for firemen only it involves the entire civic service, as a pension granted to firemen will inevitably lead to similar action for the police and other departments in the future.

Viewed in this general light the subject is a serious one and cannot but lead to heavy expenses in the years to come if approved by the people. As a specific matter, however, the question in its present form is almost trivial. The act to be voted upon allows pensions to but two classes of firemen,—those who are 65 years of age and over and who have served 20 years, and those who have served 20 years and are incapacitated from further service. These cases would probably not be numerous. We assume that our citizens would be only too glad to vote pensions to firemen injured while in the performance of their duty, but this is impossible under the act in question unless the person has also served the city as a fireman for 20 years. The poor fellow, who might be permanently injured at a fire, but who has served less than 20 years would not be benefited by the acceptance of the act.

Citizens are requested to bear these facts in mind when voting next Tuesday.

The GRAPHIC supports the candidacy of Dr. Deborah Fawcett for the position of school committee from Ward seven for these reasons:—

First—Because her election will bring to the school committee a professional knowledge which it now lacks, while the success of her opponent will simply add to the plethora of business ability which the committee already possesses.

Second—Because a woman naturally takes a greater interest in the material side of school work and its practical application to the lives and health of the children.

Third—Because the women are clearly entitled to another representative on the committee, not only as their fair proportion of the total registered vote, but for their much greater interest in school affairs.

Fourth—Because the women were not given a square deal before the primary election.

Fifth—Because the nomination of her opponent was brought about by a parlor caucus before the public knew that a vacancy had occurred.

Next Tuesday the voters will cast their ballots "Yes" or "No" on the question of electing our City Auditor for terms of three years instead of annually as at present. We fancy the question will not be regarded as very important for our genial City Auditor, Mr. Benjamin F. Otis has been re-elected to that position for thirty years, and it is the established policy of the city to continue faithful servants in office.

On the principal involved, however,
we hope the ballot will be strongly affirmative. Newton has always enjoyed a reputation for leadership in matters of improvement in the civil service and any step towards eliminating political influences on clerical positions should be endorsed. Vote YES on this question.

A significant fact in the controversy over Dr. Fawcett's residence in this city, is that her name appears in the directory for 1901, while that of Rev. Mr. Smith, who has already served in the school committee for two years, and for whose place Dr. Fawcett is a candidate, does not appear at all. Rev. Mr. Smith became a voter in October, 1902, and was elected to the school committee in the fall of 1903.

We hope that the lightness of the vote at the city election will not affect the emphatic stand which this city has always taken on the matter of NO license.

There is always danger that a minority may occasionally obtain a victory in just such an election as is booked for next week. Don't forget to vote NO.

Brookline sells water to its citizens for twenty cents per 1000 gallons. Newton charges thirty-five cents. The water department in 1900 will be self supporting. Reduce the water rates.

Next Wednesday evening the Boys' Department will give to its intermediate members and their friends an entertainment followed by a basket ball game.
The purpose of this "Social Evening" is to interest the older fellows who are not already members in the work. Each member is invited to bring one friend.
The entertainer will be Brignati, a skillful magician, who comes highly recommended from other associations where he has performed. The intermediate basket ball game in the "gym" follows immediately after the entertainment, Newton playing an outside team.

The Ping Pong Tournament closes at 6 p. m. Saturday and the last days are full of excitement, for the contestants have but a very small margin between them and the loss of a game may put one of the leaders at the bottom. At present Gilfeather leads with Decker and Newcomb tied for second, and Barrows third. Schedules have been sent to each contestant assigning a time for playing and games are forfeited unless played at that time.

The Sunday Meetings are constantly improving under the direction of Robert Ringrose and his committee. The speakers are the best. Next Sunday Rev.
E. D. Burr of Newton Centre will occupy the time and a solo will be given by Lenard Edwards. All boys over fourteen years of age are welcome at this service.

Neighborhood Night

The Neighborhood Nights which occur monthly during the winter season at the Hunnewell Club are about the most enjoyable occasions of club life.

On these Neighborhood nights the club is thrown open to the members, their friends, wives and sweethearts and in the ladies' parlor, during the first part of the evening, an excellent musical program provided. After this program has been given, refreshments are served by the ladies of the club in the card rooms and for those who desire, music for informal dancing is provided in the upper hall.

The first Neighborhood Night of the season was on last Tuesday evening and the musical portion of the program was under the direction of Mr. A. H. Handley.

The artists were Ernest W. Harrison,
Carl W. Dodge, 'cellist and Miss Mabel
L. Fehmer, soprano.

The program rendered was after the English style of a musicale, that is, with the exception of two of the vocal numbers accompanied by string obligati, all of the renditions were in the form of solos, no ensemble or concerted numbers being played.

The opening number on the program was a piano solo, Salmon's "Tarantelle Fantastique." Mr. Ernest W. Harrison gave this number in excellent, broad style and especially marked were the Bravura and Staccato of fortissimo passages.

The second number was a 'cello solo
"Chanson Napolitaine" by Saint Saens.
This was the first appearance on the concert platform in Newton of Mr. Carl Dodge and this number served well as his introduction. He rendered it with excellent taste the laughter passages of this Chanson being tastefully executed.

The third number was a vocal rendition by Miss Mabel L. Fehmer. It is seldom that such vocal work is heard in the concert parlor and she received a hearty encore after the singing of her first number, the Jewel Song from Faust.

The fourth number on the program was a violin solo by William F. Dodge.
Mr. Dodge is well known in Newton and his appearance is always sufficient to bring out marked applause. As his first offering he played "Polonaise Brilliante" by Wienawski. His work in this particular number showed him at his best. His playing, his technique, his style in fact, everything done, leaves little to be desired. As an encore number he gave an old favorite "Traumeri" played with his instrument muted.

Miss Fehmer was the next to appear and she sang two numbers, the first with violin obligato, Gounod's "Sing Smile Slumber." It was in this number that Miss Fehmer completely won her audience and the sweetness with which she gave this favorite berceuse called forth much applause. Her next selection was "Damon" by Max Stange. This was also artistically given and as an encore she sang Nevin's "Rosary" with violin and 'cello obligato.

In commenting upon the work of Miss Fehmer, it would not be fair to judge her entirely by her work of Tuesday evening for she was at a great disad-vantage, the ladies' parlor of the club being really small and not acoustically good to sing ambitious and classical numbers such as Gounod's "Jewel Song."
It is a number far better adapted to a larger place. But even so, there is but little to criticize for her style is excellent and her work shows much careful training and that bane of so many dramatic singers, poor enunciation, is absent.

The next number was Godard's "Berceuse" from Jocelyn for 'cello. It was in this number that Mr. Carl Dodge showed his ability. As an encore number he gave Saint Saens' "Swan Song," a number accompanied by many dainty arpeggios from the piano the whole being a theme of tasteful composition and rendition.

As his second number, Mr. William F. Dodge played the "Prelude to the Deluge" by Saint Saens. It is seldom that such playing has been heard in Newton on the violin. As an encore he gave us the ever popular "Overtures" a number full of brilliancy, rather after the Spanish school.

An innovation was introduced into the program here. The two brothers rendered the "Cavaleria" as a duet, without piano accompaniment, the 'cello taking the solo and the harmony or accompaniment taken by the violin.

It was certainly a pleasing innovation and its reception by the hearers was well deserved.

The final number on the program was one for the piano "Theme and Variations et Fugato" by Schmitt. Mr. Harrison played this number in excellent scholarly style. Especially in the andante passages where the softer and sweeter movements abounded did he show his musically ability.

After the musicale, refreshments were served in the card rooms, the tables being presided over by Miss Loring, assisted by Miss Coppins, Miss Angier, Miss Elms, Miss Alden, Miss Haskell and Miss Emery.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

$2000 Paid the City for Pole Rights in Needham

Electric Light Company Granted Important Privileges

The regular meeting of the aldermen was held Monday evening President Saltonstall in the chair. Present, Aldermen Bishop, Bosson, Bowen, Brown, Cabot, Carter, Day, Dennison, Doherty, Ellis, Ensign, Hunt, Palmer, Riley, Stone, Underwood, Webster, Weston and White. Absent, Alderman Baker.

Alderman Doherty was designated by the President to draw three jurors for the Superior Court, at Cambridge Dec. 11 and the names of Charles A. Haskell, Sargent street, Joseph A. Nevins, Nevada street, and Chauncey B. Allen, Charlesbank road were taken from the box.

FROM THE MAYOR.

These communications were received from the Mayor:—

Submitting new draft of ordinances for consideration of board. Referred to Committee on Rules, etc.

Recommending certain transfers of appropriations in the Health, School and Street departments. Referred to Finance Committee.

Relative to petition to General Court as to authorizing hearings on poles and wires petitions before committee instead of full board. Referred to Committee on Rules, etc.

Relative to method of lighting Boylston street by street railway company. Received.

HEARINGS.

Hearings were held upon the following petitions of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company for pole locations.

President Saltonstall stated that these petitions had been filed at the request of the Mayor in order that a change in the method of street lighting from oil to electricity might be made in the districts named.

On Clinton street, Mr. James Cannon spoke in favor of the petition saying that the residents of this street had tried for years to better the locality and had filed a petition for better lights over a year ago. The present condition is not creditable to the city and it was not safe for our daughters to come home after dark. He invited the board to visit the street after it had adjourned and see the spectacles of lights which are had to find. Mr. Cannon did not care where the poles were placed as long as something was to be done.

Mr. Chas. Doherty, for his mother, entered an objection to having the poles placed on his side of the street. The hearing was closed.

No one appeared at hearings on the following streets:

Shamrock street. Letter of protest filed.

Brookline street. Telephone message in favor received from Rev. Lyman W. King.

Dedham st.,—Lincoln road,—Florence st.,—Stearns st.,—Cotton st.,—Kenrick st.,—Park ave.,—Ivanhoe st., and Centre st. at Jefferson st.

No one appeared at the hearing on petition of N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. for attachments on Marlboro street.

At the hearing on petition of the same company for pole locations on Madison avenue, Mr. T. M. Greene, for the company stated that the poles were intended to allow the company to reach a subscriber on this street. In reply to an inquiry of Mr. T. R. Russell as to underground, Mr. Greene said that it would take too much time to explain all the reasons why the company could not afford to run a few hundred feet of underground to accommodate one subscriber. The company was expending $50,000 a year in underground work in Newton in a systematic manner and it would be impossible to take up unattached bits of work such as the present petition called for.

Mr. Russell said it was always harder to pull down than to put up and he saw no good reason why this work should not be underground.

The hearing was closed and all papers on the above hearings were referred to the Committee on Public Franchises etc.

WALTHAM ST. TREES.

At the hearing on removal of certain trees on Waltham street, Mr. Warren Kilburn said he was perfectly willing that the trees marked on their side of the street should be taken down. He called attention to the location of the street light at the corner of Eliot avenue which was in line with the trees and cast a black shadow along the street. He suggested that this light be moved five or six feet into Eliot avenue.

Mr. Austin S. Kilburn said he appeared for Mr. J. A. Potter and quoted Mrs. Martin as being willing to allow the trees in front of her property removed. Mr. Kilburn said it was too bad to remove the fine elm tree in the sidewalk in front of the Ellis place.

Mr. Albert E. Bailey said the reasons given for the removal of these trees were inadequate. He had no objection to the taking down of the small trees marked, but did object most decidedly to the removal of the beautiful elm at the Ellis place. He believed that unless substantial reasons were given the tree had a right to stay where it was. There is no travel to speak of on that street and what there is can easily pass this tree even if they cannot walk two abreast. The tree is a thing of beauty which the city ought to appreciate.

Mr. O. C. Dow said he rather no trees would be removed, and as no reasons had been stated he objected to removal.

Mrs. O. F. Ellis said she was the owner of the elm tree, and from what had been said she hoped the board would not have it taken down.

A remonstrance to the taking down of this tree signed by O. F. Ellis et al was read and filed. The hearing was then closed and the matter referred to the Committee on Public Works.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To Committee on Claims. Notices of injury on account of defective highway on Boylston street from Wm. H. Rust and Maud E. Potter.

To Committee on Public Franchises etc. Of Hans L. Tange to move building to Prairie avenue; Emma J. Morse for Common Victualler license; Morris Greenwald for Junk license; Mrs. L. A. Diamond for Intelligence office license; Geo. F. Greene, Roy S. Buck, Jos. T. Burelli for minors' licenses.

Petitions of the N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. for pole locations on Bacon, Bowers, Boylston, Central, Commonwealth ave., Dedham, Fairfax, Sterling, Fuller, Hammond, Homer, Hovey, Thornton, Walnut, Madison ave., Stearns and Sylvan ave., on Williams st., for relocation on Beacon st. and for attachments on Reservoir ave., Emerson st., Chestnut st., River st., Hawthorne ave., and on numerous other streets, were referred to the same committee and hearings ordered for Dec. 18 at 7:45 P. M.

Petitions of John T. Burns, John A. Potter and John Flood for Auctioneers licenses were granted without reference, the fee in the last case being remitted.

An order abolishing the committees on Rules, Departments and Claims and establishing a new Committee on Claims, Rules etc was referred to the Committee on Rules.

These reports were received: From Committee on Public Works recommending removal of certain trees on Chase street.

From Committee on Public Franchises etc. favorable to granting N. E. Tel. & Tel. From Committee on Public Franchises etc. favorable to granting certain petitions of N. & W. Gas Light Co for pole locations.

Reports of this committee recommending no further action on petitions of the N. & W. Gas Light Co on Hancock st., Washington st., ward 3, Suffolk road, and Linwood ave., granting N. & W. Gas Light Company conduit locations in Walnut, Centre and Winchester sts and certain pole rights across water works land in Needham on payment of $2,000; rescinding order appropriating $250 additional for Evening Schools, and authorizing removal of certain trees on Chase st.

These orders were read twice and adopted:

Appropriating $125 for settlement of claim of International Automobile Vehicle and Tire Company on account of Boylston st.; and authorizing certain transfers of appropriations in the Health, School and Street departments. And at 9:20 P. M. the board adjourned.

Communication

Mr. Editor:—

I congratulate you upon the editorial in the GRAPHIC of December 1st, endorsing Miss Fawcett for membership on the School Board. The only contest before the voters at the coming city election is between Mr. Stebbins and Miss Dr. Fawcett, and the only question involved that is worthy of a moment's consideration by the voters of the city is—shall the School Board be composed as at present of 14 men and 1 woman, or shall the women have a fair representation upon the School Board as the statute law intended they should have. If the women are to gain their just rights it is evident they must get them under existing conditions by independent action, for the Managers of the Republican party in our city have not, thus far furthered the cause of woman representation upon the School Board. * * * In the interest of the women, of fair play, and of our public schools, I make this appeal.

I feel sure that the best interests of our political parties, as well as of our public schools, will be served by electing Miss Dr. Fawcett to the School Board, and giving the one woman member upon that Board an associate to enable the women to do more effective work than one woman alone can accomplish. We never can realize the best results in the management of our public schools until women have a fair representation upon the School Board. Home, church, society, public charitable institutions, and the public schools require the presence and influence of woman in order to accomplish their best work.

The day has passed when the old cry that women are not capable of transacting business has any effect, for the public records prove that properly selected women are the equal of men in all such public work, and if all that has been printed about Miss Dr. Fawcett is true, the city of Newton is fortunate in being able to secure her experience and valuable service upon the School Board, and the women are to be congratulated upon presenting so able a champion for their cause. * * *

New Quarters

That the Bay State Automobile Association is preparing for an active and interesting winter season is evidenced on every hand. During the months of riding the club has been at the front in everything that pertains to the sport and its advancement, and now it is preparing for the winter season.

In acquiring the casino of the Woodland Park Hotel the club secured excellent out of town quarters, and at the same time a home where it can entertain its members and friends with something of interest to a greater extent than ever. This casino is the same that in years gone by occupied a prominent position among the clubs of this section, and is equipped with one of the best bowling alleys to be found hereabout. The billiard and pool room is also included in the section leased, and under the new arrangements will prove decidedly attractive.

These quarters are in the beaten path of the motorists, and, being within 10 miles riding distance of the State House will make a nice short enjoyable run at times when the weather will not permit of long trips with any degree of comfort. The great trouble has been to secure a place on the highways where motorists could secure what they desire without having to pay 100 per cent. more than is usually charged to the transient guest. The new arrangements will give the members exactly this, as well as provide a place where smokers and other social events can be held during the winter season without conflicting with the arrangements of others.

The new quarters will be dedicated with a big smoker, arrangements for which are to be immediately undertaken by the entertainment committee, consisting of J. H. MacAlman, W. W. Burke, William Gray, Harry W. Knights and J. C. Kerrison and then will follow the annual dinner of the association. Whist parties and ladies' nights will also be considered in arranging the schedule for the winter months, and there is no question but that the association will remain just as active, if not more so, during the months of frost and snow as it has been since its inception.

How's Your Hair?

Arthur Hudson Announces
That He Has at Last Secured a Cure for Hair Troubles.

We beg to announce to the people of Newton that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years. We refer to the prescription of Sir Erasmus Wilson, M. D., England's most successful specialist in diseases of the scalp, who was knighted for his many successes in the treatment of skin and scalp. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson this prescription was secured by American chemists and is now offered to the public under the name of Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow hair on bald heads even after all else fails. Unlike other hair preparations it is not sticky or greasy, but gives a live and glossy appearance to the hair. Miss Cornelia Stevens, 6 Smith Ave., Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly bald. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." If you are growing bald, troubled with eruptions, dandruff, scales or a dry scalp, try Dr. Wilson's Life to the Hair. Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., proprietors. Sold by Arthur Hudson, 285 Washington St. Price 50 cents.

in large-mindedness. The college has done its duty when it sends forth women who have learned how to use their minds, for such women will adapt themselves easily to the life they are called upon to lead. * * *

The colleges have supplied their graduates with brain power and the moral purpose which have made them quick to make these applications for themselves. After all, spiritual forces are the things that tell. The world is more in need of large-souled women than of cooks.

"Make her an intellectual woman," said Charles Dudley Warner long ago, in answer to an anxious mother's query as to what she should do with her daughter. Let that be the business of the college,—to seek first the kingdom of knowledge, to train minds, to awaken great enthusiasms, to produce genuine scholarship: the rest will be, as it has been, added thereto.

If any one still asks, "When are girls going to learn to be thrifty?" Since housekeeping and cooking do not come by nature, nor general common sense and manual dexterity, let the scientists answer who have discovered that the motor nerves must be developed before sixteen if they are ever to be; at home, say they, and at school, in childhood, at the same time that boys are learning to chop wood and build fires; college needs only to supply the motive, not by courses in bread-making and classes in kindergarten, but by allaying women's work with the great social and intellectual factors that move mankind, and by setting the seal of science on both the school-room and the home.

The question at stake is the highest efficiency and greatest success; and I believe, if we had to choose, it would be better for women to take up housekeeping and to become wives and mothers without preparation other than that given by the training of the intelligence in a college course than for them to lessen their intellectual efficiency by practical courses which do not make for practice. Those who advocate such courses lose sight of the use that may be made of such wholesale practical training: if matters of principle can be evolved during the course, so much is gained; if principles are to be applied, such application naturally differs in the college course and in the home. The four years of undergraduate life are practically the only mature years left in which one may survey the world irresponsibly. I believe sincerely that efficiency in the real work of after-life is best attained by those four years of indirect pursuit of it.

There has been an attempt in this paper to show that college education should apply equally to men and women; that within certain wide limits we agree upon a fund of common and desirable knowledge; that the fund of human knowledge is so great and the time so short that some subjects formerly deemed essential, because "practical," must now be relegated to the list of special studies; that, while all principles of science and sociology should be most carefully laid down, their application must be left to the individual.

Editor of the Graphic:

Dear Sir—

Allow me to say that the Federation of Women's Clubs cannot represent 1100 women for I am one of the 1100 members, and the Federation does not represent me in any political way and never can, so there could only be 1099. "And what is one among so many?"

STAMP WITH PIOUS DEVICES

SEVERAL SERIES DECORATED WITH RELIGIOUS THEMES.

Washington Nov. 30.—Since the foundation of the postal system there has not appeared upon any American postage stamp a single symbol or character of a religious nature except the incidental figure of Marquette, as a teacher of the Indians, which was depicted on the one cent denomination of the Transmississippi fair stamps of 1898. On the other hand, the stamps of Abyssinia all portray the cross.

Religious emblems and scenes are common upon the stamps of other countries, and many of the most beautiful stamps have as their central figure some religious symbol or figure or an illustration of Bible times.

The little island of Malta, upon which the Apostle Paul was shipwrecked, recently issued a series of stamps, extremely artistic in conception and execution, which portray the experiences of the Apostle. The ten shilling stamp, which is as large as two American stamps, depicts the scene of the attack upon St. Paul by the asp.

In the distance is the wrecked ship. A fire by the seashore, the snake stretching its head out from a pile of wood, the Apostle stretching his hands toward heaven and two persons sporting in the sea are all brought out with distinctiveness upon this postage stamp. Other stamps of the series portray other features of Malta.

Perhaps the most elaborately worked out conception of a religious theme upon upon postage stamps was developed by Portugal. Upon the occasion of the 700th anniversary of the birth of St. Anthony of Padua a special set of stamps devoted to St. Anthony was brought out.

The lowest denomination, having a value of less than one-third of one cent, represents St. Anthony's vision; the child Jesus appearing in the clouds, and the saint upon his knees with outstretched arms.

The second design, which is used for five values of stamps, represents the miracle of the fish. The legend runs that the saint was once in the town of Arimini, where there were many heretics. Desiring to convert them St. Anthony preached to them, but they stopped their ears and turned away, whereupon the saint left them in disgust and went to the seashore, where he called upon the fishes to come and hear him.

Immediately a great multitude of fish, all sizes, from whales to minnows, appeared, poking their heads out of water, listening while he delivered a sermon. The stamps depict the saint standing on the seashore and innumerable fishes with their heads protruding from the water.

The third design shows St. Anthony ascending, accompanied by an angel on each side, into heaven. The fourth design is what is said to be an authentic portrait of the saint as found in the Academy of fine Arts in Paris. His right hand is raised in a blessing and in his left hand he holds a lily. A curious feature of these stamps is that upon the back of each is a prayer, in Latin, offering thanks to God for blessings received.

The stamps of the Papal States of the Church of Rome are of a uniform type, with variations in detail. All have the insignia of the Popes—the triple tiara and the crossed keys. These stamps were issued and used between 1852 and 1868. They have been reprinted and counterfeited, but the genuine originals are not common.

One of the most beautiful stamps to be found in the album of any collector is the 5 drachma denomination of the island of Crete, picturing the fight of St. George with the dragon.

Various types of crosses are common on stamps of European countries, appearing upon coats of arms. Portugal issued a stamp for the Red Cross Society. It is a black stamp with a red cross upon a white shield in the centre, and is without denomination.

All the stamps of early Switzerland had a white cross upon a red shield as the central feature. On the Venezuelan stamp commemorating the discovery of the mainland of South America the cross has a prominent place, as well as upon the stamps commemorating the discovery of Brazil.

A white cross upon a black shield, supplemented by the motto: "Light in Darkness," forms the striking symbol on the stamps of British Central Africa. The Maltese cross is found on the stamps of Malta.

Upon the stamps of Turkey the star and crescent are always found. The star has been a Turkish symbol from time immemorial and the crescent since the conquest of Constantinople in 1453. The star and crescent form a religious emblem just the same as the tiger head is the Moslem illustration of the saying: "Trust in God and keep your powder dry."

Mythology plays its part on stamps. The various gods and goddesses of the ancient Greeks finding expression on the stamps of the Greece of today. Mercury, the messenger of the gods, has always been the principal figure on Grecian stamps.

Austria used the head of Mercury on its newspaper stamps, and the late issue of Uruguay depicts this familiar figure on its 50 cent denomination. The stamps of the United States formerly mailed by publishers at pound rates had as their central figures many goddesses, including agriculture, wisdom, victory, history, youth, &c.

Zoroaster's doctrine of fire worship is depicted upon Persian stamps in the representation of the sun shining through a beautiful Oriental window, and similar designs are found on the stamps of Peru.

Nearly all Chinese stamps bear dragons, hideous beyond description, as their central figures. Other stamps depict great pagodas and sacred towers, being supposed to guard the "luck" of a place and propitiate the spirits and frighten away the evil ones. The one on the stamp of Hankow is the Yellow Stork pagoda.

A jolly and altogether delightful way of making Christmas candies is with a chafing dish or two and a tableful of guests. All join in and make of the candy making a frolic and entertainment. In making candies granulated sugar is preferable. Candy should not be stirred while boiling. Cream of tartar should not be added until the sirup begins to boil. Butter should be put in when candy is almost done. Flavors are more delicate when not boiled in candy, but added afterward. Butter the hands to prevent sticking when pulling candy.

An oddity for the Christmas tree in the shape of dolls may be made of chocolate creams. Take one bonbon for the head and two more for the body. Each one should be seared by a toothpick. Pinch one side of the chocolate cream until it looks something like a nose. Cut out a piece on either side for eyes, make another slash for the mouth, then with a toothpick make imitation hair on the Topsy. Dress in a crisp red paper gown, with a black sash, and suspend from the tree with black baby ribbon.

Green Pea Soup—Put the empty pods of a half peck of peas into a gallon of water, and boil for an hour. Then strain, put in four pounds of chopped beef, and boil slowly for an hour and a half. Then add the peas; boil half an hour, adding ten minutes before serving a half cup of rice flour, salt, pepper, and chopped parsley. Strain into a hot tureen.

Just Mention It

It pays the buyer to buy from an advertiser and to say he saw the article advertised in this or that paper. The man who mentions an advertisement when buying goods really gets the best possible service, even better than the regular customer when this is possible. Why? Simply because the advertiser pays good money for his advertisement and he is glad to hear from it. It is a compliment to his good business judgment.

TWO IN ITALY.

By Maud Howe, author of "Roma Beata." With six full-page illustrations from drawings by John Elliott. Crown 8vo. Cloth, gilt top, $2.00 net.

In this charming volume the author of "Roma Beata"—a pronounced holiday success last season and still a deservedly popular book—continues her delightful Italian studies and sketches. By temperament as well as by training the author is particularly fitted to depict Italian life sympathetically and intelligently. "Two in Italy" contains the following chap-

How to Decorate the Table.

The Christmas dinner table may be elaborately decorated, says the New York Globe, but it should first of all express good cheer. A generous bowl of shining apples is sometimes as beautiful as costly lace or satin and American Beauty roses at this season.

Another effective table has for a centerpiece a Jerusalem cherry tree, with many berries, the earthen pot being concealed by tissue papers matching the red fruit, bound in place by a bit of green ribbon. This in turn is practically concealed by a mass of fruit—oranges, ap-pieces from drawings by Henry Sandham. With an introduction by Susan Coolidge. Crown 8vo. Decorated cloth, in box, $2.00. Half crushed morocco, gilt top, $4.00.

A new popular illustrated edition of Helen Jackson's famous romance of Southern California, with a series of full page plates, and numerous interesting and suggestive chapter headings, all from drawings by the noted artist, Henry Sandham, who some years since accompanied Mrs. Jackson to California, and was with her when she planned "Ramona," which has long since become an American classic. BALINGTOS.

Book of striking originality and power, and of intense human interest. It has a double drama in the lives of two married pairs, in one of which the husband holds the purse, in the other the wife. In the one financial despotism makes the situation insupportable, in the other the wife's refusal to recognize her husband's mainy resolution to be independent. We have rarely seen a picture more accurate in detail, more logical in consequences, more true in all its coloring, more subtle in every "nuance" than this of the wedded life of Ferdinand and Agnes Bellington. The writer has felt and thought deeply, with the result of a wonderfully true presentation of marriage under certain conditions, and of the inevitable effect upon a woman's character. There is never a point where the author swerves from absolute truth. Take it all in all, it is the most remarkable novel that has come to our desk for many a long day.

A decoration for an evening dinner is a tiny tree whose many candles furnish the entire light for the table and whose branches bear nuts, bunches of raisins and crystallized fruits, the whole made glittering by the use of a very little cotton sprinkled with diamond dust.

At a more formal dinner a slender glass vase whose base just fills the center of a holly wreath may stand upon a white damask cloth. The branches of specially chosen holly which fill it are so high that they do not interfere with the guests seeing one another. Four candles in glass candlesticks are shaded by shades, to which tiny bunches of holly are fixed. In and out around the central vase and the four lights graceful curves are traced on the cloth in holly leaves, gathered at the corners in festoon fashion with a stiff rosette of scarlet ribbon. The use of ribbon, not usually desirable at table, is in this case quite justified by the results, and the effect is enhanced by the use of name cards, to which sprigs of holly are attached by ribbon knots. An amusing feature of this dinner might be the serving of the Christmas goose, accompanied by an appropriate verse for each guest from the misery Mother Goose book.

A very artistic Christmas dinner table is one in which mistletoe is prominently used. The table linen is of ecru tint and the round table accentuated by dividing off its centre from the edge, where the utensils are set, by a wreath effect executed in the wide colored shades of galax leaves. These are sewed flat on a piece of tape and secured to the cloth by occasional pins. At four equally distant parts of this circle are placed cups, seemingly of mistletoe, but really of stiff paper, to which the mistletoe is sewed. In each of these is placed a candle of ecru wax, unshaded, like those of our ancestors. A delicate line of mistletoe leads from these candles to the centre of the table, where is placed a flat bed of the same waxlike flowers, from which rises a highly polished brass loving cup. This the edges of the petals just touched with dark tints suggestive of the galax coloring and so few in number that the beauty of each rose can be fully appreciated.

How to Distribute Small Gifts.

One of the prettiest suggestions for distributing small Christmas gifts is to have them imbedded in artificial oranges. This may be done with muslin or paper, and though many of the articles will not fit the receptacles they can be made to do so by a little padding with cotton or tissue paper. Orange colored crepe paper makes the most realistic oranges. They are not only pleasing to the children as novelties, but add greatly to the appearance of the tree itself. They should be suspended from the tree by orange satin ribbon or by braided lengths of crepe paper, which is more effective to carry out the idea. When nesting among the dark green boughs of the tree they look exceedingly pretty and suggestive.

MUSIC BOOKS FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

As a Christmas gift to a lover of music there is nothing more appropriate than an attractive volume of vocal or instrumental music. In their new illustrated catalogues entitled "Musical Gift Books" the Oliver Ditson Company offers a wide variety for selection. Books of songs and of music for the piano, organ, violin and other instruments are included. The books of music for children are a source of endless delight to the little ones. Their Musician's Library series will please the most exacting musician. The prices of many of the books are not more than 50 cents, including postage to any address. Some of the volumes are artistically bound in cloth at prices ranging from $1.00 to $2.00. Full descriptions and pictures of every book are given.

A postal card addressed to the Oliver Ditson Company, 151 Tremont Street, Boston, will bring a copy of "Musical Gift Books" free of charge.

Coming Attractions

Keith's Theatre—The special attention of amusement seekers throughout New England is directed to the large number of European attractions which are appearing at Keith's Boston theatre from time to time. Patrons of Keith's can be assured that there is nothing new or novel in the world of vaudeville that they do not have the opportunity of witnessing, oftentimes in advance of amusement seekers of even larger cities of the country. The list of attractions announced for the week of Dec. 11 is a notable one fully up to the standard of those which have preceded it this season. Prominent on the bill will be found the Ellinore Sisters, America's foremost Comedienne, late of "Mrs. Delaney of Newport," and who have not been seen at this theatre in four years; James J. Morton, "a fellow of infinite jest" and one of the best monologists in the business; Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Crane, in a pretty little episode entitled, "A Yankee's Love for Dixie"; the Musical Johnsons, talented and marvelous ventriloquist power stamp him as one of the foremost entertainers in his line appearing in vaudeville; Sylvane, a skilful European equilibrist, specially imported for the Keith circuit; Les Durands, Parisian street singers and musicians; Louis Guertin, the champion jumper of the world, in a novel exhibition, and Eddie Russell and Edna Tillyne, in a comedy and singing skit. The customary new list of comedy and interesting motion pictures will be exhibited in the kinetograph.

Grand Opera House—Next week's attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House will be Lincoln J. Carter's latest production, "The Eye Witness." As is customary with Mr. Carter's productions, each new play outlasts all previous efforts. "The Eye Witness" is no exception to the rule, for in this piece Mr. Carter has certainly outdone himself in the most sumptuous scenic effect ever produced. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Tremont Theatre—Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan Company in "Leah Kleschna" have begun at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, what promises to be the most brilliant of the many engagements Mrs. Fiske has played there. The play has duplicated the immense hit it made in New York and other cities. It is a real play, absorbing in story, true to life, rich in intensely dramatic scenes and in striking character types and strong in heart interest. Mrs. Fiske has never had a more popular offering. "Leah Kleschna" appeals to every class of theatre-goer. The acting has received even higher praise than the play. Mrs. Fiske's acting in the title role rivals her Tess and Becky Sharp. She gives a superb character study, that calls into play all the subtlety and emotional power that makes her art so great. The Manhattan Company, directed by Mrs. Fiske, is unquestionably the best dramatic organization that Boston has seen in this generation. Not a role but what is admirably played; the artistic finish of the entire performance is unapproached. Most conspicuous in the company are John Mason, George Arliss, Frederic de Belleville and William B. Mack, four sterling actors who share with Mrs.

Fiske the most important roles in the play, and offer with her finest acting now to be seen in the American theatre. No star has been surrounded with such a group of players. It is in fact if not in name an "All-star cast." Some of the players are Charles Balsar, Claus Bogel, John Emerson, Charles Terry, Emily Stevens, Fernanda Elisca, Bell Bohn and Mary Maddern. The play is beautifully staged, the last scene, showing the lettuce fields, being a gem. The engagement is for three weeks, with matinees on Saturday only. Seats for all performances are on sale.

Literary Notes.

DECEMBER NATIONAL.

"Chicago's Street Railway Deadlock" is vigorously discussed by Mayor Dunne, who charges that the banks, newspapers and city council majority are in league to discredit his program and defeat the desire of the people for municipal ownership of the car lines. Joe Mitchell Chapelle's "Affairs at Washington" presents many new and attractive portraits of men and women prominent at the capital. Frank Putnam has a spicy review of "The November Elections." "Stevenson's Monterey" is the title of a fascinating literary paper by Charles Warren Stoddard, recalling a little-known chapter in the life of the famous poet and story-teller. In "The Tribulations of Newville," Paul Tafel has a quaint and picturesque parable portraying the whole economic development of the United States and foreshadowing our future. "Old Bar A," by Jessie M. Whitaker, is a jolly and rollicking ballad of life on the Texas plains. Of equal merit is "The Christmas Backlog," a story-poem by John Brown Jewett, that will win every heart. "The Salt of the Earth," a two-part novelette begun in this number, is a vigorous and beautiful story of country life in Kentucky, by E. C. Litsey. Michael A. Lane's science paper is "Capital and Its Rights" in which he offers some shrewdly original suggestions and punctures some age-old fallacies. "George Meredith: A Study," by Leonie Gilmour, is a keen analysis of the methods and aims of the greatest living novelist. It is illustrated with a fine portrait and autograph letter. "A Dance in the Dutch East Indies" is one of the raciest and breeziest travel sketches ever written by that always entertaining traveler, Poulney Bigelow. Nothing funnier or more redolent of the Old South than Ruth M. Harrison's "Betsy Strawberry" has been published in a very long time. Lucy Semmes Orrick writes and A. Gertrude Orrick beautifully illustrates "The American Woman as a Salon-Builder." The Home Department is as always a mine of timely and helpful suggestions for the women of the home. Frank Putnam's "Note and Comment" discusses "For the Railway Kings or for the People?" "The Last White Anteroom Passes," "The Sovereign State and the Good Citizen" and "The Near Future of the Far East," suggesting the probability that the end of the ten-year's treaty of alliance between Japan and Great Britain will see China ready to take Britain's place at Japan's side in an attempt to reclaim all Asia from western control. There are uncommonly good short stories and poems by several well-known writers. The December National has some excellent illustrations done by M. L. Blumenthal, one of the most promising of the younger American artists.

How to make a Christmas Novelty

A pretty novelty for the Christmas table or for the tree is known as the surprise stocking. The stockings are made of transparent net of various colors and are filled with candy and small articles of no great value wrapped and ribboned or left uncovered, as the taste dictates. A great deal of fun may be had with these stockings, the special foibles and fancies of each member of the family or guest being easily burlesqued in the little gifts.

Helen Gould's Character.

"Miss Helen Gould and Her Charities," by Robert H. Murray, is the title of the leading article in Human Life, edited by Alfred Henry Lewis. A few paragraphs give a good idea of Miss Gould's wonderful character.

In her recognition of courage and pluck, too, can be seen the influence of her father's character. For the benefit of the land and sea warriors of the United States has gone the bulk of the more than $2,000,000 which Miss Gould has distributed in benevolence. It wasn't charity which prompted her to give $100,000 to the United States when war with Spain began. It was broad-minded and "do-something" patriotism, born of a love of country and of a knowledge that the United States was in a righteous fight. Miss Gould wanted to let every one know how she felt about it. She followed this donation by taking an active part in the Woman's War Relief Association.

Her check-book was ever open for the relief of the battle-torn and disease-in the same fashion as they would a patron saint. There is a catholicity and democracy about Miss Gould which enables her to get close to the hearts of people. Her personality has nothing of condescension or of patronizing when she moves among the men in blouse or uniform, or, for that matter, when she comes in contact with any one.

Of the many ways of decorating the Christmas dinner table perhaps the most appropriate is the tiny tree all decked out in Santa Claus array with its candles and tinsel and many bright colored balls. These may be bought at different prices, from 50 cents up, ready to put upon the table. But if you prefer you can make one yourself out of a branch of a fir tree. This you can purchase for a very small sum, and then you can put whatever you choose on it in the way of gifts. There is another idea, though, that might be suggested. Make a red rose of something that is firm enough to hold a candle; say a stiffer red paper, and set firmly on a stem with green wound around, or some leaves would make it more natural. You perhaps could take some from the flowers on your summer hat. With a red candle stuck in the middle you could not have a prettier decoration.

ravaged soldiers in the huge mobilization camps and the army hospitals. Red tape was slashed and cut in a shocking manner. For example, Montauk Point was one vast plain of misery, whence the groans of the sick and wounded swelled into an agonizing chorus. Convalescents cursed their lot and the insidiousness of bureaucracy which kept them chained to that desolate spot when they yearned for home. Miss Gould chartered steamboats and brought load after load of men to New York, riding with them when she could spare the time from her desk at the headquarters of the Association. If they needed assistance, houses rented by Miss Gould and equipped with all comforts, including nurses and doctors, were at their disposal. Were they penniless and unable to pay their fare home, Miss Gould bought the tickets. It was not spelled in her destiny that she should lead a regiment into battle, command a battleship, shoulder a musket or go to the front with a red cross on her sleeve and a nurse's cap on her head. But she organized the Woman's War Relief Association until it ran as smoothly as her own system of practical philanthropy, and matched physical and mental toil with general and admiral, sailor and private through the long hot summer.

"Why?" some one asked her.

"It is my duty," was the response.

"Do" and "duty" are words that loom big and importantly in Miss Gould's life. "Let me have a book full of fighting and killing and heroism," one day said the mildest and sweetest-natured man I ever knew, walking into a bookshop: "I never expect to be a fighter, or a hero, or kill any one, but I like to read about doing it." Similarly, it is the men whose careers are fraught with activity and danger, at whose elbows stands fate ready to bestow the laurel for valor, that seem most to claim Miss Gould's regard and arouse her admiration and liking. For soldiers and sailors, railroad men and firemen, she has put this regard and admiration into concrete form, and they in return look upon her much be taken not to cook them too fast, or the same difficulty above mentioned, of browning the outside before the flesh is warmed through, will result. The fire should not be too hot, nor the gridiron too near it. In all cases game should be served on hot dishes.

If you are contemplating the purchase of a piano, a good precedent to go by is that established by the NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC in selecting forty Stieff pianos for their school this year. THE NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC is the largest institution in the world for the teaching of music. Their judgment on a piano is expert.

THE STIEFF piano manufacturers make a specialty of building pianos for schools. Why? Because they have to stand a severe test and the STIEFF has stood this test for the past fifty years. Why not profit by the example set by the NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC? If you do you will make no mistake.

Sold from factory to home on easy terms. Established 63 years.

CLAFLIN GUARDS

BRIEF REVIEW OF ITS HISTORY

An Interesting Story of the Newton Company

The recent anniversary celebrations of the Claflin Guards and its Veteran Association, are reminders of many interesting events in the years which have elapsed since our local militia company was organized.

Major Fred. P. Barnes was the father of the Company and it was wholly due to his efforts that an organization was effected on Oct. 10, 1870. The town of Newton was then a straggling collection of small villages, and it required no small amount of work to bring about a mutual agreement in such a matter. The company was technically known as Company L, First Regiment but was named the Claflin Guards in honor of Hon. Wm. Claflin, then governor of the state and a resident of Newtonville.

The names on its roster included the best blood of the town and in social affairs the company stood second to none in the state.

Col. Isaac F. Kingsbury, now City Clerk was the first captain, Major Fred P. Barnes, was First Lieutenant and G. Frank Park, second lieutenant. The sergeants were, Frank L. Barnes, Edward A. Ellis, Gideon B. Wright, Frank Edmonds and Daniel C. Smith. The corporals were Chas. B. Gardner, Horatio Carter, Edwin O. Childs, Frank N. Brown, Alfred Schoff, Theron J.

tious as those of a general at the present day. The dress uniform further presented a tall black bearskin hat with a white pompon and a gold tassel. The fatigue cap was a flat visor in gray. The trousers were of gray cloth with a wide black band and double gilt braid down the legs. Later when the company was transferred to Company C of the Fifth Regiment, the ponderous bearskins were exchanged for small fur hats.

One of the striking features of the photographs of the company at this time is the prevalence of the mutton chop side whiskers; which were quite popular a generation or so ago. Our young men of a generation ago must have made an imposing appearance as they marched through the town in such a rig.

The Company was not provided with arms for some months, but through the influence of Mr. James F. Edmonds a quantity of condemned army muskets were furnished, and regular drills began in the old Eliot hall at Newton.

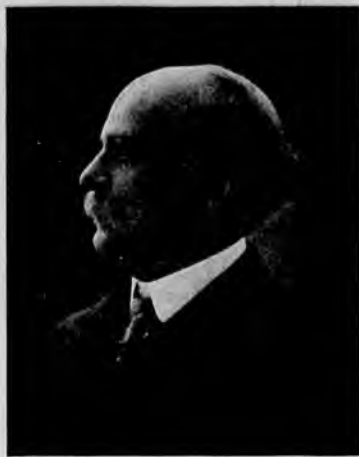

A few months later the armory was moved to a hall near where the Whitman now stands and in the spring of 1871, the town made a long lease of the hall at the Nonantum house which was the headquarters of the Company for many years, and until the present armory was occupied.

On Memorial day 1871, the ladies of ed for inefficiency and Captain Consens and the Second Lieutenant resigned, leaving First Lieutenant Safford in command. Public sentiment became aroused over the condition of affairs and mass meetings were held the following winter resulting in the reorganization of the company with the late City Treasurer John A. Kenrick as captain, ex-aldermen Henry W. Dowas as First Lieutenant and Frank L. Barnes as Second Lieutenant, on January 4, 1870. Some of the best young men in the city joined the new company and it took on a new and promising lease of life.

of disease during this service. On the return to the city, the Company was received with considerable enthusiasm by the people.

One of the outgrowths of the Claflin Guards has been the Veterans Association, which has taken a fatherly interest in the active company since it was reorganized in 1895. Past members of the Company hold a banquet each year, where old memories are revived, old acquaintances renewed and the pleasant associations of years of mutual service in the militia, are recalled. The Veterans Association also competes with the ac-

The succeeding captains have been, Henry W. Dowas, Isaac H. Houghton, Geo. H. Benyon, John C. Kennedy, Geo. C. Applin, David Scott, J. Albert Scott, Ernest M. Springer and Geo. F. Guilford who was recently elected to that position.

During the Spanish American War the company served for nearly nine months, from July 2, 1898 to March 31, 1899, but without active service at the front. It was in camp at South Framingham, Mass., at Camp Mead Pennsylvania and at Camp Wetherell, Greenville, South Carolina. Four enlisted men died tive company in annual rifle contests and the influence of the older men cannot be otherwise than beneficial to the active company.

Some idea of the character of the Veterans Association can be gleaned from its list of presidents, which is as follows: Hon. Henry E. Cobb, Hon. Henry E. Bothfeld, Major F. P. Barnes, Capt. J. C. Kennedy, Mr. C. B. Coffin, Col. R. B. Edes, Mr. Richard Cunningham, Major A. C. Warren, Capt. W. E. Lombard, Mr. Geo. S. Parker and Capt. A. C. Walworth.

Communication.

November 28th, 1905.

Dear GRAPHIC:

The patrons of the Newton schools who believe that it would be wise to allow the masters of the schools to call a physician, by telephone or placard in the window, to examine a pupil who apparently shows symptoms of some disease that may prove dangerous to his schoolmates will be interested to learn that at the recent meeting of the State Board of Charities, there was not a dissenting voice with reference to the value of such daily medical inspection of schools.

At that meeting the question was discussed in the following order:

"Medical Inspection in the Public Schools," Dr. Henry P. Walcott, of the State Board of Health, presiding.

"The work of the Boston Board of Health in School Inspection," Dr. Samuel H. Durgin, Chairman of the Boston Board of Health.

"The Work of the Boston School Committee," Dr. James B. Fitzgerald, Director of Physical Training in the Public Schools.

"What is being done in Massachusetts," George H. Martin, Secretary of the State Board of Education.

"The School Nurses in New York," Miss Lina Rogers, Superintendent of Nurses under the New York City Board of Health.

The matter in my judgment is so important that I am going to ask you to reprint an extract from the address of Mr. Martin, who is our State Secretary of Education.

"If the results of the inquiry as to what our cities and towns are doing in the way of medical inspection are not flattering, this whole matter has been before the public in one form or another for twenty years. The results of European investigations have been published and widely disseminated. The subject has been discussed at meetings of physicians and of school and health officials. It has been shown over and over again that frequent and thorough inspection for the detection of contagious diseases is of the highest value in preserving the public health. It has been shown with convincing force that thousands of school children are failing to make adequate use of school privileges because of physical infirmities of one sort or another.

"It has been shown that in consequence of this considerable part of the money expended on the public schools fails to return any equivalent. Buildings are provided, more and more comfortable and convenient and beautiful and costly. Teachers are being employed with constantly rising standards of efficiency, but no general provision is made to fit the children to receive the benefits of these increasingly expensive outlays. It is due both to the school officers and to the health officials to say that this continued neglect is not due to any ignorance or indifference on their part. School Committees and Boards of Health are ready to work alone or together. The responsibility rests upon City Councils and town meetings which refuse to supply the money needed to do the work."

He closed with the following words: "This inquiry reveals the paucity of the efforts now being made, discloses the obstacles in the way of extension, and points the way to further development."

"The work to be done is to disseminate information more widely, to awaken a public conscience, and to bring public sentiment to bear upon the bodies controlling municipal expenditures. If necessary, compulsory legislation by the State should be invoked. Already Connecticut has a general law requiring vision tests to be made annually in all the public schools. This law was passed in 1890. In 1904 Vermont enacted a similar law. Why not Massachusetts? She has not been accustomed to look to these States as pioneers, but she should not be ashamed to follow their lead."

Very respectfully yours,

D. C. Heath.

Roast Pigeon.—When clean and ready for roasting, fill with dressing made same as for turkey or chicken. They must be well basted with melted butter, and roast from three-quarters to one hour.

Every one wants to give appropriate Christmas presents, but not every one succeeds in doing so. A little thought would save many blunders. Don't give the girl who lives in a boarding house room large pictures or smashable bric-a-brac. When she moves she will have to give them all away. Don't give a green sofa cushion to a friend who has a blue drawing room. Don't give anybody anything you would not care to have yourself. This refers to "gift" editions of the poets with padded covers and gilt decorations.

Daniel S. Sawyer, Frank C. Stanton, George E. Simpson, Thomas R. Sisson, Geo. K. Wetherell, J. Edwin Warner and Chas. S. Whipple. The drummers were Frank M. Robinson and James W. Bingham.

The first uniform worn by the Company was an elaborate affair of gray cloth, with numerous brass buttons and gilt trimming, slashed across the breast with black braid, and cut with tails like an evening dress coat. Epaulets were worn by privates and officers, the former with white fringe, while the latter with heavy gilt fringe were as ostenta-

Newton presented the infant company with a handsome American flag and two silk guidon flags, the presentation speech being made by Governor Claflin.

The series of societies which the Company ran each winter in its Armory were the most popular and prominent events of the season for a number of years.

In the summer of 1872, Captain Kingsbury resigned and on Aug. 27, 1872, Lieutenant Barnes was elected Captain but declined the honor. Mr. James F. Edmonds was then elected but also refused to accept and Lieut. Barnes became the acting commander until Wm. B. Sears was elected Captain Oct. 31, 1872.

The Company saw its first real service at the great Boston fire of that year. The fire broke out on Saturday night, Nov. 9 and on Sunday morning the militia was called together through notices given from the church pulpits of the town. In these days of telephone and rapid transit, such methods seem crude and slow, but it was the best that could be done at that time. The company with 55 men and 2 officers assembled promptly under command of 2d Lieutenant Walter H. Stearns and went to Boston where it was given guard duty in the vicinity of Milk and Washington streets.

First Lieutenant Barnes who had been out of town over Sunday assumed command on Monday, and Captain Sears, who had not then qualified for the position, took charge on November 15th. The company were first quartered in the Old South Church and slept in the pews. This building with broken windows was rather cold, and after a heavy rain had wet the men through, a change was made to the Brackett piano waterrooms where heat was obtained but the men had to sleep on the bare floor and in wet clothes. In a few days the State furnished mattresses and another change was made to the old Boylston market where the men were fairly comfortable. This service lasted until Nov. 22, and the Company received many words of praise for its excellent work under such trying conditions.

Captain Sears and Lieut. Barnes resigned in June 1873, and the latter was subsequently presented with a silver service for his work in behalf of the Company.

STEBBINS WINS

Has 267 Majority Over Dr. Fawcett
For School Board

Referendum Matters Receive Favorable Action
Large Majority for No License

MAYOR-ELECT EDGAR W. WARREN.

But for the school committee contest the city election of last Tuesday would have been a tame affair, with an unopposed ticket for mayor, alderman at large and for three members of the school board.

The ladies, however made an earnest canvass for their candidate and their presence at the polling places added life and gaiety to the election.

Mayor-elect Edgar W. Warren received a total vote of 2564 out of a total ballot of 3058, while alderman-elect Stephen W. Holmes of ward one is second high man with 2253 votes. Mr. Gorham leads all the school board candidates with a combined vote of men and women of 2322.

The interest centered, of course, in the fight made by the women and their candidate, Dr. Deborah Fawcett for school committee in ward 7 against the regular republican nominee, Mr. Herbert Stebbins. Dr. Fawcett carried wards 1, 3 and 7, by small majorities, while the regular party organization in the other wards, loyally supported their candidate and gave Mr. Stebbins the victory by 267 majority, the total vote being 1675 for Stebbins and 1408 for Fawcett. Of the 342 votes cast by women, Mr. Stebbins received but 33.

For ward aldermen, the republican nominees in all but ward four were unopposed, and the independent candidate in that ward received but scant support, the vote being 176 for Beck and 59 for Swallow.

The license vote was the most satisfactory for many years, the "YES" vote being way below normal, and "NO" having a majority of 1454.

The referendum on the term of the auditor and on pensioning firemen was favorable to each, altho the firemen's act was carried by a majority of 206 while the auditor had 553.

The first returns came from ward 2 precinct 2 as usual, at 4.43 while ward 7 again brought up in the rear at 6.52.

Mayor elect Warren kept open house during the evening and about one hundred citizens gathered to extend congratulations and to discuss the election.

Those elected are:

Mayor, Edgar W. Warren.

Alderman at large for 2 years.

Ward 1. Stephen W. Holmes.
Ward 2. Albert P. Carter.
Ward 3. Benjamin S. Palmer.
Ward 4. Howard P. Converse.
Ward 5. Thomas W. White.
Ward 6. Edward B. Bowen.
Ward 7. Chas. A. Clarke.

School Committee, three years.

Ward 3. Robert S. Gorham.
Ward 4. William A. Knowlton.
Ward 5. Herbert W. Wells.
Ward 7. Herbert Stebbins.

Alderman by Ward.

Ward 1. William J. Doherty.
Ward 2. Edward K. Hall.
Ward 3. Henry H. Hunt.
Ward 4. Adam E. M. Beck.
Ward 5. Frederick W. Webster.
Ward 6. Allston Burr.
Ward 7. Thomas Weston Jr.

About Town

The political prophet who gave Dr. Fawcett 1100 men votes was not so far off of the way when the returns showed 1099.

Post election wisecrackers now say that Deborah and Delecta and Stebbins and Success were synonymous. Just the same it might have been Fawcett and First and Stebbins and Second, had the women polled their full vote.

There were many regrets Tuesday night when the Boston returns showed the election of Fitzgerald.

Mr. Horton S. Allen, a former resident of Newton was re-elected a member of the Common Council of Salem last Tuesday.

A certain Republican who has earnestly advocated the election of Dr. Fawcett was considerably fazed last week to learn that he had signed the Stebbins nomination paper earlier in the campaign. His friends made it a point to remind him of that fact on Tuesday night.

Mayor Weed will render the new mayor a New Year's reception and continue the excellent custom inaugurated by Mayor Cobb.

Newton continues to cling to the initial W in selecting its mayors. Weeks, Weed and Warren make an excellent trio under that letter.

An atmosphere of good fellowship permeated the hospitable residence of Mayor-elect Edgar W. Warren at Newton Highlands Tuesday evening. Nearly all of the old political war horses were present and His Honor to be received many congratulations and hearty wishes for a successful administration.

Few people in Newtonville realized that among its residents was a man who might have made a name for himself as sculptor instead of catering to the wants of the inner man. Mr. George F. Lowell is receiving the congratulations of his many friends in his life like figure of a woman in house costume which he has made out of snow near his residence on Walnut street.

The controversy over the old frigate constitution has brought out the fact that some native born Americans are lacking in a proper amount of American spirit. Mr. M. H. Gulestan of Newton Centre can give these people points in patriotism.

ism. A native of Armenia he came to the United States twenty-two years ago and now considers himself a thorough American citizen. Some years ago he purchased the wooden figures of the lion and unicorn which were on the old State house to preserve them from being demolished and now he offers to buy "Old Ironsides."

Y. M. C. A.

A very successful "social evening" was held at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening. The Association orchestra rendered many fine selections which were enthusiastically received. Miss Adelaide Jump gave several readings which were enjoyed by all. Light refreshments were served. About 125 were present. The next entertainment will be held on Dec. 28th when Bugatti, the magician will be the entertainer.

The high school boys and their friends enjoyed a pleasant evening on Wednesday night. A fine entertainment and basketball game were the features.

The conditions for the contest for the Wait Trophy have been published. The contest will be held early in March.

The recent action of the city government in approving conduit and pole locations and granting pole rights across land of the city in Needham to the Edison Company and its ally, the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company, brings to a close, negotiations which have been pending for over a year and in which Mayor Weed and Alderman Dennison, chairman of the Franchise committee have successfully sustained the city's interests.

In brief, the plans of the electric company, included the abandonment of the Watertown station, the erection of a transformer station on Homer street, and its connection with the South Boston plant by two separate routes. It will be remembered that last summer, the overhead line to the Homer street station was granted on Commonwealth avenue, in return for a reduction to $1.00 per 1000 feet for gas, and the execution of an agreement by the Company to bury its wires in the city at the rate of $30,000 a year for five successive years. The acceptance of that proposition virtually included the grants which were also passed last week, whereby the second route to the South Boston plant was authorized by conduits in Walnut street through Newton Highlands village, and its continuation on poles along Needham street to the city boundary. The pole rights through the water works land in Needham was another proposition for which the Company at first offered $1,000 for a lease of not less than 25 years. As compromised the Company pays the city $2,000 for a lease of not exceeding 25 years. The mayor and Alderman Dennison deserve great credit for their good work in behalf of the city.

While the GRAPHIC firmly believes in women representation on the school board, its chief motive in opposing the Republican candidate for school committee in ward seven, last Tuesday, was to voice the protest which many felt over the secret selection of Mr. Stebbins for the office, before the public had knowledge of the coming vacancy; the brazen manner in which the advocates of far abler candidates were frozen out during the few days which intervened between the announcement of the vacancy and the time for closing nominations for the city primaries; the unchivalrous manner in which the ladies were treated by the ward seven political managers, who, by the way are appointed to elect candidates and not to make nominations; and later in the campaign, the misrepresentations and misleading statements uttered and published by at least one member of the ward seven republican committee, acting, we trust, without the approval or knowledge of his colleagues.

The GRAPHIC did not oppose Mr. Stebbins personally, and his attitude in the campaign was thoroughly honorable and entirely commendable. But his own ward, strongly republican in every contest, and giving overwhelming majorities on every occasion in the past, repudiated his campaign managers, by casting its vote in favor of Dr. Fawcett. To the rest of the city, which cannot appreciate the finer points of the situation, we believe the vote of ward seven will indicate that the GRAPHIC's position in the contest was sound, and that in the future underhanded and unfair political methods will not be tolerated by the people of Newton. Dr. Fawcett in defeat, has won almost as great a victory, as if her candidacy had been successful.

The report of the board of health on charges of negligence and insouciance was made public last week and as indicated in the GRAPHIC sustain the action taken by their agent in the Newton Centre

The report gives abundant proof that the alleged case of diphtheria in the Mason school was not developed in the school room and that the agent was justified in not taking steps to disinfect that building. The promise of the board that in all cases in the future, it will disinfect school rooms after every case of contagious disease among pupils, ought to be satisfactory to the most particular citizen, but we predict it will create alarm among parents and needless interference with school work. Common sense can be exercised in these matters as in everything else and the health department ought not to lend its aid to every passing whim.

The aldermen in the budget for 1906 have provided for an act of justice to the reserve police, who, for years have done equal duty with regular patrolmen with less rank and less pay. While this matter has been urged by the GRAPHIC for some years, we regret that in this connection, the whole subject of a better police force was not considered as well. We refer particularly to the imperative need of providing a higher rate of pay for men just entering the service. The present pay of $2.00 per day does not attract the grade of men whom we desire for the police force. Men who are earning from $2.50 a day and upwards, will not seek the police department, where the wages are so low and an outlay of about $100 is necessary for a uniform. An improvement in the grade of applicants is absolutely necessary if the police force of the future is to attain the standing our citizens demand.

The very fact that the Republican candidate for mayor this week did not have an opponent at the polls, is evidence that in Mr. Edgar W. Warren, the city will have a mayor whose character and public record are satisfactory to the larger part of the community.

A successful business man, clear in judgment, careful and conservative in action, Mr. Warren has made an excellent record as a member of the city government and as a representative of the city in the legislature.

As the chief executive of the city for the coming two years, we believe Mr. Warren will continue the high standard set by the present mayor and his immediate predecessors, and administer the city's affairs with wisdom and ability.

The approval of the two referendum matters at the polls last Tuesday simply goes to show that little personal investigation and attention is given such matters by the average citizen. Many, who do not know which way to vote, refuse to take either side, while others vote YES, with utter disregard of present or future possibilities. The voting public should learn to have the courage to vote NO on every matter upon which full and free discussion has not brought conviction in favor, because, such questions, if defeated can be again brought forward, while if adopted, the policy cannot be changed.

The address, printed in another column, given by one of our most public spirited citizens, Mr. Frank A. Day upon the contemplated purchase of the Claflin estate and the responsibilities of wealth toward civic improvement, is well worth the careful consideration of every resident of Newton. We trust Mr. Day's words may stimulate some one to follow in Newton the example which has been so well set by the late Mr. Rindge in Cambridge.

The city government should take radical action in many streets to remove trees, which have been placed in close proximity to each other. Waltham street is but one of many thoroughfares where the cutting down of a few trees would make a much better looking street, without loss of shade.

The action of the city authorities in substituting electricity for oil lamps in this city will be generally approved. The oil lights are an antiquated and inadequate method of street lighting.

The water department is now a paying investment for the city and dividends should be paid the citizens in the way of reduced water rates.

G. A. R. CAMP FIRE

Charles Ward Post held a grand camp fire on Tuesday night and about 400 turned out including the guests from seventeen other posts of this vicinity. Commander W. T. Shepherd was in charge and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Speeches were made by Department Commander James H. Wolff of Boston, Col. William M. Olin, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Rev. C. M. Southgate, and Past Department Commander John E. Gilman, and poems were read by Comrade George M. Fiske of Auburndale and Elbridge Bradshaw of Newtonville. There was singing by Billy Olin's "gang" and by a colored quartet which gave con songs to the delight of the crowd. Supper, consisting of baked beans, brown bread, coffee, crackers and cheese was served as the guests arrived and put all in good humor for the evening's jollification.

NEWTON MAN DEAD

Joseph P. Kelly, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly of Hawthorne street, and formerly employed by Hewitt and Thomas of this city, was found dead at Bridgeport, Conn., last Sunday. Death was evidently caused by strangulation, from particles of food lodged in the windpipe. He was about 35 years of age and unmarried.

Funeral services were held from the Church of Our Lady, Wednesday morning at nine o'clock, members of the Spanish War Veterans acting as pall bearers. The burial was at Calvary cemetery and a squad from Company C. fired a last volley over the grave.

Police Paragraphs.

John Muse of 55 Green street, Newton, reported to the police about 6 o'clock Saturday night that his vegetable team had either strayed or been stolen.

About 8.30 Officer McLaughlin found the outfit tied to a post on Edinboro street, Newtonville, over a mile from Muse's home.

A resident of the vicinity told the patrolman that he had found the horse wandering about an hour before, and had tied him there.

At the request of the Newton police William Hurd, alias William Burke, alias "Handsome Dan," was arrested in Boston on a warrant charging the larceny of money from Mrs. Charles S. Herrick of Riverside.

It is alleged that Hurd, who is 45 years of age and comes from Lynn, had been working an old confidence game. His method it is said, was to go to a town and pose as a painter in the employ of the United States government, about to do work on some public building. In this capacity he would visit different houses for the purpose of hiring a room, and at the first opportunity ransack the house.

He visited the house of Mrs. Herrick last March, it is said, and talked about obtaining lodgings there. While Mrs. Herrick was out of the room for a minute he picked up her pocketbook, which was lying on the table, and disappeared.

In court Monday he was given three months in the House of Correction.

There will be a civil service examination for the police force next Monday at City hall.

Inspector Frank B. Fletcher has been given the rank of lieutenant of police. A promotion which is fully deserved.

Incased Stamps Sought For

Incased postage stamps are arousing a great deal of interest among coin and stamp collectors, for the character of this odd species of money brings it within the province of both. So keen has been the rivalry to obtain specimens of this issue that high prices have been paid for little disks of metal which only a short time ago in many instances were given to children to play with.

Incased stamps consist of postage stamps of the issue of 1861 in value, from 1 to 30 cents, incased in thin, circular metal cases about the size of a twenty-five cent piece faced with mica. The metal part is nothing more than a rim, and was intended to protect the stamps, nearly the whole of which is in view. To conform to the disk the corners of the stamps have been folded under.

They were first made by J. Gault of New York City, who patented the cases in 1862. In that year, owing to the high premium on gold, metallic money of all denominations was almost entirely withdrawn from circulation. So people took to using postage stamps for currency.

So great was the demand for these stamps that it is said 104,000,000 were sold in three months, and yet this great number, which represented the capacity of the Government plant, was insufficient to meet the demand.

Postage stamps, of course, were not adapted to this purpose and they soon became damaged. This caused a great deal of trouble, for persons often placed these same worn stamps on letters.

On the back of each metal case was stamped the name of the firm issuing it, and these issues not only relieved the demand for small change, but also furnished a good advertisement. A charge of about 25 per cent. was made for making them by Gault.

The incased stamps had none of the drawbacks of their predecessors and were generally accepted as money until the issue of fractional currency, which put an end to their usefulness.

The stamps used in the metal cases were of a special design, as the Government at the outbreak of the war had repudiated the stamps issued before that time. When the civil war began there were millions of dollars worth of postage stamps scattered throughout the Southern States in hundreds of post offices, so the Federal Government took this course in self defence.

In the one cent cases were the one cent blue stamps bearing the head of Franklin, Jefferson's portrait was borne by the five cent issue. The thirty cent stamp bearing Franklin's head was put in the case of that denomination, while Washington's portrait was used in the 24 and 30 cent cases, the latter being the highest denomination incased in a metal case.

There were 150 varieties of the incased stamps, for firms in different parts of the country also adopted the idea. And even Canada had one issue. This was the one issued by the firm of Weir & Larmine of Montreal.

The senior member of this firm while on a visit to this country in the early '60s met Mr. Gault, and, as small change was also scarce in Canada, he ordered a lot of the stamps with the name of the firm. They contained a United States stamp of 10 cent denomination, and were generally used throughout Canada.

This is the only instance on record in which currency issue of this country has been circulated in the Dominion. Specimens of these stamps are now very scarce and command a premium of $25.

The values of the incased stamps now mount as the denomination increases, for, while there are hundreds of the smaller values, those of 25, 30 and 30 cents are much less plentiful, although nearly any specimen of an incased stamp no matter of what denomination, will fetch from $4 up.

The rarest of the incased stamps is the 50 cent one issued by the firm of Kirkpatrick & Gault, in this city, a specimen of which brought $125 at a recent Chicago sale. Next to it comes the 50 cent issue bearing Drake's Plantation Bitters on the back, which is valued at $84.

Another 50 cent stamp of J. Gault is worth $75. The 24 cent Drake stamp is worth $47, while the 30 cent issue of the same company brings $42.

A 12 cent stamp issued by the Tremont House of Chicago is worth $20, while one of the same denomination of the Irving House of New York City is worth $8. One bearing the words "Barnett's Cough Extract," of 30 cent value, is worth $36, the 24 cent stamp is worth the same sum, while that of 12 cent brings $20.

An odd thing in connection with the sale of these stamps is the fact that some of the postage stamps of the same kind as those placed in the metal cases bring a good deal less than the incased stamps of that year, while on the other hand several varieties bring more.

The five cent red brown stamp of 1861, in good condition, uncanceled, is worth $20, while the incased stamps, exactly the same thing, but folded in brass disks, are worth only $4 to $5. The 24 cent red lilac regular stamps are worth $20, the ones incased being valued only at from $8 to $10.

Then again, some of the incased stamps are valued at double and treble the sums paid for the regular stamps. As there are many of these stamps to be had at lower prices, it has been suggested that substitution would be quite easy; that it would be little or no trouble to put a stamp of that year into a metal case and sell it as an incased one, but those who know say that it is impossible to do this so that it will escape detection.

The finest collection of incased stamps is that owned by H. E. Deats of Flemington, N. J., president of the American Philatelic Association. Mr. Deats has practically completed his collection of the entire series with a few minor exceptions.

He says that the stamps could not be successfully counterfeited. Before purchasing a specimen he submits it to a thorough scrutiny with a high power microscope to assure himself that it has not been tampered with. It has been demonstrated, he says, that the creases left in the genuine incased stamp from being folded under for so many years cannot be ironed out by any known means, and that this is the one infallible test.

How to Thread Bead Necklaces

(From the London Daily Mail.)
Women are rethreading the old bead necklaces they have found hoarded in their jewelry cases and are separating each colored bead by a narrow one of sparkling crystal.

What to thread the necklace upon is a mooted point. Do not be inveigled by those who tell you that waxed thread is satisfactory for the purpose into giving the story credit. For beads that are in the least heavy it is most unsatisfactory and leads to a breakage after the necklace has been worn once or twice.

The best threading medium to choose is a violin string, and if the "E" string be asked for it will be found fine enough and sufficiently strong to suit all purposes.

Just Mention It

It pays the buyer to buy from an advertiser and to say he saw the article advertised in this or that paper. The man who mentions an advertisement when buying goods really gets the best possible service, even better than the regular customer when this is possible. Why? Simply because the advertiser pays good money for his advertisement and he is glad to hear from it. It is a compliment to his good business judgment.

Little cakes that will please the children either at the table or on the Christmas tree are made as follows: Bake the cakes in little patty or muffin pans and frost the tops with a white icing. Dip a small new paint brush in melted chocolate and draw a face on each. Make some crying and others laughing, the different expressions being made by the curve of the mouth line. The merest outline will be sufficient. Cut a circle of tissue paper of white or any color liked two inches larger than the cake, pink the edge with scissors and run a thread round one inch from the edge. Put a cake in the paper, draw up the thread, and a cunning little cap is formed. The pleasure of small children will well repay the trouble of making these little cake babies.

The Ladies' Home Circle held a demonstration luncheon on Wednesday. Miss Lillian E. Bullock of Brookline demonstrated the "57 varieties" of Heinz pickles and preserves in a most delightful manner and the occasion was greatly enjoyed by the large number present.

Mrs. Mary W. Overholser of Wellesley Hills, chairman of the Arts and Crafts Committee of the State Federation, spoke before the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning on the "Work of the Arts and Crafts Societies." By arts, she said, is meant the skill in fitting and by crafts, power. The active members are those who have ability to produce something original, while those who can work out beautiful products from patterns furnished by the artists become associate members. This is true in Greenfield where the teacher of drawing in the public schools together with a few other artists impelled by the desire to do original work associated themselves together and they now furnish the women for miles around in the country with work that is beautiful in its result and which brings in to the women something of an income. Mrs. Overholser has made an exhaustive study of the work produced by these societies and presented the subject in a most charming way and exhibited many samples of their work, including baskets of many styles, pottery, rugs and some choice specimens of silver work from the Handicraft Shop in Wellesley Hills. In speaking of the silver she said that not the only part of the beauty lies on the surface, but more in the conditions under which they work.

There will be no meeting of the club next week, but on December 27 Dr. Deborah Fawcett will give a paper on "Athletics for Women and Girls."

Barrows-Handley

Miss Ethel Handley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Handley was married Tuesday night at her residence 28 Morse street, to Mr. Charles Francis Barrows of Jefferson street, Newton.

The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. Robert Keating Smith, assistant rector of Grace church.

The bride was gowned in white silk trimmed with lace and chiffon and wore a wedding veil of Brussels net. She was attended by Miss Florence Ticehurst of Newton as maid of honor and Mr. Walter G. Barrows was the best man.

A reception followed until 10 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Barrows being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Handley and Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Barrows.

The ushers were Mr. Edward St. Coeur of Newton, Mr. James A. Small of Watertown and Mr. Daniel G. Towne of Cambridge.

Camp Butters

The annual attack on the church debt was successfully made at Camp Sophronia H. Butters located in the Newton Methodist church last Wednesday evening. The room was arranged like a military camp with flags, the regulation camp fire, the boiling kettle and several were in uniform which added much to the attractiveness of the affair. The reports from the twenty companies comprising the foraging party were most gratifying, over $350 being raised, and the silk American flag prizes were won by Mrs. Charles Lawrence, whose company raised the largest sum, and Mr. Lewis N. Cushman the individual victor. Leather medals of honor were awarded to Mrs. H. S. Leonard, Rev. Dr. George S. Butters, R. C. Thompson and D. F. Barber. The entertainment consisted of war songs by Messrs C. P. Silver, Hugh Campbell, D. F. Barber and Morton and the members of the camp also jokes, stories and the reading of home letters. Souvenir loving cups were given to each and hard-tack and coffee were served. The successful outcome of the party was largely due to the efforts of Mrs. H. S. Leonard, the general in command, and F. P. Cushman who were the committee in charge.

D A R

Members of Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., were entertained by Mrs. H. A. Packard and Mrs. Arthur E. Gill at the West Newton home of the last-named on Monday afternoon of this week. After the disposal of business matters, music was furnished by the Dvorak Trio, consisting of Miss Alice Williams, violinist; Miss Lillian Haynes, cellist, and Miss Lillian West, pianist. They played the "Andante" and "Finale" from a Mendelssohn trio. The regent then presented Mrs. Laura Wentworth Fowler of Dedham, founder and honorary regent of Old South Chapter, who read extracts from the address of Deborah Sampson, delivered in 1812, recounting her experiences of three years as an enlisted soldier in the Continental Army. Mrs. Fowler then read some notes taken at the first congress of Daughters at Washington which proved most amusing. An informal social hour followed.

Literary Notes

Pearson's Magazine for January contains eight unusually bright and sparkling short stories and no less than six special articles, among which is the inside story of the recent famous Jerome campaign. This article, anecdotal, and written in an inimitable style, is the work of Mr. Robert Adamson, who was at the elbow of Jerome from first to last throughout the memorable contest. The National Ravages of Alcohol is an astounding article which every person—be he teetotaler, or temperate or excessive in the use of alcoholic beverages—should read. This article, based on Government statistics, is far from being a tract. "A Sailor of Fortune," with Paragat on the eve of running the forts, is highly interesting. "Shark Hunting" is entertaining, while "The Power of the Press" and "A Day in a Premier's Life" are of the light, instructive sort, fit for the log-fire and the long winter evenings. Among the stories is an extremely funny one, "The Senorita and the Great Goat Syndicate." But, most important of these tales is "The Scar," which is the first of a series of absolutely true experiences taken from the diary of Monsieur Goron until recently the chief of the Paris Detective Bureau—the most famous body of sleuths in the world.

Fayette Shaw Dead

Mr. Fayette Shaw for forty years a resident of Newtonville, died last Saturday morning after a few days illness with pneumonia, in his 82nd year.

Mr. Shaw was born in Crompton, Mass., and at an early age entered his father's business of tanning leather. For many years he was head of the firm of F. Shaw Bros. & Co. and owned a million acres of bark land in Maine and Canada with several tanneries in operation.

Business reverses came in the early nineties and after a few years he organized the Shaw Leather Company with tanneries in Wisconsin. A few years ago this business was sold out to the tanning trust and Mr. Shaw has since lived quietly at his home in Newtonville engaged in the cultivation of flowers. He is survived by one son, Fayette De Loss Shaw, and two married daughters, Mrs. William F. Kimball of Newtonville and Mrs. J. Frank Curtis of Abington.

Boston Theatre

Boston Theatre—"Fantana," the most successful and most celebrated of the Messrs. Shubert musical comedies, with the original cast headed by Jefferson De Angelis, and the same elaborate and artistic scenic investiture which characterized the production during its record-breaking run of 350 nights in New York City, is to be the Christmas holiday attraction at the Boston Theatre. "Fantana" is in three acts, and its scenes are laid in California, Japan and the quarter-deck of an ocean-going yacht. In the cast with Mr. De Angelis are such well-known farceurs and singers as Toby Claude, Julia Sanderson, Frank Rushworth, Hubert Wilke, Osborne Searle, William Blaisdell, Robert Broderick, Philip Leigh, Gertrude Millington, Catherine Cooper, Adelaide Sharp and Norma Bell. There are 20 or more select musical numbers, including "It's the Girl, Not the Horse, That Wins the Prize," sung by Miss Julia Sanderson as Fanny, nicknamed "Fantana"; "Tammam", sung by Mr. De Angelis as Hawkins; "That's Art," by Mr. De Angelis; "Just My Style," by Miss Sanderson and Mr. Rushworth, the latter as Lieutenant Sinclair Warren; "Darby and Joan," by Mr. De Angelis and Miss Toby Claude, and "Drop In On Me At Luncheon," also by Mr. De Angelis and Miss Claude.

New Quarters

The new quarters of the Bay State Automobile Association at the Woodland Park, Auburndale, were fittingly dedicated to the cause of motoring yesterday afternoon and evening. The entertainment committee, consisting of Chairman J. H. MacAlman, W. W. Burke, Harry W. Knights, William Gray and J. C. Kerrison, has, during the past week, paid considerable attention to getting these quarters in shape, and the committee is confident that a new field of sociability will be opened to the 400 members. No special arrangements of a formal nature were made, it having been decided to open the rooms in a most informal manner. The quarters were opened at 4 o'clock, and at 6 o'clock lunch was served to all members present. Music and smoking were the main features of the evening, speech-making being overlooked intentionally. The billiard room, bowling alleys and the cafe have all been renovated during the past few weeks, and possess a most attractive appearance.

City Hall Notes.

Residents of Auburndale protested Wednesday night to the Franchise Committee against allowing an old building to be moved upon land on Prairie avenue.

How's Your Hair?

Arthur Hudson Announces That He Has at Last Secured a Cure for Hair Troubles.

We beg to announce to the people of Newton that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years. We refer to the prescription of Sir Erasmus Wilson, M. D., England's most successful specialist in diseases of the scalp, who was knighted for his many successes in the treatment of skin and scalp. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson this prescription was secured by American chemists and is now offered to the public under the name of Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow hair on bald heads even after all else fails. Unlike other hair preparations it is not sticky or greasy, but gives a live and glossy appearance to the hair. Miss Cornelia Stevens, 8 Smith Ave., Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly bald. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." If you are growing bald, troubled with eruptions, dandruff scales or a dry scalp, try Dr. Wilson's Life to the Hair. Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., proprietors. Sold by Arthur Hudson, 203 Washington St. Price 50 cents.

CONCERT AT TEMPLE HALL

The Polymnia of Newton, Madame Isidora Martinez musical director, gave the first concert of its second season, on Thursday evening at Temple hall, Newtonville. A large and fashionable audience applauded the delightful work of the club which in every way was fully merited, for it is seldom indeed that one hears such beauty of tone, fidelity to pitch and perfect accentuation as was displayed by the ladies of The Polymnia at this concert. As the club has passed the crucial point of existence as a musical organization and is rapidly increasing in membership, lovers of music in the Newtons may well take pride in it. The Polymnia is the only strictly ladies' musical organization in Boston or vicinity, devoted to the study and performance of the highest and most beautiful compositions written for women's voices, and it is safe to predict a brilliant future for it, musically at least.

The soloists, all members of the society, except Mr. Henderson, were: soprano, Miss Helen E. Partridge, Mrs. J. Langdon Sibley, Mrs. Harry V. Jones; contraltos, Mrs. Arthur F. Jones, Mrs. Harry D. Cabot; baritone, Mr. Franklin H. Henderson; pianist, Mme. Isidora Martinez; accompanist, Miss Helen A. Bassett.

They not only did themselves the highest credit by their beautiful singing but reflected much credit upon the good judgment of their director in their selections. Mr. Henderson sang the two songs of Madame Martinez in brilliant style. The Contrabandista especially, with its Spanish rhythm and dash, took the audience by storm. Too much cannot be said of the beautiful music of Madame set to the familiar lines, "My love is like the red, red rose." Heretofore we have heard Madame Martinez only as a vocalist, but her great playing of Liszt's transcription from Rigoletto and the beautiful Romance from Chopin's E. minor concerto, proved her to be a most perfect mistress of the piano.

The program was as follows:

Coming Attractions

Hollis Street Theatre—At the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, for two weeks, beginning Monday, Dec. 18, Charles Frohman presents Francis Wilson the famous fun-maker of musical comedy, in two comedies without music, one in three acts by Clyde Fitch, the other in one act, the work of Austin Strong and Lloyd Osborne. Mr. Fitch's play gives Mr. Wilson in the character of Cousin Billy all the scope required for the display of his diverting and clever methods as a laugh maker. Mr. Wilson's stage work has an irresistible quality that makes him and the role he plays interesting and amusing every moment he is on the stage. As Cousin Billy it is promised that he will be able to give full play to his entertaining powers as a comedian so the result cannot be other than gratifying to his already immense host of admirers. He will be surrounded by a capable company of Mr. Frohman's selection, "The Little Father of the Wilderness," the one-act play which will follow "Cousin Billy," enables Mr. Wilson to be seen in a character that is in strong contrast to Cousin Billy. Its scenes are laid in the Palace of Versailles, France, during the reign of Louis XV. The company supporting Mr. Wilson includes May Robson, Edith Barker, William Lewers, George S. Spencer, Rosa Cooke, Zella Sears, Elsa Garrett, Sydney Rice and Charles J. Greene. During Mr. Wilson's engagement there will be matinees Saturday only, and a special matinee Christmas Day. The regular Hollis Street Theatre prices will prevail, $1.50 to 35 cents. The performances will begin at 8 sharp.

Park Theatre—There is now playing at the Park Theatre, Boston, one of the cleverest and most humorous comedies ever seen in that city. The title of the play is "Just Out of College" and written by George Ade, the famous American humorist and playwright, the author of "The College Widow," "The County Chairman" and other great comedies. "Just Out of College" as seen at the Park, stamps Mr. Ade as the most brilliant playwright America has yet produced. It is a keen, clean, wholesome comedy that keeps audiences at the Park in uproars of laughter from the beginning to the end. There are about thirty people in the cast, and every character is a distinct type of men and women who are seen in everyday life, and created for stage purposes by the author in his best and most forceful manner. Mr. Ade has woven into his play three great love romances and has built about them the finest and keenest comedy that has been put on a Boston stage for years. While the play is all, and a great deal more than has been said of it above, it is well to bear in mind that a new and promising star appears in the part of the hero, the young man just out of college, in the person of Joseph Wheelock, Jr., who is being presented by Charles Frohman, unquestionably America's greatest theatrical manager. Mr. Wheelock is a splendid actor and a fine comedian, who has a long list of triumphs to his credit and who has been associated with Mr. Frohman's companies for the past ten years or more. "Just Out of College" is distinctively a United States play. All the characters are drawn from real life, they are not exaggerated but in presenting them in true realism, Mr. Ade has certainly given to theatregoers a comedy that has never been surpassed. Of evenings the curtain rings up at 8 and at the matinees at 2. The curtain is down at 10:30 and of afternoons at 4:30.

Grand Opera House—A clean cut melodrama, free from anything coarse or suggestive in Walter Fessler's big scenic play "The Life That Kills," which comes to the Boston Grand Opera House next week. Love forms the basis of this story, as it should in all successful plays. But there are different kinds of love, and a series of the most startling incidents leads up to a final and just ending. The action of the play is rapid, and the heart interest will hold you in suspense until the last word is spoken. The characters are all played by vaudeville artists. You will not only see a fine scenic production with an intensely interesting play, but you will be highly entertained by an excellent company of dramatic artists and first class specialties. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Keith's Theatre—Christmas shoppers in Boston will be pleased to note the excellent variety show the Keith management have arranged for their amusement during the holiday season. It will be a welcome relief to the tired shoppers to drop into Keith's for an hour or two before going home and they will be refreshed and all their little troubles will seem as naught beside the pleasant remembrance of a mirth-provoking show. Quite a novelty in the way of a sketch will be presented by Harry Foy and Florence Clark, two well-known vaudevillians, called "A Modern Jonah." It is the most ambitious little play, the scene of which is laid at the bottom of the ocean with a mirth-provoking dialogue between a jolly Jack Tar and a mermaid. Its first trial performance was given at this theatre early last spring and since that time it has proven to be a strong vehicle in other vaudeville theatres. The surrounding show will be up to the usual Keith standard with sufficient variety to please all tastes. Among the more notable entertainers on the bill will be found Fred Niblo, former manager of the Four Cohans, and one of the brightest monologue comedians in vaudeville; Mayne Remington and her "Black Buster Browns" in the latest "coon" songs and dances; Rosaire and Dorretto, "the sailor and the tar" European eccentric comedy acrobats; Kingsley and Lewis in a funny comedy sketch, "After the Honeymoon"; Helen Reimer, in a character monologue, appealing especially to women; the Mitchells, whirlwind dancers; Alf Holt, mimetic comedian and whistler, and Ellen Richards, novelty wire artist. The kinetograph will show the customary list of comedy and interesting motion pictures.

NANETTE COMSTOCK
in "The Gallop," at the Tremont.

Tremont Theatre—Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan Company have made a great success in "Leah Kleschna" at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, and are crowding that playhouse at every performance. The story of "Leah Kleschna" is wonderfully strong, appealing and intense. A girl who has been trained to thievery by her father has awakened in her the instinct for good that has been dormant because of her environment. After a struggle that involves many powerful episodes she is triumphant and happy in the end. Mrs. Fiske creates in Leah Kleschna a type that probably no other actress could duplicate. The greatness of her art was never better demonstrated. Her principal associates, John Mason, George Arliss, Frederic de Belleville and William B. Mack, all act superbly, and the minor roles are admirably played. The staging is artistic in the extreme particularly the last act, where the lettuce field is a gem of scene painting. The engagement will continue for one week longer. There is only one matinee a week—on Saturday. The performance is one that no playgoer should miss. The American stage offers nothing to equal it.

Castle Square Theatre—The coming week at the Castle Square Theatre will be made notable by a revival of "She Stoops to Conquer." Goldsmith's old comedy which is rarely seen upon the modern stage. It will form the second of the five classic productions to be made from time to time during the Castle Square season, and in scenery, costume and acting it will be as complete as modern stage art can make it. The scenery will be prepared from designs by Frank Chouteau Brown, and it will reproduce accurately the quaintness of the eighteenth century life in which its events take place. On Monday afternoon, the theatre will be entirely filled by school children and teachers for whom a special performance is to be given under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club, the first public presentation of the play coming on Monday evening. All the leading members of the stock company—Mr. Craig, Mr. Mackay, Miss Kemble and the rest—will take part in "She Stoops to Conquer."

Sportsmen's Show—The Sportsmen's Show, which the New England Forest Fish and Game Association will give in Mechanics' Building, beginning Christmas Day and extending over a period of two weeks, bids fair to far outshine any previous efforts in this line. In addition to all the exhibits gathered from almost every clime on this continent, filling the great spacious halls, basements and balconies, and including the very valuable loan exhibits by the United States Government, a special feature will be made this season of Biograph Hunt pictures taken especially for this Sportsmen's Show and illustrated talks by such well known authorities as Ernest Seton Thompson, Homer Daveport with his cartoons, Howard W. Du Bois and Frank Chapman. Spectators forgot where they were as they watched the lifelike reproductions of a sportsman landing speckled beauties, and the old hands in the audience actually imagined themselves to be on the scene as the tracking down and shooting of a lordly moose was portrayed by the moving pictures. These moving pictures will be on exhibition every day evening at the Sportsmen's Show, which opens at the Mechanics' Building on Christmas Day.

Literary Notes.

DOROTHY DAINTY AT THE SHORE.
Fourth volume of the "Dorothy Dainty Series" by Amy Brooks. Illustrated by the author. Large 12mo. Cloth.
The last volume of this winsome series for younger girls closed with the news that Nancy Ferris, formerly a village wail, but now the friend of the charming little heroine, Dorothy, had been rescued from her uncle. The meeting with Nancy is most happy, and the great stone house with its spacious grounds is filled with joy. There are happy days at the beach and in September Dorothy and Nancy live over their summer pleasures while looking forward to all that the winter promises. The characters of this book are thoroughly nice little girls to read about and know. (Price, $1.00.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company, Boston.

BEN PEPPER.
By Margaret Sidney. Tenth volume of the famous "Pepper Books." Six illustrations by Eugene M. Wireman. 12mo. Cloth.
"Reading the 'Pepper Books' is just like having the fun yourself," is the unique expression of a girl of twelve after reading these famous books, and no one has ever better expressed the true secret of the charm and enormous popularity of this series, the tenth volume of which, "Ben Pepper," is now ready. Other members of the family had had books named after them, and it was only fair that Ben, the "quiet, steady-as-a-rock boy," should have similar attention. Surely no one of the family was better worthy of a book to himself. Ben's resolute, unselfish character is finely brought out, and there are good times and good actions without number. No one of the hosts of readers of the "Pepper Books" will long be willing to be without this excellent addition to their number. (Price, $1.50.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company, Boston.

RANDY'S LUCK.
Sixth volume of the "Randy Books." By Amy Brooks. Illustrated by the author. Cloth.
In this book Randy is the same fine companion for the girls who meet her for the first time, or have learned to know and love her in previous volumes. Her power for winning and holding friends is so marked that some envious companions in the country village where her home is say that it is simply Randy's "luck" that so many are fond of her. Other fairer-minded ones, who know her well, refuse to take this view, and the course of the story proves that what some call luck is nothing else than Randy's unselfish and lovable nature, with her tactful and ready service to others. (Price, $1.00.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company, Boston.

THE BOY CRAFTSMAN.
Practical and Profitable Ideas for a Boy's Leisure Hours.

By A. Neely Hall. Illustrated with many diagrams and working drawings. 8vo. Cloth.
"The Boy Craftsman," by A. Neely Hall, is a very comprehensive guide to the exercise of mechanical ingenuity and handsome and well illustrated, as well as practical. Every real boy wishes to design and make things, but the questions of materials and tools are often hard to get around. Nearly all books on the subject call for a greater outlay of money than is within the means of many boys, of their parents wish to expend in such ways. This book is the very best yet offered for its large number of practical and profitable ideas. A number of chapters give suggestions for carrying on a small business that will bring a boy in money with which to buy tools and materials necessary for making apparatus and articles described in other chapters, while the ideas are so practical that many an industrious boy can learn what he is best fitted for in his life work. No work of its class is so completely up-to-date or so worthy in point of thoroughness and avoidance of danger. This element alone places Mr. Hall's work beyond comparison, and as an example of the practical nature of the book it can be said that what many a boy wants is not an expensive workshop, which is out of the question, but directions for building a shanty with what material he can pick up, and in the chapter "A Backyard Club House" just such treatment has been presented. The idea of economy is everywhere carried out, teaching a valuable lesson and commending the work to parents who will more willingly buy a book that does not suggest a constant future drain on the purse. The drawings are profuse and excellent, and every feature of the book is first-class. (Price $2.00.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company, Boston.

DOLLY'S DOUBLE.
By Ethel Wood. Illustrated. 12mo. Cloth.

In this charming little book, two girls, Dolly and Isabelle, have such striking resemblance that they can hardly be told apart. They are not supposed to be related, but they live together, and later, by the clearing up of a mystery, it appears that they are really sisters. They have lots of pleasant times and doings at the seaside, and the children will enjoy the naturalness and vivacity of the tale. (Price, $1.00.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company, Boston.

THE ONLY TRUE MOTHER GOOSE.

Being an exact reprint of the original edition published in Boston in 1833. With introduction by Rev. Edward Everett Hale.
In 1833 the firm of Munroe & Francis, in Boston, produced what was called "The Only True Mother Goose Melodies without Addition or Abridgement, Embracing also a Reliable Life of the Goose Family." A number of imprints editions of these original jingles with their profusion of quaint, well-executed black wood-cuts were produced by different book-sellers, and gave enjoyment to thousands of children and their elders. A great many people of advancing age have a distinct recollection of this book, but it has long been out of print and copies have become very scarce and valuable. The Boston Library did not have one until 1902, and it is now among their most carefully guarded volumes. Mrs. Harriet Blackstone C. Butler, a well-known member of the Daughters of the Revolution possessed a carefully treasured copy, and when this came to the notice of Dr. Edward Everett Hale he enthusiastically urged its reproduction and proved his great interest in the matter by writing an entertaining introduction. The work of reproducing has been perfectly done, and the book is sure of a wide circulation, as it will bring back childhood days to a great number who will in turn wish the children of the present day to know what their parents or grandparents enjoyed. It ought to meet with all the favor that Dr. Hale expects for it. (Price, 60 cents.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company, Boston.

IN THE LINE.

Third volume of the "Phillips Exeter Series." By A. T. Dudley. Illustrated by Charles Copeland.
Mr. A. T. Dudley, athlete and educator, has increased his "Phillips Exeter Series" to three volumes by a new book entitled "In The Line," which tells how a stalwart young student won his position as guard, and at the same time made equally marked progress in the formation of character. It is in the same vein as his first book, "Following the Ball," which gives the fortunes of a player in the back field in connection with his general school life, and like that book gives much information regarding the game and the best way of playing some of its important positions. The story also introduces the leading arguments for and against football in connection with the difficulties to be overcome before the hero's father finally consents to allow his son to represent his academy in this way. As in the case of the former books of this series, the boys will like it for its good fellowship and accurate presentation of athletic information, and their older friends will approve of it for the inherent manliness which is never lacking in Mr. Dudley's books. (Price, $1.45.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company, Boston.

THE BOSS OF LITTLE ARCADE.
By Harry Leon Wilson. Full page and text illustrations by Rose Cecil O'Neill. 12mo. Cloth.

Mr. Wilson's friends who have examined his latest work, "The Boss of Little Arcade," are delighted that he has gone back to the field of pure entertainment and genuine American humor in which he made so distinct and lasting a success in "The Spenders." "The Boss," whose title has been bestowed partly in jest, is the editor of a weekly paper of a typical village in the Middle West. The real hero of the book is his staunch friend, though his rival in love. The story is told by a friend, who left the village at the call of the Civil War, returning as Major to resume his law practice and to figure in a delightfully told romance. The humor is everywhere present and of a very high order.

A leading critic said of Mr. Wilson's first book that if there was such a thing as the American novel of a new method "The Spenders" was the one, and that it was absolutely to be enjoyed from the first page to the last. The same can be said of this book with the further remark that it represents a higher literary art and an even more genial and pleasing quality of humor than his first success. It is no wonder that it has been one of the leading books of the country in the number of orders placed for it in advance of publication. (Price, $1.50.) Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company, Boston.

THE CLAFLIN PURCHASE

Strong Organization to Accomplish It

MR. FRANK A. DAY, PRESIDENT

Messrs. Kelsey, Gorham, Densison and Garcelon, Executive Committee

Encouraged by a partial canvas of West Newton, Newtonville and Auburndale, a meeting of gentlemen at the Braeburn Club recently determined to push energetically the proposed purchase of the Gov. Claflin estate on Walnut street for municipal purposes. To that end Mr. Frank A. Day was elected president and an executive committee appointed, consisting of Messrs Charles E. Kelsey, Robert S. Gorham, Charles S. Densison and William F. Garcelon. To this committee the several ward committees having the active canvas in hand will report.

The remarks made by Mr. Frank A. Day at this meeting so well expressed not only the purpose of this movement, but the newer view of the responsibilities of wealth that it was unanimously voted to ask his consent to their publication. This being given, they are herewith presented in the belief that they will prove of interest to the citizens of Newton.

I have been asked to say a few words about a project which has been before quite a number of us here present to-night for some time, namely, that of securing through private subscription, but for public uses, the grounds of the late honored Ex-Governor, William Claflin.

As you are all aware, the project first originated in a keenly-felt need for an athletic ground for the young men of our high school, but soon after it broadened into a question of whether, in view of the larger thoughts and possibilities for the future that were in some of our minds, the whole of the 22 acres, rather than a mere corner, should not be acquired. To some of us the larger project has appealed, but perhaps more feel the urging to do something from the important immediate necessity of an exercise ground for our young men. It seems to me that it would be a great misfortune if we confined ourselves to the smaller project and allowed the larger opportunity to slip from our grasp, at least without first making a very earnest, even strenuous, effort to do the greater thing. And I may say that when the thought of buying the whole of the Claflin place was first talked of and the suggestion made that the city should buy it, many of us who were most interested to see it acquired felt that the financial condition of the city at present did not warrant petitioning the municipality to make such a large expenditure for what, just now, seems in the nature of a luxury.

But it has been thought that there might be found a sufficient number of our public-spirited citizens who would meet the expense, provided they could see how paramount seemed the reasons for such action—reasons not all immediate, but some of them relating to the future.

NEWTON'S FUTURE GROWTH.

Newton, now a city of 37,000 inhabitants, is, as we all will agree, bound to grow, and that rather faster in the future than has been the case in the past, and I for one believe that, by reason of certain conditions in our surrounding territory, the next two to five years are to see almost a veritable boom in Newton really. I firmly believe that the future, looking ahead ten to twenty years, is even brighter than most of us imagine. The reasons I cannot, at the present time, give at length, but one is involved in the automobile and its decided lessening of the well-to-do of the distance to the neighboring metropolis.

Another is the growing crowded condition of the neighboring town of Brookline, except that portion devoted to large estates which it is probable will, for many years, be held in the same fashion and not put upon the market to be cut up into small parcels. So we should not, therefore, contemplate our needs from the basis of a population of less than 40,000, but should think of the not far distant time when we shall easily number from 60,000 to 80,000 and when it will not be easy to secure, especially around the central portion of the city where it will be most serviceable, places of ample size, except at an enormous cost.

REASONS FOR PURCHASE.

Now the paramount reasons for purchasing the entire plot of land vary, I think, with the different advocates. Some think it should be bought and held as the large central part of the city, with proper landscape treatment. Others, viewing the coming necessity, as they see it, of a new city hall, have spoken of it as a future situation for such a building, located, as they see it, under or near the two elms in about the center. And then again, others have mentioned the need of the extension of the present, or an entirely new, high school. And all these, perhaps, place first in their minds the absolute necessity of the Lowell Avenue corner for athletics.

I have no criticism to make of any of these suggestions, except the bringing of the city hall into the question at all (and this I think we are all getting to feel) for that is a question where there are varied opinions, growing out of the necessity of such a building being accessible and the claim, perhaps, of the locality where it has for many years been situated. It would not be wise to prejudice this project by bringing up the prevalent differences of ideas that exist on this point. Many would shrink from committing themselves, perhaps ten years before a city hall was built, to any particular spot, and, indeed, by taking too strong a position on it now, even could it be done unanimously, we might raise expectations and so complicate the matter when the question came up for decision.

To my mind there is enough force in the other needs that, perhaps, few would dispute, and some further uses that later I will endeavor to point out, and the whole leads me to feel very earnest that we push the larger project, calling upon all citizens, no matter in what section of the city they reside, to join heartily and as their ability will permit.

And just here I appeal for breadth of view as regards the benefit to Ward 2 that some may feel is too great. As broad-minded men I feel that we should look at this from the standpoint of the great good to the whole municipality, rather than from any prejudice at one section of the city being benefited more than another section.

PRACTICALLY AND SENTIMENTALLY.
Now for the reasons as they present themselves to me. First, the location. Practically, its centrality. Sentimentally, its history.

I believe I am correct in stating that the exact geographical center of Newton is at the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Walnut street. My actual measurement I think you will find that the center of this Claflin land is 2400 feet from said junction. Furthermore, that it is only 2400 feet from Newtonville Square, and both these places are street railway junctions, while between both these junctions the electric line passes the Claflin estate.

Therefore, a walk from either of the junction points would be no great infliction upon any citizen, and with the free transfers that we trust will be universal throughout the city before many months have rolled by, a single fare would bring us right to the place.

Then sentimentally. Probably most of you cannot remember the times of the civil war, but I can distinctly, for I was then, as now, a resident of Newton, and as a lad of ten can very clearly recollect riding by and seeing gathered under those noble elms the family of our honored Ex-Governor with many brilliant men and women enlisted ardently in the cause of antislavery and the preservation of the Union. Many were those gatherings, continued all through the war. I will not attempt to name the distinguished personages that often came to their hospitable house, but as my memory serves me, their number included about all who were in any way prominent at that time in the affairs of the state and nation. As time goes on the sentimental interest in this spot will grow, especially as this historic fact becomes more generally known, and it seems to me that it would be a distinct loss, for this reason alone, should we fail to retain as our Good Ground this spot devoted in the past to so many patriotic thoughts and plans, hopes and prayers.

SOME USES FOR THE LAND.

Second. The erection of a Public bath-house. This need, as I think an absolute one, has been in the minds of many of our citizens for upwards of five years. I need not enlarge upon this except to say, that it would seem quite necessary that this should be placed near the center of the city, and that if "cleanliness is next to Godliness" we need it quite as much as the uplifting influence of any other distinctively moral or charitable institution in our midst. And, further, as to the advantage of a bath-house outside of cleanliness, I think it is a fair assumption that the municipality owes a duty to the young people to give them an opportunity to learn to swim and so render them able, should occasion arise, to preserve their own lives and to prove of assistance to others in rescuing them from drowning. I may add that many of us have been aware for some time that the accommodations of our neighboring municipality have been utilized by not a few of our Newton young men.

Third. Some of us have felt that, following a public bathhouse and adjoining it, might well be located a public gymnasium such as, I understand, is now planned by Brookline, which already has for some years had the bath-house.

Fourth. A technical or mechanic arts high school. For some little while the feeling has prevailed, I think, that this addition to our educational equipment will shortly have to come. While it may be said that such a school building might be placed back of the present high school, yet, considering the best architectural effect, it should be placed on a thoroughfare like Walnut Street.

Fifth. A public library. All of us who are familiar with the facts realize that the present library is not in the most available section of the city, although very possibly, by the system of branches in the different wards, that is partially overcome. The present library, built some thirty-five years ago, has no particular architectural attractiveness and is, withal, already overcrowded, notwithstanding the substantial extensions made some four years ago at an expense of, as I remember, something like $20,000.

Sixth. An Art building. The necessity of this is not so readily seen, but I think that on reflection it will appear that we might well cultivate an art museum, even if, in the adjoining metropolis, there are opportunities to the Art lover.

Seventh. A building for the Newton Historical Society. It may not be known to some of you that such a society exists, and as time goes on it may be thought fitting that they shall have an appropriate home.

Here then we have before us the possibility of what we may call the William Claflin Park, what, for short, may be called the Good Ground, used in a far different sense from Jerome's application of it as regards the New York political boss. Toward this ground, so centrally located and, in the first place, perhaps, treated by an expert landscape artist, with the thoughts of our citizens centered upon its future possibilities, as time went on, and we not only focussed our own thoughts, but endeavored to draw the attention of others, perhaps more able than ourselves to make it still better ground, there would arise in time a sentimental attachment to it that would lead our citizens to feel it an honor to have something to do with its adornment.

One wealthy citizen might feel like leaving a monument to himself, far more practical than a mausoleum over his grave, in the line of a beautiful building devoted to culture of the mind—a public library.

Another, a lover of Art, might find satisfaction in putting up a structure which would enable other citizens, as they found choice works of Art on their travels, to secure them for the museum to the benefit of their fellow-citizens. And in that way a love of Art might be cultivated among such of the people in our midst as would not avail themselves of the Art treasures of Boston.

THE DUTY OF WEALTH.

It will not be long before a different view will be taken of wealth and its use. Now those who have a surplus, or at least some of them, oftentimes do consider it a duty to give of their abundance, but many of them do not come into that sense of satisfaction, nay, even keen pleasure, which a devotion to what may be called the social purpose affords. We are going to realize more and more, I think, as time goes on, that not the hoarding of money, nor the lavish adornment of our persons, nor the power to rule selfishly in the lives of others through the wealth that is given us, are true riches, but that the social purpose will dawn upon us as the true human wealth. And so, as time goes on, more and more, our citizens are going to come into this realization, and in the joy of it are going to endeavor in their day and generation to help on the human race to a higher standard of living in all ways. And here in Claflin Park will be a place for the exploitation of this passion.

Before us, now, is the opportunity of starting the good work, and I think if we fully realize these possibilities, and work energetically, we can look forward to success in this our project.

The Jews in War

Charles Ward Post 62.
G. A. R.

Expresses Warm Opinion by Resolutions

At the regular meeting of Charles Ward Post No. 62, G. A. R., held last evening at the hall in Newtonville, the following "Memorandum," prepared by Comrades Henry Haynie and W. A. Wetherbee, committee on publicity, was accepted and ordered to be placed among the archives of the post:

As you all know, the Jews, assisted by many Americans who are not of that race and creed, have been celebrating recently the 250th anniversary of their first arrival in this country. As a consequence we have been hearing or reading a great deal about the history and condition of the Jews in the United States, a territory which, exclusive of Russia and Austria, contains the largest concourse of Israelites under one government in the world. We have thus learned of the first Jewish settlers from Spain and Portugal, the German element, and, finally, the emigration from Russia, brought on and hastened by the persecution of the Jews in that empire. We have thus been told of their early struggles to establish themselves and their religion in this country; of their participation in the events leading up to the revolution; of their more prominent men and women; of their success in commerce, industry, finance and education; of their care of the sick and poverty-stricken, their free schools and technical schools, their philanthropic and theological institutions, their publication societies and libraries; of their standing in science and art, literature and the learned professions, their eminence in music and on the stage; of their newspapers, their clubs and their social condition generally. But in the one department of citizenship in which comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic are perhaps most interested we have heard nothing, or at least next to nothing, of the Jewish Americans, and it is to supply this neglect or oversight that this present paper has been prepared.

We refer, of course, to the part which the Jews in this country have taken in our wars, and particularly in the war of rebellion. At the outbreak of the revolutionary movement and before the formation of strong parties was brought about, the Jews were almost to a man supporters of the colonial contentions, and a good many of them served as soldiers under Washington during the war of Independence. In the war of 1812 only a few Jews participated, but the number was increased during the Mexican war, where one of them was so distinguished as to be twice thanked by congress for gallantry, and it was he who, several years later, as surgeon general, organized the medical departments of the Confederate armies.

We come now to the record of the Jews in that long and terrible war of rebellion in which the members of this post, and all members of the Grand Army of the Republic, had the privilege and the distinction of participating. Between 7000 and 8000 Jews, in all ranks, saw service on both sides of that great conflict. When it is stated that there was then hardly more than 100,000 Jews in the United States, it will be seen that the actual percentage of Israelites in that war was nearly 8 per cent. almost as good an average as that of all other religions and peoples combined. Included in this more than 7000 who saw service in the civil war were 9 generals, 18 colonels, 8 lieutenant-colonels, 40 majors, 205 captains, 325 lieutenants, 48 adjutants and 25 surgeons.

Finally, it appears that in the recent Spanish-American war the Jews of the United States responded nobly to their country's call, the numbers engaged in the army and navy amounting to 50 officers and 2402 soldiers and sailors. As for that, a considerable number of Jews have always been found in our regular army and navy, and some of them have been conspicuous officers. It will hardly be denied, then, that the Jews of America, naturalized and native, are deserving of our sympathy and respect, and that those of them who served in the Union armies during the war of rebellion are entitled to our love and admiration as loyal comrades.

If you are contemplating the purchase of a piano, a good precedent to go by is that established by the NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC in selecting forty Stieff pianos for their school this year. 'THE NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC' is the largest institution in the world for the teaching of music. Their judgment on a piano is expert.

THE STIEFF piano manufacturers make a specialty of building pianos for schools. Why? Because they have to stand a severe test and the STIEFF has stood this test for the past fifty years. Why not profit by the example set by the NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC? If you do you will make no mistake.

Contributions for this department are earnestly solicited and should be sent to Miss Grace M. Burt, 94 Charlesbank Road, Newton, as early in the week as possible and not later than Wednesday in order to insure publication the same week.

The regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held on Friday afternoon, December 8. Prof. Katherine Lee Bates of Wellesley College gave a very interesting paper on "The Christmas Carols and Stories of Andalusia." These comprised the legends and folk lore of southern Spain relating to the Christmas story and had been translated by Prof. Bates.

At the close Mrs. Walton asked the members for contributions of clothing and books for the barrels which are sent annually to Tuskegee and Mrs. Anna L. Bailey solicited books for the traveling libraries sent by the State Federation. Contributions for both may be sent to Mrs. Walton's marked for the purpose intended. There will be no other meeting this month.

At the meeting of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands on December 11 the members were personally conducted over the Appian way in a most delightful manner. Selections from "Quo Vadis" were read and special topics on "Rienzo" and "Garibaldi" were given. The Christmas meeting will take place next week with Mrs. G. W. Bail of Walnut street.

The last meeting of the Pierian Club was held Dec. 6, at the home of Mrs. Edith Cooper, Newton Highlands. Papers were read on the Religion and Temples of Japan. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Cooper.

The conference of presidents of federated clubs of Massachusetts, held at the Vendome on Dec. 2, was most interesting occasion. Miss Helen A. Whittier, state president, welcomed the club presidents and presided over the discussion, the subject of which was, "How to Attain the Highest Efficiency in Club and Federation Work." "Rotation in office" was first discussed. One club president advocated "taking turn." The next speaker objected to this as the best fitted for office should be placed in office. Nominations from the floor, the making of an informal ballot formal, and the appointment of nomination committees were next considered. It was generally agreed that not only should the club have a good president, but that she should have the best possible assistants on the board. While it was agreed that nominations from the floor are more democratic, yet a carefully chosen nominating committee safeguards the club from the results of a want of proper consideration of the needs of the club. The raising of the annual fee was another subject brought up, and just here Miss Whittier stated that the state federation needs a larger treasury, and that the matter should come up for consideration at another time. The state treasurer, Mrs. Katherine E. Flagg of Brockton, spoke of the work of her office.

Mrs. Cora Stuart Jones, chairman of the federation forestry committee, made a special plea for interest in the preservation of the White Mountains and the Southern Appalachian Mountains, saying that the two great needs are money and public sentiment.

The committee on industrial conditions of women and children asked that the work of the general federation committee be endorsed, stating that Congress is to be asked to investigate the industrial conditions of women and children throughout the country.

The chairman of the civic committee, Miss Emily C. Fisher, asked that every club should become a member of the Civic League. Miss Elizabeth Foster, chairman of the pure food committee, reported that over 30 clubs had considered the subject of pure food this season.

Then came the topic of the federation bazaar. At the time of the burning of the Massachusetts Model School in Georgia, the federation greatly felt the need of an emergency fund, and it is proposed to hold a fair to raise money for this and other worthy objects. Each president was appointed chairman for her own club with power to add to her committee. The fair is to be held in Horticultural Hall, Boston, opening on Wednesday evening, March 14, and continuing through Saturday, March 17. Each of the 25 booths will have a distinctive flower. There will be an art exhibition by women artists, and the whole scheme of the fair will be one of the highest artistic beauty.

A book called "The Higher Life of Chicago" reviews the women's clubs of that city. It lists eighty-two clubs, with a membership of from fifteen thousand to twenty thousand. Sixteen of these clubs make "the home" the chief object of their study, and the same number give "philanthropy" as the main purpose of their organizations. Nearly one-half of them carry on vacation schools. An equal number engage in social settlement work. Fourteen conduct, directly or indirectly, model lodging-houses; twenty interest themselves in the work of the Juvenile Court; while parental schools, hospitals, and various other charitable organizations enjoy the co-operation of nearly all the rest.—Federation Bulletin.

No reader of the Federation Bulletin can doubt the earnest purpose of these committees. The Pure Food Committee requested that each club should at a meeting sometime in November consider the subject of Pure Foods and pass resolutions urging the passage of a National Pure Food Bill. Now the Civil Service Committee issues this request: "With the approach of January, the month designated for civil service reform meetings, it may be well to call the attention of the clubs to the request of the Civil Service Reform Committee that each club in the General Federation shall devote a meeting in January or soon after, to a consideration of the Merit System.

"Many clubs have arranged to hold such meetings, all with a view to a better understanding of the Merit System, to an awakening of the public conscience and to a more intelligent public opinion. "Please remember that your Committee is ready to help you in any way; it is only waiting to learn what aid you require.

Georgie A. Bacon, Chairman.

"We advise that the clubs and federations in all our States and Territories concentrate in the work of bringing their State and county institutions under a Civil Service Law, thus insuring that the officials entrusted with the care of the members of the criminal and dependent classes, who by coming into our keeping are our moral charge, may be selected through open and honorable competition.

Our reformed methods of dealing with problems brought by advancing civilization demand that our officials shall be men and women of special training and fitness.

The modern State has assumed by appropriate legislation the responsibility for conditions that make for a higher conception of citizenship, and we have a right to demand that she shall take the further step of giving us fit instruments with which to carry on the work, which, as expressed by her best and most disinterested thinkers, she has planned.

L. S. W. Perkins,

Chairman of Advisory Committee.

Again the Child Labor Committee calls attention to the resolutions adopted at St. Louis in regard to efforts to ameliorate the working condition for the children:—

"To concentrate upon the passage of laws covering these points: (1) That children under the age of sixteen years should not work between the hours of 7 P. M. and 7 A. M. (2) That children should not work who cannot read and write in the English language. (3) In States in which these two points are already covered by effective laws, the adoption of the standard child labor law is recommended, including the newsboys' law.

"Please note the word 'effective.' A law which is not enforced is worse than none, if it causes the friends of the children to cease their observation of conditions, and work for their reform.

Besides procuring the actual passage of laws wherever needed and possible, the Committee would urge the continuance and increase of earnest, quiet work in the formation of correct public opinion upon the subject of child labor.

"Those who wish to use the cheap labor of children do not scruple to affirm that such work is beneficial in every way, but not even they can hold out against a solid public opinion upon the right side. Except when there is immediate opportunity for seeing its results, we find very great ignorance upon this subject among people who are otherwise well informed.

In the backward States, where there are few or no laws protecting the children, this informing the public of the true state of affairs is absolutely vital, and your Committee begs that it be done systematically and vigorously.

"The Committee congratulates those States in which there has been marked advance this year, and hopes that many more will have such results to show at the St. Paul Biennial.

Mrs. Sara T. S. Leighton, Mrs. W. R. Hollowell,
Miss Sophie B. Wright,
Mrs. Caroline D. G. Granger.

Chairman." More and more are the clubs and the club workers coming to understand the opportunities that are theirs and little by little the purely literary club is broadening its scope and realizing that it cannot afford to exist simply for selfculture, when there remain so many things to be done for the bettering of conditions throughout the country.

ADMISSION OF CLUBS.

Attention is called to the following circular letter which has been sent to the General Federation Secretary in each State:—

To the General Federation Secretary:

Dear Madam.—The next Biennial Convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will be held at St. Paul, Minn. It will open May 31, 1906, and close June 7. As a General Federation Secretary, your attention is called to Article 2, Section 4, of the By-laws concerning the admission of the clubs to membership, as follows:—

"Section 4.—The committee shall admit no organization whose application is not filed with the President of the General Federation at least ninety days preceding the first day of the Biennial meeting."

Will you kindly see that all clubs in your State desiring to join the Federation have their application papers in the hands of the Membership Committee by March 2, 1906, in order that there may be no delay or misunderstanding.

Very sincerely yours,

Mary Belle King Sherman, Recording Secretary, General Federation.

Literary Notes

For more than three centuries the patient little burro has been an inhabitant of the New World. He is of Egyptian descent, and it may be that he helped to build the pyramids; but it is to Spain that we are indebted for his coming. Soon after Cortez conquered the Aztec land, we hear of the burro in America. He is found chiefly in Mexico and the southwestern states, especially in the mining districts, where he may be seen carrying great loads of ore. He is opposed to the use of machinery. Miners call a bunch of laden burros a pack train. He is a very sure-footed little animal, and prospectors use him when they go forth into the mountains to explore. Mexicans find him very useful in carrying. He is so gentle that children may ride upon his back in threes and fours. He appears to have no resentment, and tience of Job. There is no doubt but that will take a kick or a cuff with the patience he is terribly imposed upon, and people call him a degenerate; yet no member of the animal kingdom works harder than he, and it is generally conceded that he has aided largely in the development and building of mines and railroads.—Helen Gray, in Recreation for December.

Communication

A little more than ten years ago, a man died in Newton, loved and revered by all. The words of that man have thrilled the hearts of millions in our land, and will continue to thrill the hearts of millions more until the end of time. That man was Rev. Dr. S. F. Smith, author of our grand, inspiring national hymn "America." The thoughts emphasized in that hymn are Liberty:

"My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet Land of liberty,
Of thee I sing:
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrim's pride,
From every mountain side
Let freedom ring!"

Love of Country and of Nature:
"My native country, thee,
Land of the noble free,
Thy name I love:
I love thy rocks and rills,
Thy woods and templed hills;
My heart with rapture thrills
Like that above."

Love of Art:
"Let music swell the breeze,
And ring from all the trees
Sweet freedom's song;
Let mortal tongues awake;
Let all that breathe partake;
Let rocks their silence break,
The song prolong."

And grander than all, and above all, Sublime Faith in God:
"Our Father's God, to thee,
Author of liberty.

To thee we sing:
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light;
Protect us by thy might,
Great God, our King."

Does the man who wrote these glorious words deserve a fitting memorial? There can be but one answer, he does! That being the case, is there any memorial, so fitting, as the homestead, at Newton Centre, bought, repaired, and maintained? I think not. Will we do it? I think we will.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES

One of the coming social events of the new year will be the annual prize drill of the Claflin Guard to be held in their armory Monday evening, Jan. 15, 1906. This is a competitive drill open to company members for the famous Pulsifer medal. A silver medal, and bronze medal will also be given to the second and third best drilled men respectively. This affair is always looked forward to with great interest by the members and their many friends, and this year, under the direction of their new commander Capt. Guilford it promises to be a notable affair.

Recruits continue to pour in which speaks well for the renewed interest which is manifested in the life of the company.

Ex-Lieut. Daly has been decorated with the long service medal given for nine years continuous service in the militia.

It is rumored that the non-Commissioned officers are going to give a minstrel show about the first of February. Look out for local hits.

Drill for next week is postponed until Tuesday evening, as Christmas comes on Monday.

Reduce the water rates.

Police Paragraphs.

Coming Attractions

Tremont Theatre.—The new play by Richard Harding Davis in which Manager Henry W. Savage will present Raymond Hitchcock will be produced at the Tremont Theatre, beginning with a special Christmas matinee. It is a farce in three acts dealing with the experience of a number of Americans during the Greco-Turkish war and is called "The Galloper," the title being an expression employed by war correspondents to describe a despatch bearer who first gets hunting, fishing, field sports and games; another whole group will show aquatic life, food and game fishes; methods of fish culture, fish food, aquatic plant life, casts and drawings of fish, anglers' equipments, preserved fish, and all the literature and equipments of taxidermy. A tremendous amount of detail has gone into this fish exhibit; aquaria filled with living fish, which have been brought to Boston in special tank cars, will show more completely than has ever been seen before, a collection of the gamey fighters so exciting to capture, and so good to eat. A lake has been constructed in the main hall, where sportsmen will give fly-casting exhibitions and hold contests in canoes; in the triangular hall, a brook will flow from a dammed pond where beaver, otter and muskrats will dwell, through a duck pond where water fowl will be shown. Caged wild anese-American musical comedy, which Manager Lawrence McCarthy secured as the Christmas holiday attraction at the Boston Theatre, and which entered upon its limited career at the big New England playhouse last Monday evening, is a success—unquestionably the biggest musical success of the season in Boston. It is the Jefferson De Angelis Opera Company, and this famous comedian has for his right bower a no less popular comedienne than that tempest of jollity, mirth and frivolity, Miss Toby Claude, together with such other favorites as Julia Sanderson, Catherine Cooper, Adelaide Sharp, Gertrude Millington, Norma Bell, Frank Rushworth, Hubert Wilke, William Haiseld, Robert Broderick, Osborne Searle and Philip Leigh. Add to this collection of stage celebrities a large, buoyant and efficient chorus, including scores of pretty girls, and you have an idea of the roster of the aggregation. The music is delightfully catchy, the comedy side-splittingly funny, the characters unique the situations and complications both novel and entertaining, and the production itself artistic beyond compare. The scenes are laid in California, Japan and the deck of a magnificent private yacht. There will be a special Christmas Day matinee.

Whist.

An interesting hand was played at one of the tournament games of the American Whist Club and a whist lover who followed the board around the room found much food for reflection in the different manner in which the cards were played at different tables. The opening was in the North hand and for the first four tables the leader was evidently afraid of the only suit worth opening in the hand, the spade. The first man opened the top of the clubs and the hand went as outlined in the first table in this column. The second opener led the top of the diamonds and did a little better than the first leader, making 8 tricks and losing one other by careless play. It was not until way along in the afternoon that the board was played as it should have been played and as outlined in the second table herewith.

North and South 7. East and West 6.

Trick 2. With the club opening and such a strong hand, the clubs likely fied in running to trumps. The lead to be ruffed by west, South is just of the 10 is not commended but the temptation to lead through the jack turned is strong. As a matter of fact it is immaterial which trump is led.

Tricks 5-7. South was completely disgusted with the unexpected result of his game, while West gets some valuable spade discards.

Trick 10. South can save a trick here if he had any indication of his partner's spades, by leading the king and after West is forced he will have to lead the diamonds up to South's ten-ace.

North and South 10. East and West 3. Trick 1, the only opening from the hand. Trick 2. North does well to overtake and give partner some discards on the two following tricks.

Trick 4. East should trump the spade, although he is certain to be overtrumped. Trick 10. South's lead of the 13th diamond is a gem as it enables North and South to make their high trumps separately.

Newton High had little difficulty in registering a 2 to 1 victory over Rindge M. T. S. at Newton Tuesday. The Newton forwards outclassed the Cambridge forwards in every department, and but for the marvellous stops of Skilton at goal for Rindge would undoubtedly have scored a decisive win. Newton was all to the good at passing, but woefully lacking in accuracy for goal drives.

1906 CALENDARS

We have been favored with the following calendars for 1906: A. H. Wait has a beautiful photo reproduction in his relief of "The Debutante." B. E. Bloom, a handsome oval picture in colors of "The Debutantes." Geo. J. Barker Lumber Co. issues its usual sensible office calendar and has a neat little photo calendar for the ladies.

to the wire, and files his 'story.' Nobody knows a good story better than Richard Harding Davis and few can approach him as stylist when it comes to telling it. The droll, refined humor of Mr. Hitchcock captivated thousands during the run of "The Yankee Consul" the past two seasons. It is believed that this role in the straight comedy provides ample opportunity for his work. Manager Savage has engaged a cast of unusual strength to launch the play. Edgar Dayenport has been released from the eastern "College Widow" company to create the part of Kirke Warren. May Buckley a comedienne of ability; Nanette Comstock, who was with Otis Skinner and an actress of exceptional talent and Helen Lackaye have in important roles. Others who will be seen are Harry Stone, L. Rogers Lytton, Harold Vizard, Herbert Cortright, T. Daniel Frawley, E. B. Tilton, M. W. Rale, Howard Potter, Scott Cooper and others.

Grand Opera House.—The story of "When the World Sleeps," the Christmas week offering at the Boston Grand Opera House, opening with an extra matinee on Monday, Christmas Day, is a dramatic recital of the life and destiny of York State village folks. The animals, skins, collections of birds, and all the fascinating concomitants of wild life will fully occupy the tremendous space. Motion pictures, talks by well known and interesting students of wild life, and other entertainments will fully fill every day. Live Esquimaux dogs, hauling their sledge, trained buffalo calves with their cart. Huron and Old Town Indians, and at every step some special object of interest will keep the observer busy from arrival to departure spend he never so many afternoons and evenings.

Keith's Theatre.—The juvenile patron of Keith's will find that unusual preparations for his entertainment have been made at that popular amusement resort during the week commencing Dec. 25, on which day the doors of the theatre will be thrown open at 11 A. M. instead of 1:30 P. M. Beside the usual big variety for which Keith's is justly famed there will be Christmas trees in the rear of the orchestra floor and balconies which will be handsomely decorated with electric lights and fairly crowded with presents for the youngsters. Books and dolls will be given to the girls and mechanical toys to the boys. For several months the management have been making strenuous efforts to get the best juvenile entertainment that can be pro-characters are varied and most uncommon. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday and there will be an extra holiday on Monday, Christmas Day.

Sportsmen's Show.—This year's Sportsmen's Show of the New England Forest, Fish and Game Association to be held in Mechanics' Building, Boston, for two weeks begins Christmas Day, and instead of showing the last of the buffalo, will show the first of the buffalo to be domesticated and used as draught animals. Instead of carefully hiding the fact that the forests of New England are disappearing at an alarming rate before the ruthlessness of commercial need, it demonstrates in dozens of interesting exhibits what is being done by the nation, the states and private individuals toward reforesting this part of the United States. Camps illustrating the methods various enthusiasts have found worth while for comfort and convenience will be set all about both halls; one whole group of all subjects consists of exhibits of weapons of the chase, ancient and modern, of trophies of sport and of displays by industries associated with

Miss Gray's Dance

Mrs. Morris Gray of Chestnut Hill gave a pretty dance at the Hotel Sora-set, Boston, Tuesday night in honor of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Gray, who is one of the season's debutantes.The great ballroom was decorated with ropes and wreaths of laurel and holly, and had a real Christmas atmosphere, to which was added the soft rose-like light from the pink-shaded incandescent lamps.The palm room, arranged for "sitting out" had many attractive nooks made by groups of palms, in the branches of which were the shaded lights. Very effective were the decorations in this room, consisting of much southern smilax mixed with holly as a frieze about the walls, and over the arch was an exquisite combination of holly with many red berries, in vivid contrast to the brown of pine cones with which it was intermingled.The favors for the cotillon were grouped beneath the balcony. They were hearts, darts, pretty umbrellas and flower baskets, pink, blue and red predominating, and the whole making a glowing mass of color.Mrs. Gray was gowned in white satin brocade and Miss Gray in white satin and tulle. She received many very lovely bouquets and baskets of flowers.
The cotillon was led by Miss Gray and
Mr. Grafton Minot.Among the ushers were Morris Gray, Jr., Robert Grant, Jr., Alexander Grant,
Patrick Grant, Jr., nephews of Mrs.
Gray; L. D. Cameron Bradley, Daniel exhall, Tucker Bird, Jr., Arthur Adams, John Richardson, Jr., James Roosevelt, Constantine Hutchins, James Hooper, Jr., Charles Bird, Jr.

o'clock. The Romanians, a three-act

hearsed by several of the young society

ber of the cast.Between the acts, selections will be musicians.Mrs. Helen St. Clair, violin; Mrs.

day morning. Parents and friends were invited.—Next Sunday at the Methodist church, at 10.45, Christmas sermon by be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. No service in the evening.—The W. C. T. U. services at the Methodist church last Sunday evening, were attended by delegations from the Unions of West Newton, Auburndale and Highlandville. The pastor, Rev. O.

W. Scott, spoke on "Crusade Day" recounting the beginning of the W. C. T.
U. and tracing its great work for 31 years. Mrs. M. Millie Beardsley of Auburndale, and Mrs. Alice Worcester weeks of Waltham, rendered solos and duets during the services. Their singing was very attractive and added greatly to the evening hour. They are both members of the Kate Belle Walton Concert Company.

At the Churches

The Young People's Chorus, a new singing society connected with the Channing Unitarian church, provided an excellent Vesper service last Sunday afternoon.The Chorus was assisted by Win.
Dodge, violinist; Carl Dodge, cellist;
Stuart Mason, organist and A. H. Handley, trumpet.The service of last Sunday was an excellent commencement and each number of the program was well rendered. The work of the chorus was indeed pleasing and each one present showed a careful appreciation of the part they bore to the whole service. The choral selections were well chosen, being "Message of Love" by Shackley and "Lord for thy Tender Mercy's Sake" by Farrant.The instrumental portion was handled with great satisfaction and the organ recital, just before the service proper, was very enjoyable.This was Mr. Mason's first visit to Newton and his playing called for much favorable criticism as it showed a thorough knowledge of the organ, a most adequate conception of technique and marked facility of execution.The Chorus is to be a permanent feature of Channing Church work and will, under the auspices of the Unity Club, give the monthly Vesper services.A business meeting of the Ladies Aid Society will be held Thursday at 3.30 at the Newtonville Methodist church. The new plan for raising money will be considered. Tea will be served.The Ladies Fund Association connected with Central church, Newtonville, ter.

MRS. G. P. ATKINS

Mrs. Eliza W. Atkins, the wife of Mr. Gamaliel P. Atkins and an old resident of Newton died at her home on Tremont street, Wednesday evening after a brief illness of pneumonia, which her frail body was unable to resist.

Mrs. Atkins was born in Kingston, Mass., sixty three years ago, and has lived for many years in this city. She was first married to Mr. Columbus Sampson by whom she had one son, Mr. Willard L. Sampson. After his death she came to Newton and in 1877 became the wife of Mr. Atkins.

A woman of quiet disposition, sympathetic in her nature and happy in her home life, she had many warm friends whose sympathy will go out to the husband and son who survive her. Funeral services will be held from her late residence, 321 Tremont street, on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

HUNNEWELL CLUB CONCERT

In spite of the inclemency of the weather a most appreciative and enthusiastic audience attended the concert at the Hunnewell Club last evening given by the Philharmonic Orchestra Club of Boston, W. F. Dodge, conductor, assisted by Miss Alice Mabel Stanaway, contralto.

One of the excellent phases of this orchestral club is the fact that it is almost entirely composed of talented Americans who have achieved enviable reputations throughout the country for their ability as musicians.

The first number on the program was the March from Suite No. 1 by Tschai. There is not space to go in detail into each number, yet it would not be right to refrain from speaking of the overture, "Merry Wives of Windsor" for full orchestra. The brilliancy displayed in this particular number was noted in every selection given.

Miss Stanaway has not before appeared in Newton as a concert soloist, although she has, for some years, been the contralto singer in the Channing church. Her first offering was Saint Saens aria from Samson and Delilah with orchestra accompaniment. She sang it well and the accompaniment did much to add to the beauty of the rendition of this number.

There was only one number in the program where the brass was heard to any particular note and that was in the Strauss waltz, "Temptation."

Carl W. Dodge, cellist, was heard to good advantage. His offering was Popper's "Vito" and it was played with mastery style. For an encore number he played a dainty Cantalena.

Another number of especial merit were the two movements of the Weber quartet for strings and clarinet. Mr. St. Clair deserved the hearty applause he received and it was one of the most pleasing numbers on the program.

Miss Stanaway sang a group of three songs: "Sapphische Ode" by Brahms, "When in time Arms" by Chadwick and Del Riego's "Happy Song" and for an encore sang two old but pretty Scotch ballads.

The quartet numbers, Tschaiowsky's quartet and the Bolzoni minuet were revelations in quartet work to most of those present and an encore was insisted upon but could not be very well given on account of the lateness of the evening.

William F. Dodge, violinist played the "Hejre Kati" number by Hubay. An encore was insisted upon to which he responded by playing Pierre's "Serenade."

The final number on the program was a popular selection "It happened in Norway." In commenting upon the work of this orchestral club, from a pleasing standpoint, nothing can be said. For it is seldom that it is possible to hold an audience through a classical program of over two hours without uneasiness on the part of some few. Yet this was the case on this evening.

The consensus of opinion last evening was that this was the best musical program ever given in Newton and the praise should be given to those who helped to make it so, especially to Miss Stanaway for her artistic singing.

The Philharmonic Orchestra Club, under the direction of a Newton musician, A. H. Handley, has a bright future before it.

David Cadman of 60 Cotton street, Newton, reported Wednesday that his wife, Edith, who is slightly demented, had been missing from home since 10.30 A. M. Tuesday.

Since the birth of her last child Mrs. Cadman has had a slight mental affliction. Mr. Cadman says his wife told him on Tuesday morning that she was going to the drug store to make some purchases, and asked him to care for the children until she returned. She did not return. Mr. Cadman later discovered that a large roll of bills was missing from the house. He thinks his wife has gone to the home of her parents in Saxville, N. S.

—Rev. Dr. William Douglas MacKenzie, who occupied the pulpit of Eliot church on Sunday was the guest during his stay in Newton at the home of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Patton on Franklin street. Dr. MacKenzie is president of the Hartford Theological Seminary.

—Mrs. Geo. H. Brown and Mrs. F. D. Sampson of Newton were among the invited guests at the last meeting of the Daughters of Massachusetts, when an informal reception was held in the parlors of the Brunswick Hotel. Mrs. Fisher of Wellington the president of the organization is well known in Newton being a relative of several prominent families in this city.

—The fair which the ladies of the North Evangelical church held recently was a decided success, a goodly sum having been realized. The tables were tastefully decorated, and were presided over by members of the Benevolent Society assisted by the young ladies. A pleasing feature of the fair was an entertainment provided by Mrs. A. W. Weeks of Waltham.

—The Newton Monday Evening Club met this week at the residence of Hon. Henry F. Cobb on Bellevue street. Interesting five minute talks were given covering a wide range of subjects and Mr. J. B. Jamieson read a paper on, "Stonewall Jackson" in which he took up this famous man's early life, religious belief, political and military training and habits as a general and a man.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Wilder on Homer street, Newton Centre, last Monday evening, occurred the marriage of Mr. Wilder's sister, Miss Mary Louise Wilder and Mr. Edward Emory Pease of Worcester. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock, the Rev. Edward M. Noyes of the First Church officiating. The bride wore white lace and carried white roses. Miss Bertha M. Converse of Newton Highlands was the maid of honor and Mr. George W. Child of Worcester was the best man. A reception followed the ceremony at which Messrs H. Edward Warren of Worcester and Harold B. Wilder of Newton were the ushers.

The house was beautifully decorated with Christmas greens and wreaths and holly and ropes of laurel.

After a wedding trip through the South Mr. and Mrs. Pease will reside at 29 William street, Worcester.

Communication
Mr. Editor:
I was very glad to read in your last issue the remarks of Mr. Day in regard to buying the Clafin Place for public purposes and pleased with the generous public spirit shown in them.

I cannot however agree with him in all his recommendations good as they are.

First as to buying the land for an open space, a Common or Park. I think that would be a mistake. We have plenty of small open spaces now in the different wards and it would cost too much for a play ground, especially as there are good grounds quite near on Cabot Park or on the grounds on Cedar street. For public buildings it would be very good but the mere fact of its being the geographical centre of the town is of small importance now when steam cars or electric cars are used to reach the City Hall or the Library by the majority of the people. For a public bath I think it too far from the homes of those who need such a place. The public baths ought to be near the river where a swimming pool could be attached to it. One at Nonantum, one at the Lower Falls one at the Upper Falls would be better than one large expensive one on such valuable land.

As for a City Hall it would be an ideal site, and I wish not another cent should ever be spent upon the present one, horrible to look at, inconvenient and a fire trap, dangerous to the neighborhood.

It seems to me that we need a large tract of land wild and uncultivated for a park where one can wander through the woods and fields and have a sense of freedom that little squares cannot give and the cost in buying and keeping it would be small as compared with the Clafin Place beautiful as it is.

It should be a place where families could go into the woods and picnic, spending the day out in the open air wandering through the woods and fields.

Such a park ought to be bought now—there is no time to wait—Land is now built on or will be built on very soon that a few years ago could be had very cheaply.

Opportunities have been lost by our delay in not taking thought of the future growth of the city that we can never have again.

Now this is my suggestion. Let the city take in some way the land back of the Shannon Place on Cabot street, opposite the Playground, then running through to Mill street. There are beautiful trees on it, huge chestnuts and other trees, a pretty brook with hills to diversify the landscape; then along Mill street taking in what is left of Bulloughs pond along side of Commonwealth avenue and up on to the high ground above the stone crusher and through those woods as far as possible.

It would not be necessary to spend much money for many years in laying out the grounds. Leave them almost as they are now. They would not equal Middlesex Fells ever but they would give to those who come after us a Park that they would thank us for giving them.

This piece of wild nature would be accessible to all the wards. It could be easily carried across Commonwealth avenue down onto the low land on Beacon street where there are but few houses and through the woods to Newton Highlands and nearly to the Upper Falls.

It is to be hoped that from this speech of Mr. Day's something may come. Why not call a hearing that we may act wisely for the present with thoughts of the future also.

Waltham School of Business
The evening Sessions of the School will be resumed after the Christmas vacation Jan. 1.

The Day Sessions will begin Jan. 2. While pupils will be admitted to both day and evening sessions at any time, the beginning of the year is a specially convenient period for pupils to commence their attendance. This School has probably the largest proportion of teachers to pupils of any commercial school in Massachusetts, enabling it to give special attention to the individual wants of its pupils. In the Evening Sessions pupils will be afforded an opportunity to take other than commercial subjects. The School teaches the leading systems of shorthand and gives special attention to pupils who, having already acquired a part of the requisite knowledge, desire to complete their training under favorable conditions.

During Christmas week, the School rooms will be open from two to five and from seven-thirty to nine, P. M. It will be a convenience to the Principal if pupils intending to begin their work the first of January would notify him of their intention during Christmas week.

A Defence of the Study Club.

The Denscher Verein, or German Club, now in its third year, is composed of men and women interested in the German language and nothing but German is spoken at the meetings. There are about fifty members and the meetings are held in the Masonic Building, Newtonville. At the meeting on December 6, Professor Adams, principal of the Boston Academy of Languages, lectured upon the "Customs and Celebrations of the early Germans at Christmas."

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands celebrated the holiday season at the home of Mrs. G. W. Bail on Walnut street by Christmas readings and songs followed by a Christmas tree and social hour. The club endeavored to follow out as far as possible the Italian manner of celebrating, but mingled with it some American customs. There will be no meeting next week and on the following week it will occur on Tuesday, January 2, instead of New Year's Day and will be held with Mrs. Eaton.

The Mid-Winter meeting of the State Federation will be held on Feb. 2, 1908. The Brightelmstone Club of Brighton and Allston will be the hostess club, and will entertain at the New Century Building, 177 Huntington Avenue, Boston.

The Ladies' Home Circle will meet on December 27 at the Unitarian church, West Newton.

The Pierian Club held a most interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Everett, Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 13. A lecture was given by Mrs. O. W. Scott the subject being "Christianity."

Thursday evening, Dec. 14, the most informal and one of the pleasantest "Gentlemen's Nights" was given by the Club. It was in the nature of a Bowling Party at the Clubhouse in Newton Highlands. The highest score for one string being made by Mr. H. E. Child with a record of 97, with Mr. W. C. Willard as second with a score of 88. Refreshments were served by a committee of ladies and the evening, voted by the men, as a most sociable one.

The chairman of the State Federation Forestry Committee requests the cooperation of every club in regard to two bills for forest reservations in the White Mountains and Appalachian Mountains. All lovers of the mountains know how urgent it is that these bills be passed and visitors to the White Mountains during the past few years who have seen the destruction going on upon the Presidential Range cannot fail to realize the imperative need of something being done before it is too late.

At the Social Science Club next week Dr. Deborah Fawcett will discuss "Athletics for Women and Girls."

There seems to be a tendency to discourage the purely literary club, and to offer an apology on the part of the organizations devoted to self-culture. Your President wishes to make a strong plea in favor of these clubs, though it would take more time than is allotted to me to tell of the many benefits to be derived from this kind of cooperation. Many persons belonging to these clubs do their philanthropic work through the churches, or through the various other organizations with which they are identified, and are therefore entitled to some time to devote to themselves. This means a liberal education to some and a post-graduate course to others. It secures a closer companionship between the mothers and the children of today, possessing, as they do, so many advantages. Why do we live, if not to grow? The benefit which seems paramount is the power of utterance that comes, in some way, as a result of expressing our thoughts to others. Our value is estimated not so much by the force of thought within us as by the power to give it expression, and our own conceptions grow clearer by the effort to make them clear to others.—Federation Bulletin.

At the last club tea of the New England Women's Club a polyglot entertainment was a feature of the evening. Perhaps no woman's club in the vicinity numbers more proficient linguists among its members. Selections from the Indian, Slav, Romance and Germanic languages were given with translations by club members; the Sanscrit, Armenian, Ancient and modern Greek, Latin, Italian, Spanish, French, Russian, Anglo-Saxon, Danish and German were all represented. Mrs. F. D. Sampson of Newton read one of Werner's love songs from "Der Trompeter von Sakkingen" with an original metrical translation, and Mrs. E. N. L. Walton of West Newton closed the entertainment with a humorous recitation in English from Charlotte Perkins Stetson.

The Waban Woman's Club met Dec. 18 at the home of Mrs. Angier.

Mrs. Whitaker, a member read an essay upon Mendelssohn, being a most delightful blending of story and song.

The early years of this musical prodigy were quickly sketched, then the more serious work written at seventeen, his overture to Shakespeare's Midsummer Nights Dream was illustrated by Mrs. Donaldson and Mrs. Finel as pianists. Miss Daggett as violinist, gave illustrations of early work, and Mrs. Leclair, of the club, (Mr. Fernando Wood, accompanist) sang from his St. Paul in a manner worthy of the theme. Other songs were given by Mrs. Leclair and "Songs Without Words" by Mrs. Finel, happily illustrating the points made by Mrs. Whitaker in her essay. Mendelssohn's Elijah will always hold a place in the hearts of music lovers and especially at this Xmas season, the selection of the theme was, therefore, as opportune as it was welcome, to the Club.

OLD FURNITURE FIRM IN FINE NEW QUARTERS

Plimpton-Hervey Furniture Company
Showing Finer Line of Rugs and Furniture Than Ever Before.

In their handsome new home, which occupies the buildings at 21, 23 and 25 Washington street, the Plimpton-Hervey Furniture Company, for more than half a century one of the leading furniture and house furnishing firms of New England, are offering a display of Christmas goods fitted to the purses of all classes.

The long and honorable business career of this firm and their established reputation for high-class goods has resulted in so rapid an increase in their business that even the commodious warehouses at 5 Union street, occupied by them for many years, at last became inadequate and they were forced to seek more roomy quarters.

Convenience for their customers was the guiding thought in selecting their new home, and the Washington street location combines every convenience of accessibility with every device for the safety and comfort of patrons which modern ingenuity and years of experience have been able to devise. Within a stone's throw of Haymarket square and the subway station, all Washington street cars pass the door of the handsome new store, while the North Union station is but a few minutes' walk. Cars form all the suburbs stop in front of the building, and there is no location in Boston more convenient of access from any part of Greater Boston.

Within the building nothing has been left undone that could add either to the comfort, convenience or safety of customers. Running through from Washington street to Friend street, where there is another entrance, the store has an abundance of clear daylight, which is of the greatest advantage to the critical buyer in making selections, and this is particularly true with regard to carpets and oriental and domestic rugs, of which the firm carries a large stock.

Passenger elevators furnish ready communication between the different departments which fill the entire seven floors, while the perfect system of ventilation preserves at all times an atmosphere that is refreshing and invigorating.

An innovation established by the Plimpton-Hervey Company, which will at once solve the most difficult problem presented by the growing demands of their business, and which made it extremely difficult to find quarters large enough for their enormous business, and at the same time give to the shopper the advantage of a wider field of selection, is that the entire seven floors at the new home of the firm will be showrooms and salesrooms only. No orders will be filled from this address, and no goods delivered from here, but, instead, when selections are made from the stock at the salesrooms, the orders will be filled from the large and extensive warehouses of the firm at 5 Ferry street. In this way it is planned that in addition to other conveniences, the customer will have the benefit of a more expeditious delivery.

Another feature much appreciated by old customers of the firm, and which it is expected will find much favor with the rapidly growing list of patrons, is the system of marking all goods in plain figures, for, while the firm does a large cash business, it does an extensive partial payment business as well, but in all instances there is but one price and that the one marked in plain figures.

There is a most attractive display presented to the customer as he enters the main entrance from Washington street. Here will be found in great variety of style, material and workmanship, desks, lamps, bookcases, a novel collection of baskets, cabinets, clocks, chairs of all kinds, hall glasses and hall seats, stoves and ranges, and odd pieces of every description to beautify and make comfortable the home. An entire floor is devoted to the display of chamber furniture. A most extensive line of parlor and dining room furniture is shown. For the holiday season a specialty is made in this department of pictures, of which a large assortment is carried at all times, and there are many new and handsome pictures and frames of all kinds. In dining room furniture the line is complete. An entire floor is given over to couches and conch beds, and fancy office chairs.

On the main floor, where the executive offices and counting rooms of the firm are located, there is a handsome display of rugs, which includes domestic rugs of all kinds and a very large assortment of oriental and Turkish rugs of all grades; and a separate floor is given over to a splendid display of attractive carpets.

SILVER JUBILEE

Last Sunday Rev. Father P. H. Callanan observed the twenty fifth anniversary of his ordination as a priest and St. John's church of Newton Lower Falls joined most heartily in making the celebration a success.

The church on Washington street held two of the largest gatherings in its history. As a tribute to Rev. Fr. Callanan the people of his parish presented him a purse of $1500 at the jubilee in the evening. Throughout the day he was kept busy receiving the hearty congratulations of parishioners, members of his former parishes and visiting clergymen.

The formal observation of Fr. Callanan's silver anniversary began at 10.45 Sunday morning with a solemn high mass in St. John's church, with the jubilarian celebrant. Rev. Fr. M. F. Delaney of Natick was deacon, Rev. Fr. C. J. Galligan of West Newton subdeacon and Rev. Fr. E. F. McLeod of St. Joseph's church, Boston, master of ceremonies. The church was decorated with potted plants and cut flowers banked against a wall of greenery. The mass was attended by many residents of Wellesley and Newton, every seat being occupied.

The jubilee sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. John J. Ryan of Cambridge. He paid a glowing tribute to the work of Fr. Callanan and congratulated the people upon having so energetic a pastor. He reminded the parishioners that when Fr. Callanan came to St. John's church he held out great promises to a good and loyal people. Now these hopes are magnificently fulfilled in the church property.

At 5 o'clock Fr. Callanan gave a jubilee dinner to 37 well-known clergymen in the parochial residence. Those present were Rt. Rev. Mgr. D. O'Callaghan, D.D., PK. of South Boston and Rev. W. F. Gannon, SJ, president of Boston college, Rev. M. T. McManus of Brookline, Rev. J. J. Keegan of Woburn, Rev. M. F. Delaney of Natick, Rev. W. F. Riordan of Boston, Rev. D. J. Gleason of Randolph, Rev. T. W. Coughlan of Mt. Auburn, Rev. H. M. Smith of Medfield, Rev. E. J. Fegan of Natick, Rev. J. J. Ryan of Cambridge, Rev. T. F. McCloskey, SJ, of Boston college, Rev. John F. Heffernan of South Framingham, Rev. J. F. Kelley of Newton, Rev. E. F. McLeod of Boston, Rev. J. H. Griffin of East Boston, Rev. J. J. Farrelly of Bridgewater, Rev. H. A. Sullivan of Danvers, Rev. M. J. Masterson of Roxbury, Rev. R. J. Quinlan of Holliston, Rev. J. N. Supple of Charlestown, Rev. Dennis J. Wholey of Newton Centre, Rev. J. J. O'Brien of Somerville, Rev. J. F. Broderick of West Roxbury, Rev. N. J. Murphy of Belmont, Rev. J. V. Tracey, DD, of Allston, Rev. J. N. Merritt of West Medford, Rev. J. L. Lane of Roxbury, Rev. J. A. Walsh of Boston, Rev. J. J. Donovan of Wellesley Hills, Rev. F. A. Cunningham of Belmont, Rev. C. J. Galligan of West Newton, Rev. J. F. McElher of Watertown, Rev. J. F. McNiff of Whitman, Rev. W. J. McCarthy of Lynn, Rev. M. F. McDonnell of Braintree and Rev. M. F. Callanan.

It was shortly after 8 o'clock when P. J. Fitzpatrick of Wellesley, as chairman welcomed an immense gathering of townspeople and guests in the large basement of the church.

There was a musical and literary program given by Miss Nettie Foley of Brookline, vocal solos; Miss Lena Rattigan of Watertown, piano selections; Miss Catherine Hayes of Newton, vocal selections; Mrs. Margery C. Wales of Newton, vocal solos; William Stevens of Watertown, readings; Miss Emma Eckert of Boston, vocal solos, Charles F. Stewart of Newton, vocal solos and Miss Alice M. G. Mullen, accompanist.

The first speaker was Rt. Rev. Mgr. O'Callaghan of South Boston. He was followed by Richard Cunningham of Wellesley, chairman of the selection, who with Selectman John D. Warren represented the town. Mayor Alonzo R. Weed of Newton spoke for that city, St. John's parish having many members living over the line in that city. Other speakers were Rev. Dr. Joseph V. Tracey of Allston, Col. Noah A. Plimpton of Wellesley Hills, Samuel S. Whitney of Newton, representing Charles Ward post, G. A. R., of which Fr. Callanan is an honorary member; Hon. P. O'Laughlin of Boston, Robert R. Kerwin of Foxboro, Rev. Fr. H. M. Smith of Medfield and Rev. Fr. E. J. McLeod of Boston.

Patrick J. Crotty of Weston had purposely been assigned to speak last. At the close of his remarks he gave Rev. Fr. Callanan a surprise by presenting him a purse of $1500 on behalf of the people of the parish. Visibly affected by this tribute, Fr. Callanan after brief hesitation touchingly spoke his gratitude. When he finished speaking there were few dry eyes in the gathering.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the jubilee was headed by Fr. J. J. McGrath, assistant pastor of St. John's church, and he worked long for many weeks to make the day a happy one. He was ably assisted by Miss Nellie Costello, Dr. F. J. Costello, Mrs. David Noonan, Michael Howard, William Hughes, Mrs. Thomas Kilnain, Miss Nellie Regan, Thomas Anderson, William Gleason, Miss Hattie Delaney, Miss Julia Mulcahy, Mrs. Annie McLaughlin, Mrs. James Cullen, Miss M. Callanan, Miss Katherine Connolly, Miss B. Brimm, Miss Alice Coughlin, P. J. Fitzpatrick, Mr. P. J. Crotty, Miss

How's Your Hair?

That He Has at Last Secured a Cure for Hair Troubles.

We beg to announce to the people of Newton that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years. We refer to the prescription of Sir Erasmus Wilson, M. D., England's most successful specialist in diseases of the scalp, who was knighted for his many successes in the treatment of skin and scalp. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson this prescription was secured by American chemists and is now offered to the public under the name of Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow hair on bald heads even after all else fails. Unlike other hair preparations it is not sticky or greasy, but gives a live and glossy appearance to the hair. Miss Cornelia Stevens, 6 Smith Ave., Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly bald. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." If you are growing bald, troubled with eruptions, dandruff scales or a dry scalp, try Dr. Wilson's Life to the Hair. Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., proprietors. Supper was served at 6.30 in the banquet hall and was followed by the formal exercises in the parlors. Prof. Kan-ichi Asakawa, Ph. D., a member of the faculty of Dartmouth College, was the guest of the club and gave a most delightful and scholarly address on "Japan and Christianity." He traced the progress of the Christian religion from the early 16th century down to the time of Commodore Perry's visit, gave statistics regarding the various sects and among the important conditions necessary for a satisfactory increase in the Christian religion stated that philosophy and education must be fostered, the separation of the state and church must be accomplished, and the value of the individual person and the institutions which surround him must be raised. The key note of the address was that the condition of the different phases of eastern civilization was gradually being understood and that in process of time with the aid of master minds Japanese civilization will assimilate Christianity. The speaker said that the digestive power of Japan was large and increasing and urged the spreading of the Christian faith through the eastern countries with headquarters for the work in Japan.

—The Christmas celebration of the Sunday school will be held in the parish house of the Church of the Messiah Thursday afternoon. The program will consist of a Christmas tree, an illustration of the story of the Christmas story, the singing of carols and a white feast, the articles brought in being given to the poor.

—The Extra-Cent-A-Day Band is a unique organization connected with the Congregational church. Its plan is to save one cent each day for missionary purposes. MAILING CIRCULARS AN ART

No Longer Done on Hit or Miss Methods

Few industries have grown so fast as that of advertising by circulars, letters and pamphlets through the mails. Last year, it has been estimated, more than $30,000,000 was spent for postage on such communications, and an advertising authority familiar with this field asserts that every other letter carried by Uncle Sam is an advertisement.

Formerly mail advertising was carried on more or less in the dark. The advertiser simply got a city directory or blue book or telephone directory, copied the names on envelopes, stuck in his circulars and let them go, hitting old and young, men and women, rich and poor, learned and unlearned alike. Today that sort of advertising would be regarded as criminally wasteful.

The city directory is now an advertiser's last resort, used only when the whole population of a city is to be reached with some great proposition. Even the blue book and telephone directory, while regarded with more favor, are clumsy in comparison with newer ways of getting names and addresses.

An advertising letter nowadays must hit the recipient on some special interest. It often echoes what one has in mind with a certainty that smacks of soothsaying on the advertiser's part.

For, if you live in a small Western town it will not at all be out of the way for you to receive a circular advertising stove repairs, mentioning the make and number of your stove. Or such a missive may call attention to the fact that your piano, of such and such a make and age, is getting rather out of tune, and ought to be replaced with another or helped out with a piano player.

Or perhaps you live in a city and have lately taken a flyer in stocks or purchased a few bonds for investment. Other investment propositions will come to you by mail, and the advertiser who sends them mentions your recent operations.

How are advertising letters made to strike home so accurately? In ways altogether simple and logical when you know them.

To make his advertisement hit cleanly, the advertiser begins with your name and address. That is the key to his whole system—getting you on his mailing list in your proper classification.

The business of securing names and addresses is now carried on separately by large concerns, that furnish to advertisers lists of any sort desired, from one including 250,000 farmers west of the Mississippi River to another enumerating 1,000 persons in a given State who have automobiles.

Do you wish to advertise baby carriages to families with babies? The advertising list concern will sell you the names and addresses of 10,000 families in a certain city who have children under 2 years of age and incomes over $5,000.

Are you a maker of artificial limbs? Every day he will furnish you a list of persons throughout the country who have lost arms or legs.

Are you in the musical line? You can have lists of persons anywhere who play any sort of instrument, from the gently plinking mandolin to the strenuous bass drum.

Such lists are obtained in various ways. To get 250,000 farmers in a certain territory the address specialists usually go to county tax lists, where names and addresses are accurate and complete. At such a source it is also possible to grade the names according to income, estimates being made by the amount of property on which each person pays taxes.

Among lists of this character you can purchase the names and addresses of 125,000 retail grocers, 121,000 physicians, 25,000 flour mills, or any other general classification desired.

Names and addresses of families with children are secured by a systematic private census, made by the list specialist's own enumerators. All homes in a city are visited and the number of children, their ages, &c., obtained, either from householders or the neighbors. Janitors are a good source for information of this sort.

A family's probable income is easily determined from the neighborhood. One of the railroads running out of New York city, for example, wishes to advertise its suburban towns. A little monthly magazine is mailed for the purpose to names taken from the mail boxes of apartment houses in neighborhoods where the rents denote incomes ranging between $2,500 and $5,000.

Advertisers are regular readers of certain information in newspapers, such as deaths, births, marriages, accidents. Every birth means a cent or two to the list concern, which forwards it to a baby food manufacturer.

Five cents is paid by a manufacturer of artificial eyes for every report of the loss of an eye. Even deaths are a matter of traffic, for families bereaved are canvassed by the maker of memorial cards. Some advertisers put names of this character away for a year, until the expenses attendant upon a death have been met by the family, and then approach the survivors with a proposition to erect a monument.

It is easier to get lists of persons who own pianos, stoves, organs, &c., or who play certain musical instruments. The advertisers employ children during school vacations, paying them for filling out blanks with correct names and addresses of families in their own towns, giving name of piano, make of stove and number, musical inclinations, number and ages of children, &c.

Since the telephone became a factor in farm life the local telephone directories are in great request with compilers of advertising names. It is reasoned that the telephone directory of a given community contains the cream of its residents.

Some of the queer lists for sale are the names of 33 dynamite makers, 22 sandpaper factories, 9 lead pencil factories, and the like. Such lists are often sold for a dollar a name, being used by advertisers who sell machinery and supplies in large quantities.

One list that has a peculiar fascination for advertisers, it is said, contains the names of 300 millionaires. It is used again and again, though the address specialist frankly considers it one of the least promising he has.

How do the address men know about your recent investments or speculation? Simply enough. They purchase, and pay good prices for, collections of telegrams from stock exchange or board of trade brokers, each message being a buying or selling order. Such names are more often secured from bucket shops than from legitimate brokers, however.

If you are mailing a charitable appeal or a request for funds to carry on some public work, a list can be secured by taking the names of all owners of securities in a given city, or all partners in business houses with more than $10,000 capital, or all merchants rated at more than $5,000. A list of prospective automobile purchasers can be made up from the club directories.

Perhaps women are wanted to sell toilet specialties in their own towns. You get their names by advertising in the magazines, offering some attractive article at 25 cents to induce a reply.

Purchase any sort of article by mail these days and your name becomes a valuable commodity to be sold to other mail order houses, being rated largely according to the nature and amount of your purchase. In this accurate classification of people according to property, occupation, personal tastes and family, therefore, it is at once apparent that the old method of blindly sending out circulars to names in a city directory is a hit or miss proceeding and wasteful.

Mail advertisers have also gone far in the art of mailing circulars. Formerly they were dumped into the post office whenever ready to be sent, with little regard for the time circulars would be put into the advertiser's hands. But now the arrival of an advertisement is carefully timed by the discriminating.

Monday is a day universally avoided, for everybody receives the biggest mail of the week that day, and all advertisements are sorted out rapidly and cast into the dreaded waste basket. Tuesday, it has been found by careful experiment the country over, is the day when everybody receives the lightest mail of the week. So the advertiser plans to have his proposition arrive on that day, preferably along in the afternoon, when probably there is no other mail for the recipient.

Wednesday is also a light day. Thursday is heavier. Friday is heavier still. Saturday is almost as heavy as Monday.

Formerly there were many skillful ways of disguising mail advertisements but none of them were really deceptive. Therefore it is now thought best frankly to send a circular for what it is, and many advertisers discard envelopes entirely, employing mailing cards so attractive that no one will care to throw them aside without a glance.

SECRET TELEPHONE NUMB'RS

People Seek Protection From Intrusion by Wire

"Yes, they call me Sapphira," cheerfully admitted the operator of the telephone switchboard in a large business house. "It's because I'm such an accomplished liar, you know."

"But, then, that is one of the things I'm paid for; so it really isn't my fault and I don't let it worry me. Perhaps the most frequent lie I have to tell is when I am asked about a dozen times a day if the president has a private telephone call—one not in the regular telephone directory, you know."

"Of course he has, he'd be in the insane asylum if he hadn't; but he doesn't want everybody to know it. The telephone was getting such a nuisance to business men that a lot of them have had to do this."

"Now, when a man's private telephone rings he knows it really is a personal call, as only a few people have his number. It is a direct call from 'Central' and does not come over the regular office switchboard at all."

"Every operator of a private switchboard, and, of course, every 'Central,' is charged with keeping these private telephone numbers strictly confidential. People try lots of different ways to worm this information out of us, but they don't succeed."

"It saves my time wonderfully—this having a private call," said a lawyer. "I really think this plan saved me from a nervous breakdown last year."

"My private secretary has charge of the telephone supplied by the unitiated to be the only one by which I can be reached personally. Nine times out of ten the question can be settled without referring to me. Occasionally, of course, I have to speak to the person myself."

"But there was a time a few years ago when I could not dictate so much as a note to my stenographer without being interrupted a half dozen times. That exasperating little ting-a-ling has been the death knell to many a finely phrased letter. As for important documents, when dictating anything that required serious thought I was obliged to have an entirely separate room where I was absolutely 'out' as though in my home upstairs."

"While, of course, I did not pretend to speak to every person who called for me on the telephone, still, I was called very often. It is very different now. Only a dozen or so persons know my private call, and sometimes my telephone does not ring more than once or twice a day."

"The telephone is a mighty good servant, but with one's name in the public telephone directory it soon becomes a hard master."

"Yes, our house number is private," said a woman who has many social duties, "and we guard it as we do the family jewels. Only our own direct circle of friends are able to reach us by telephone."

"As some one said to me the other day, quite the height of modern intimacy is reached in the interchange of private telephone numbers. And it is true."

"You would be surprised to know the lengths some people go to discover the number of a private wire. Why, would you believe it, our stable is often called up, and whoever happens to answer is asked for our house number. Yes, our telephone is what it should be—a convenience and not a nuisance."

If you are contemplating the purchase of a piano, a good precedent to go by is that established by the NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC in selecting forty Stieff pianos for their school this year. THE NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC is the largest institution in the world for the teaching of music. Their judgment on a piano is expert.

THE STIEFF piano manufacturers make a specialty of building pianos for schools. Why? Because they have to stand a severe test and the STIEFF has stood this test for the past fifty years. Why not profit by the example set by the NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC? If you do you will make no mistake.

TOO MUCH SOAP AND WATER

Beauty Makers Attack Old Ideas
About Cleanliness

The beauty makers, one and all, have declared emphatically against the use of water for cleansing the face and the hair. To go into the studio of one of these artists is like a visit to a different sphere, so many theories, honored by reason of their great antiquity, are turned topsyturvy, so many completely routed.

To be confronted by a woman of more than fifty with a skin like a child of two or three, fairly glowing with health and purity, not a crowfoot or a wrinkle or a gray hair visible, and to receive the information that neither her face nor her hair had ever been touched by water is enough to give one sensations of the nature of those felt by Alice when she first stepped through the looking glass. Your wonder is increased when she tells you that every woman has the same chance as herself of retaining youthful looks.

The oft reiterated statement that there are no more old women nowadays is true in that women dress and act more youthfully than they did a generation ago, and do not assume, as they did then that a woman of forty is old, a woman of sixty antiquated and a woman of eighty already partly dead. To day the woman of sixty is merely middle aged, and the woman of forty is accounted as of the young. All this is true; yet it is also true that never have there been so many gray heads on young shoulders, and never before has the possibility of premature baldness been so widely dreaded.

This state of things has caused some of the most skillful of the skin and hair specialists to go into the matter very thoroughly to discover the underlying cause, and with one accord they pronounce it water. They all declare that were it possible to use only rain or distilled water for toilet purposes the result would not be quite so bad, as both these waters are soft and contain nothing harmful, whereas water that must be made soft artificially is not fit to use upon such sensitive materials as skin and hair are composed of.

It is the necessity for reducing the harshness of water by means of such things as soap, soda, ammonia and borax that is largely responsible for its injurious effects, for all of these substances are destructive in the extreme to the delicate oils necessary to the health of skin and hair. Soaps even of the best makes contain alkalies in greater or smaller quantities, and the oils used in their manufacture may or may not be of the purest, to say nothing of the addition of rosin, at best an astringent, and as such harmful to most skins.

The condition of the hair is the best prima facie evidence of the state of a woman's health, for when it is bright and glossy it testifies to a good circulation, unimpaired digestion and the generally healthy performance of all the bodily functions, while when it is dull and lustreless it needs no doctor's eye to discover that all is not right. Few parts of the body respond in so short a time to careful treatment, and there is none, on the other hand, which shows more quickly its lack.

Specialists declare that almost all cases of premature gray hair and baldness are due to lack of care, both in dressing and washing the hair, lack of cleanliness in the brush and comb and indifference to the general health. Just as women a few years ago ruined their complexions by steaming and scrubbing with brushes and pumice soap, so are they now beginning to reap the harvest of thin and gray hair as the natural result of too frequent shampooing with water softened, as it must be, by some artificial method.

Today scant and faded hair is the rule rather than the exception after twenty-five, and many a woman, ill equipped to give intelligent treatment to the hair and scalp, is waxing rich by the frantic efforts of women to regain the luxuriant locks they have so recklessly and ignorantly thrown away. In choosing a person to treat the hair, the greatest care should be taken to select one who has had wide and varied experience, rather than an unskilled graduate from one of the many schools that make a practice of turning out quantities of raw material. Many a woman's hair, now hopelessly ruined, could have been preserved had it received intelligent treatment at the proper time.

To some hair the use of water occasionally is imperative, while in the majority of cases its application is to be avoided. Thin, fine, dry hair can be thoroughly cleansed by the use of a brush made of strong bristles, set very far apart, and of differing lengths, none less than an inch and a half. This acts like a sort of currycomb, stimulating the scalp to increased activity, and in a short time produces a more natural secretion of the oil of the hair, making it smooth and glossy where formerly it was dull and lifeless.

Any one of three or four shampoo powders now to be found in the general market, as well as those that are used by the best hair dressers, can be used with entire confidence, and they will be found healthful to the hair and entirely satisfactory as a method for removing the accumulation of dust and dirt, not alone from dry hair, but as well from hair that is inclined to too great oiliness. These hair powders are in the main compounded of pretty much the same materials, having a common basic principle and giving practically the same results.

To keep the hair in normal condition it is necessary to give it treatment at least once a week. The powder for shampooing is dusted over the hair very thoroughly and left there for fifteen or twenty minutes, and then the hair is taken at the extreme end and well shaken.

Then the scalp is massaged for another fifteen minutes and, if necessary, treated with some good tonic, and then the hair is brushed with a brush similar to the one described above for not less than thirty minutes. Until this treatment has been tried it is impossible to imagine the delightful sensations it produces. A lightness of both hair and scalp is caused that is really delicious, and the time consumed in comparison with that necessary to wash and dry the hair in the ordinary manner is really short, only three-quarters of an hour at the utmost.

The oil of the scalp should never be disturbed by washing. It is only when the scalp is actually diseased that it is in need of cleansing, and then a suitable tonic should be thoroughly massaged into it.

No one preparation will suit all conditions, and if the scalp is not in a healthy state the tonic should be prescribed by a competent authority. Stimulants for a weak condition of the scalp and hair must be used with great caution, as in many cases they act as irritants rather than otherwise. It may be that the hair alone needs stimulation, and in this case the scalp is left untouched, while the hair has rubbed into it a fine balm.

It is one thing to make the hair well and clean and another to keep it so, and the chief factor in both matters is to have an absolutely clean brush. All specialists on the hair and skin declare that a brush should never be used but once without washing it in an antiseptic solution, that every one should have not less than two brushes so that one brush always is clean, and that it is the infrequent washing of hairbrushes that is responsible for more than half the scalp diseases and dandruff that people suffer from.

Washington Letter.

Rear Admiral Sunda, the superintendent of the Naval Academy at Annapolis was in Washington an entire day this week in conference with the Secretary of the Navy over the eradication of hazing from the Academy. It seems that the cadets have taken the very time of all others when they were likely to turn the attention of Congress to themselves to break out in several fresh places at once with "hazing," "running," and fist fighting, all of which are contrary to the rules of the Academy. The latest hazing case, that of Midshipman Kimbrough, came near resulting fatally as did the fight between midshipman Meriwether. There have already been two bills introduced in Congress to severely punish hazing and fighting at the Academy, and the superintendent, who himself is an admirable old officer, has done his best to keep the matter within bounds and not have the abhorred civilians of Congress come poking around the school on an investigation trip. In desperation he has put the matter up to Secretary Bonaparte in hopes that the latter would take drastic action and expell the two cadets in question. But Secretary Bonaparte has passed the matter along to the Judge Advocate General of the navy to see whether he has the legal right to summarily dismiss a cadet, and the result will be if a few more of the midshipmen are killed or maimed by the gentle codes in existence at the Academy that Congress will take the matter into its rude civilian hands and turn the ancient academy wrong side out and shake it, to the great benefit of the academy.

There was the first tilt of the session this week between the House and Senate over the right of the Senate to inaugurate financial legislation. Of course as any school boy can tell, the Senate has no right under the constitution to inaugurate financial legislation of any sort. Yet in the past few years it has been much prone to this sort of thing under one guise or another, principally in the way of amending House bills. The House has been fretting at what it considered a usurpation of authority, and this week the question came up fair and square on the Panama Canal Bill. It was not a serious matter at all, but there was a principle involved. The House passed the bill with a clause putting the Panama Canal on the same footing as the other government two per cents to make themselves available for bank circulation. The Senate calmly cut out this provision passed a bill of its own originating on the subject and sent it back to the House. Then the House rose in its might and by a rising vote of 256 to 0 it threw out the clause of Senate making. This will cause some little delay though not much in the final passage of the bill. But it has established the principle that the House was after and the chances are that the Senate will be a little more careful of the dignity of the lower house in future. Of course it may lead to a tight lather in the session and in that case the House has the constitution on its side. But then as the immortal Tim

Campbell said, "What is the constitution between friends?"

The ways of managing editors are past finding out and truly the managing editors seem to have run mad on the subject of personal journalism, which is a polite way of referring to newspaper work that sticks its nose where it has no business. One of the latest and worst examples followed on the official announcement the other day of Miss Roosevelt's engagement to representative Longworth. Many of the Washington correspondents were inundated with demands for special stories. But the limit was the case of one local man who received a telegram as follows: "Wire immediately 1,000 word interview Nick Longworth's views on race suicide." Needless to say the story has not been sent yet.

Just Mention It

It pays the buyer to buy from an advertiser and to say he saw the article advertised in this or that paper. The man who mentions an advertisement when buying goods really gets the best possible service,—even better than the regular customer when this is possible. Why? Simply because the advertiser pays good money for his advertisement and he is glad to hear from it. It is a compliment to his good business judgment.

The Children's Party given by the club on last Saturday was a complete success, being attended by fully 100 children, who seemed to realize that it was the only time in the year that they received a benefit from the club, and their idea seemed to be to make the best of the opportunity.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the games started and from that time until 5 o'clock it was one continued round of merriment.

The peanut hunt was interesting and also exciting, as prizes were awarded to Miss Christine Chipman; second prize Miss Hazel Snyder. Master Henry Clark won first prize for boys and Master Harold Eustis won second.

At 5 o'clock refreshments were served, and just before leaving for home, each child was given a favor in the form of a dainty little red box of candy tied with a red ribbon.

Everybody went home happy and all because of a good time.

Much credit is due Mrs. Stubbs and her assistants for the management of the party.

AMHERST CONCERT

The Amherst Glee, Mandolin and Banjo Club gave a most successful concert in Bray hall, Newton Centre, Thursday evening, Dec. 21. Amherst popularity is increasing rapidly in Newton as was evidenced by the applause which greeted the collegians from the opening number to the closing ensemble "Cheer for Amherst". Each number on the program was rendered with a dash peculiar to college music. The club possesses a real artist in their reader Mr. A.
I. Dillon of New York who was recalled several times to satisfy the demands of the audience. The club are managed this year by Mr. Charles A. Vinal of Newton Centre, and their Christmas itinery included Gloucester, Brookline and Newton Centre. At Easter the club will take a two weeks tour through the West including New York city, Washington, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Springfield, Ill. On Jan. 19 a joint concert will be given in Northampton between Amherst and the University of Pennsylvania Musical Club.

A very enjoyable luncheon was given the young men by Mrs. Charles A. Vinal of Ashton Park which occupied the greater part of Thursday afternoon and after the concert dancing was enjoyed until about 12 o'clock.

WORKING BOYS' HOME.

In a quiet though very enjoyable manner Christmas Day was observed at the Working Boys' Home, Newton Highlands. This year as usual many prominent residents of Newton contributed delicacies which were greatly appreciated. Mr. Frank A. Day of Newton supplied ice cream and cake. Mr. George J. Martin of West Newton fruit and candy and Mr. Frank Hurley of Newton Centre donated chicken sufficient for all the boys.

In the afternoon the boys assembled in the recreation room where Santa Claus distributed many useful and practical presents. One most generous benefactor of the Institution donated fifty pairs of skates and Santa Claus had little trouble in disposing of them. Every one of the one hundred and twenty-five boys received some gift. In the evening the band gave a concert following which the boys retired to their dormitories with most pleasing remembrances of the day.

About Town

Much favorable comment is being expressed in the improved strap now being used in the Newton Street cars. The company has equipped the cars on its several lines with this new grip which is in the form of a handle and besides being more comfortable to hang onto, it is more hygienic.

Newton has been highly honored the past week by having within its borders two distinguished individuals. Mrs. Donald McLean of New York is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast as the President General of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mr. Jack London's name is not only a familiar one in America but has crossed the seas through the medium of his books. The reading public has spent many an hour poring over his, "The Call of the Wild," "Son of the Wolf," "Children of the Frost," "A Daughter of the Snows" and many others. Mr. London is on his honeymoon, having been married recently in the west.

The steam roller has gone out of business since the frost and snow arrived. There will be plenty of work in the spring as some of the streets need resurfacing badly.

are particularly attractive this year. The bright greens and the red trimmings make a striking contrast.

The often crowded condition of the street cars make the London method advisable. The County council prevents this condition by making passengers enter the car from a box in the rear which holds the same number as the car.

Many of the bill boards in the post offices are worth a few moment's examination. In one of the local offices recently were tacked up notices of houses to let and for sale, rooms to let, dog for sale, dog lost, several articles lost and found, a piano to rent and many others.

Real Estate.

E. Arthur Robinson reports the sale of 121 Crescent st. to Leroy B. Fay of Weston. The property consists of a modern 9 room house, 7000 ft of land all taxed for $3400. Terms of sale are private.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES

One of the new additions to the Company, is a fifty foot range for rifle practice which has been built in the lower drill hall. The Company has been divided into teams of twelve men each, these teams will compete for first place in a series of matches; the first match being held Friday evening, Dec. 29, at 8:30 between the first and second teams, under Q. M. Sergt. Barrows, Captain of the 1st team and Sergt. Johnson Capt. of the second team. There is great rivalry already manifested, and there promises to be lots of good sport to the competing members. There is a good deal of credit coming to Lieut. Daniels on account of the masterful way in which he is handling the small arms practice.

The committee of the coming prize drill met Monday evening, and made good headway towards providing a very enjoyable evening for the fortunate holders of the much coveted invitations. Several new recruits made application for enlistment this week and were assigned to the squad for recruits under Corp. Clossig.

Coming Attractions

Keith's Theatre—The opening of the year 1906 will bring to Keith's an unusually strong and well balanced variety program in all departments. The "headline" feature of the program will be the first appearance in this city of "The Poster Girls" a new and original fantastic conceit, written by James Forbes, well-known hereabouts as the author of "The Chorus Lady." The little interlude is really twenty minutes of a capital musical comedy. The lyrics are by Jerome D. Kern, and the costumes are unusually beautiful. The company is headed by Seymour Brown and he is assisted by six pretty young women. Another big feature on the bill will be a song story of Dixie entitled "The Sunny South", depicting scenes on an old southern plantation and introducing a double sextet of capital, colored singers and dancers. It is claimed that the eccentric dancing of several of the men will score a big hit. Included in the surrounding program will be found several European attractions and also some of the most noted vaudevillians of this country. Prominent on the list will be found the Pichlanis troupe, consisting of six young women and a man, whose acrobatic work is nothing short of marvellous; Carlin and Otto, German comedians and dancers; Taylor Holmes, monologue comedian; Frank Gardner and Lottie Vincent, in a spectacular fantasy entitled, "Winning a Queen"; Cecilia Bohe, talented European violinist and xylophonist; Burton and Brooks, in a comedy sketch; Tom Moore, a strenuous "coon" shouter; and the Pelots comedy jugglers. Herman's troupe of trained dogs and cats have been specially engaged for the amusement of the juveniles, and the usual new list of comedy and interesting motion pictures will be shown in the kinetograph.

Grand Opera House—In "A Wife's Secret," the new emotional melodrama, which comes to the Boston Grand Opera House as the New Year's week attraction there is a combination of beautiful sentiment, humor and pathos of a Poe and the quaint character drawings of a Dickens, with the thrilling interest of a Drury Lane melodrama. It is every-day life of today pure and simple, picturing real, living, breathing people, as we see them off the stage. "A Wife's Secret" as seen here last year, is staged in elegant style, with elaborate scenery and effects, and the company interpreting the various roles is said to be one of the best ever seen at popular prices. The title role is in the hands of Miss Virginia Thornton, one of America's most popular emotional actresses, whose youth, beauty and talents make her admirably suited to the part. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Tremont Theatre—Raymond Hitchcock burst forth in a blaze of glory at the Tremont Theatre at the Christmas matinee. The occasion being the first performance in Boston of Richard Harding Davis' latest and what is considered by many his greatest work, namely, "The Galloper." Manager Henry W. Savage has given the Davis farce a production of scenic splendor, and he has likewise surrounded Raymond Hitchcock with one of the most notable of companies. The personnel embraces such well-known names as T. Daniel Frawley, Edgar Davenport, Scott Cooper, E. B. Tilton, Nanette Comstock, May Buckley, Helen Lackaye and numerous others. Mr. Davis has not only given Mr. Hitchcock one of the most congenial roles of his career, but he has likewise supplied the most various characters with lines and situations sufficiently bright to give every opportunity to every member of Mr. Hitchcock's company. The action of "The Galloper" is set forth in three acts and the three scenes, each of which has been admirably described by the well known scenic artist, Walter Burridge. The first act takes place in a hotel at Athens, where the war correspondents embark to the scene of action. The third act shows the Turkish camp in the Volo mountains. It will thus be seen that the background gives ample opportunity for scenic embellishments. The two audiences at the Tremont on Monday which tested the spacious capacity of the theatre, set their seal of approval on the latest Davis play, and the droll comedy of Raymond Hitchcock, thus endorsing what the Baltimore press and public said of it last week, that it was the most genuinely entertaining, brilliantly written, admirably acted and superbly produced farcical comedy of recent years. The advance sale of seats for the entire engagement is now on and judging from the widespread interest in the engagement there will be few "vacant chairs" at the Tremont Theatre during the continuance of Hitchcock-Davis regime. During the next three weeks the Wednesday matinees which were eliminated during Mrs. Fiske's will be resumed.

Boston Theatre—"Fantana," that merry, mighty musical comedy, which, from its initial performance, has met with unstinted approval at the hands of Boston Theatre audiences, and which played to the largest receipts of any holiday show in Boston on Christmas Day, is rounding out the first half of its engagement at the big New England playhouse. Jefferson De Angelis, who heads the Shubert aggregation, and who is recognized everywhere as the peerless prince of comedy, was never so well placed as he is in the role of Hawkins, the Commodore's valet, in "Fantana." He has a particularly able and efficient side partner in Miss Toby Claude, the sweetest, most captivating little bundle of femininity that Boston playgoers have been favored with in many a day. "Fantana" is seen to the greatest possible advantage on the enormous stage of the Boston Theatre, for the production is built on noble lines. It is a significant fact and one which the public should bear in mind that "Fantana" is to be seen nowhere in New England outside of the Boston Theatre. It remains at the Boston a fortnight longer. There are Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

TWO ACCIDENTS.

John A. Nugent, a well known blacksmith, residing at 13 North Prospect street, West Newton, was badly injured on Robin Hood road, Auburndale, about 7:30 last Sunday night by his horse running away and throwing him to the ground.

An express train frightened the horse the carriage struck a tree and he was thrown out on his head.

Some residents in the vicinity heard the crash and rendered assistance to Nugent who was badly cut about the head and face, besides being severely shaken up.

He was removed to his home in the police ambulance. The horse was finally stopped on Auburn street and taken to a nearby stable.

The carriage was practically demolished.

Harry Burke, a moulder, living at 833 Hylton street, Newton Highlands, was seriously injured by being struck by a car of the Boston & Worcester line, at the corner of Boylston and Walnut streets, Newton Highlands, about 6:30 last Sunday night. Burke was on his way home at the time on a car bound toward Worcester.

He got off at the junction of the two streets and started around the rear of the car he had just left to cross the inward-bound track, when he was struck and thrown 20 feet by a car running toward Boston.

The Boston Bound car was a few minutes late, and the motorman, trying to make up the lost time, was running his car at a good rate of speed.

He was picked up unconscious and carried to the residence of Timothy Galvin, on Walnut street, while Drs. Thompson and Phelps of Newton Highlands were summoned.

They found that Burke was suffering from concussion of the brain, with a probable fracture of the skull, besides various cuts and bruises.

Tilton, Quartermaster, E. E. Stiles, Officer of the Day, S. A. Langley, Officer of the Guard, C. W. Coleman.

The Fashion in Buckles.

A large assortment of belt buckles meets the season's demand for jewelry in all its manifestations. Especially popular is the new pin back buckle—a belt fastener on buckle lines that pins on the belt like a brooch.

It has led to the use of big brooches for belt clasps. Old fashioned miniature or cameo pins are employed in this way.

Some of the more elaborate oblong shields used as buckles take the form of spread bat wings, which are enamelled in some deep shade and are trimmed with glistening stones.

Three birds on a branch of turquoise fruit make the openwork design of a handsome round buckle in the popular French gilt. Great single amethysts or topazes set in a frame of brilliant are among the most striking oval buckles.

Oreochs in gold tinted to suggestions of the real flower coloring, latticework that catches a jewel at each intersection of the tiny bars of gold or gilt, has relief figures set over a background of dull toned suede leather are the features of other buckles. Silver effects are decidedly the go, plain or set with semi-precious stones.

Some of the newest buckles of all are of mother of pearl. Besides the iridescent pearly coloring, they are also found in one toned shades in pink, purple, gray, green and blue. The one toned pearl buckles are much sought after in this day of one color tone costumes. Mother of pearl with traced design in gilt is also well liked and goes prettily with the modish gilt belt.

THE GRAPHIC is printed and mailed Friday afternoons, and is for sale at all News-stands in the Newtons, and at the South Union Station, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless stamps are enclosed.

Notices of all local entertainments to which admission is charged must be paid for at regular rates, 25 cents per line in the reading matter, or $1.00 per inch in the advertising columns.

The good news submitted by Mayor Weed to the aldermen last Monday night that over $35,000 had been received in excess of the estimated receipts for the present year means that the tax rate for the coming year will certainly be much lower than the present rate of $18.00 per $1,000. The increase comes largely in the corporation tax receipts and in the taxes on National bank stock. The Mayor's recommendation that this windfall be used to retire a debt of $30,000 which has been hanging for some years on account of sewer assessments being used in 1895 for general purposes, is a wise step as it relieves the next three years from annual payments on this debt, and thereby helps out the tax rates of those years to the extent of the principal and interest accounts. While present indications point to a nice reduction in the tax rate for 1906, that for 1907 will probably give the city fathers a few gray hairs in the endeavor to keep it down to a satisfactory figure.

The resignation of Mr. Seward W. Jones from the board of health after a service of twelve years, calls public attention to the quiet and faithful work which is being done for the city by the members of these unpaid commissions. Mr. Jones accepted a position on the health board when a thorough reorganization was needed and not only materially assisted in placing that department on a firm foundation, but has continued to help guide its affairs with ability and good judgment. While no one can criticize his reasons for withdrawing from public position, his resignation will be greatly regretted.

The town of Watertown is endeavoring to arrange with the Metropolitan park commission in regard to a new bridge over the river at Galen street. The town needs a new bridge at this point and the commission had intended to build one further up the river for its boulevard. A compromise will save money for both the town and the metropolitan district. Newton has an interest therefore in the decision. Not only for the better accommodations which will result but on account of the expense which a second bridge would entail.

Mayor Weed's reception to Mayor elect Warren at City Hall next Monday afternoon should be attended by every citizen, not only to greet the new executive but to wish Godspeed to the retiring mayor, who has certainly done splendid work for the city during his term of office. We hope there will be an outpouring of our good citizens to thank Mayor Weed for his splendid record.

The invitation of the aldermen to Mayor Weed to deliver a valedictory, if accepted will continue the excellent precedent set by Mayor Weeks two years ago. It stands to reason that the opinions of a retiring executive are of more value than those of a man who has not been in touch with city affairs. The valedictory should yield first place to the valedictory.

By actual figures, Newton has legal voters enough to claim two and eleven-fourteenths representatives to the General Court under the apportionment to be made by the County Commissioners next summer. We wonder if the city has influence enough to get the award of three representatives, which we deserve.

In the selection of Alderman Carter as President and Alderman Ellis as vice president, the 1906 aldermen have broken the precedent that when one office is held by the North side the other shall be held by the Southside. In some future day, perhaps, all these provincialisms will disappear.

A good resolution for the next board of aldermen to adopt would be to reduce the rates for water, so that the residents of Newton can receive some benefit from the recent payment on the water debt.

The Souvenir of the Bicentennial of Brookline issued by the Chronicle of that town last week is a beautiful example of the printing art, as well as a valuable pamphlet for future reference. Brother Spencer has made a handsome contribution to the town's celebration.

It was certainly a great Christmas. Everybody reports a phenomenal business and the express companies and post office did a record business.

Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Fred B. Smith, of New York, Special Secretary of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, will come to Boston Thursday, January 4th, on the invitation of the Boston branch of the Young Men's Christian Association to conduct a special series of meetings for men. The following public addresses are announced:

Thursday and Friday, January 4th and 5th, 12 to 1 p. m., Park Street Church.

Saturday, January 6th, 12 o'clock, Fitchburg shops of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

Mass Meeting for men, Sunday, January 7th, 3.30 p. m., Tremont Temple.

Monday, January 8th, 12 to 1 p. m., Park Street Church; 7.30 p. m., Association Hall, Association Building, corner Boylston and Berkeley streets, Boston.

Special music will be furnished by the Schubert Male Quartette. Meetings are open to men only.

At the time of Mr. Smith's last appearance in Boston, he spoke to an audience of 4,000 men in Mechanics Building, and the recent success that has attended his work in England, India, and Australia, as well as in the larger cities of this country, stamps him as one of the ablest speakers to men of the present time. It is anticipated that his addresses will meet with unusual favor in Boston.

SPIRIT OF THE PIANO.

More Adapted to the Parlor Than to the Concert Hall.

The fact that the piano is descended from the spinet and the harpsichord is still a stumbling block to amateurs of music. The fact that in tone and resonance it has lately been enormously developed is also a stumbling block to those who write for it. The first class have entirely neglected the harpsichord, a perfect and fully evolved instrument, the spirit of which is altogether different from that of the piano. The second class have been tempted by the dynamics of the piano to treat it too much like an orchestra and to forget that it is not only a solo instrument, but really a chamber instrument.

Its utterance, which Chopin understood so well, is really chamber music, and there is always something lamentable to me in the contemplation of a great artist distressing himself and his instrument in the attempt to fill a large concert room with exaggerated expressions of a delicate and intimate temperament. The effect is never entirely satisfactory, however great the artist may be, for that note of intimacy which is surely the very essence and spirit of the piano cannot possibly be maintained in the presence of a large and miscellaneous audience.

When we consider among all our impressions of pianoforte music the moments that have given us memorable pleasure, we find that they took place in intimate assemblies where some one played and some one sang and where the atmosphere thrilled with just that amount of electric disturbance which we call sympathy, which is born with the meeting of friends and dies when they disperse.—National Review.

THE DEEP SEA DIVER.

His Calling About the Most Grievous of All Occupations.

Beyond all question, the calling of a deep sea diver employed in examining and clearing away sunken wrecks is the most grievous. Putting aside the fact that his life is in constant danger from the results of submarine enemies or accident to his diving dress and apparatus, the sights that he is called upon to see, and to see, moreover, amid the most horrible surroundings, exceed in ghastliness even those which the hospital or the army surgeon is called upon to confront. Nowhere else on land or sea are so many accumulated horrors to be found as in the hull of a ship which has sunk with crew and passengers.

The hideous condition in which the diver finds the victims of the wreck, some half devoured by fish, some standing upright and floating to and fro with a ghastly parody of living motion, some still locked together as though yet in the last agony of the death struggle, and some floating about the interior of a ship and knocking and rubbing up against him with a hideous lifelessness that is utterly indescribable. These are some of the horrible sights which deep sea divers have to work amid when they are employed on sunken wrecks. When to all these are added the awful gloom and silence amid which the work has to be performed, there will not seem to be much doubt that of all modern callings that of the deep sea diver is the most grievous.

Not Sufficiently Definite.

Mother.—I told you to give your sister half of that apple, and you have eaten it all yourself. Small Son.—I offered it to her and she sucked it a little and then pushed it away.

She says you didn't.

"Oh, you mean that sister. I thought you meant the baby."

Nothing Artificial.

"You never hear of the Seabirds' family skeleton nowadays," observed Rivers.

"No," said Brooks. "They have accumulated so many bones that everybody has forgotten its existence."—Chicago Tribune.

Baking Watches.

"I will be with you in a moment. I must finish the baking of this batch of watches first."

The speaker was a jeweler. He said as he worked:

"I suppose you are surprised at the idea of watch baking. I will explain. The machinery of a watch is delicate, yet it must work the same in winter as in summer, the same in Russia as in Cairo, the same in the Sahara as in Iceland. There is only one way to accomplish this—the watch must be regulated to heat and cold.

"I am regulating these watches to heat. Afterward, in a refrigerator, I will regulate them to cold. Then when they go out in the world they won't disgrace themselves in any climate. Chronometers must be regulated more carefully than watches. They are often kept for weeks in temperatures that are now zero and now 120 degrees."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Incentives to Marriage.

Apparently the German town of Haschmann does not believe in a state of single blessedness. Annual prizes are offered to the men who wed the ugliest, the most deformed and the oldest women in the town. Eighty dollars is paid to the man who marries the ugliest, while but $50 is the reward for the one marrying the oldest. All women over forty who have been fitted at least twice bring their spouses sums which vary according to the state of the fund, which was left by a rich resident of the town. The average prize paid is $50 to each unless they should be unusually numerous, while the trustees are empowered to pay a larger sum when, in their judgment, it seems wise to hold forth a special inducement to procure the marriage of some particularly unfortunate woman.

Carrollites About Wood.

The strongest wood which grows within the limits of the United States is that known as nutmeg hickory, which flourishes on the lower Arkansas river. The most elastic is tamarack, the black or shellbark standing not far below. The wood with the least elasticity and lowest specific gravity is the Ficus aurea. The wood of the highest specific gravity is the blue wood of Texas and Mexico. The heaviest of the foreign woods are the pomegranate and the lignum vitae, and the lightest is cork. Four hundred and thirteen different species of trees grow in the various sections of the country, and of this number sixteen, when perfectly seasoned, will sink in water. These woods of high specific gravity grow mostly in the arid regions of New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada.

No Reason For Two Trips.

Patrick's wife was "ailing," and Patrick put on his Sunday best and walked four miles to the doctor's house to tell him about her.

"Now," said the doctor, when he had heard all Patrick had to say and had prepared some medicine, "here is something for your wife. I've written the directions on the bottle and I want her to try it faithfully for a fortnight. Then, if it doesn't relieve her, come to me again and I will give you another prescription."

"Now, doctor, see here," said Patrick, standing straight and looking grimly at the physician. "If you have your doubts of this curin' Mary, as it's fivident you have by the way you spake, why don't you give me first what you're goin' to give me last?"

Torpedo Boats.

Torpedo boats do not ram the vessels against which they operate; they simply discharge self propelling torpedoes which, if they strike the vessel, explode and sink or otherwise damage it. Then, if not sunk by the enemy's fire, the torpedo boat runs away and after taking on more torpedoes is ready for service again. Torpedo boats are built very light and of enormous speed. They cannot resist gun fire and are easily sunk if hit even by comparatively light shot; therefore they operate to best advantage in the night, so that the threatened fleet has to be very wide awake with its searchlights and its light guns.

An Odd Simile.

A Scotch minister who used similes that would bring home to the rough characters around him the truths he sought to impress was once denouncing the ingratitude of man for all the benefits conferred on him by Providence.

"My friends," he said, "look at the hens when they drink. There's not one of them but lifts its head in thankfulness over the water that is so common. Oh, that we were 'n hens!"

Not Too Much For Our Good.

"Lawd," prayed the old colored deacon, "please give us in dis worl' whar we livin' at all de prosperity we kin stand, but w'en we gits dizzy wid it en goes ter celebratin' too much des send 'long old Br'er Trouble ter make us sit stiddy in de boat, en we'll be mighty thankful!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Accomplishments.

Muggins.—My daughter will be a great catch for some one. She can cook or write poetry with equal ease and effectiveness. Juggins.—Well, my daughter can write poetry. I never saw her try to cook it, but I'll bet she could.—Cleveland Leader.

Diamond Cut Diamond.

"This is a hard world," growled the chronic kicker.

"That's what!" replied the observant man. "The only thing with which you can make an impression on it is 'rockers.'"—Exchange.

Cowards die many times before their death; the valiant never taste of death but once.—Shakespeare.

Castle Square Theatre

Castle Square Theatre—The promise of a Dickens drama at the Castle Square Theatre has aroused no little curiosity and expectation. Next week that promise, made at the opening of the present season by the Boston Stage Society, will be fulfilled with the production of the new dramatic version of "Oliver Twist." For many years, the pathetic story of the little foundling has awakened the sympathies of novel-readers and playgoers, "Oliver Twist" being among the most popular of all the Dickens stories. It will be produced at the Castle Square in a new version by Comyns Carr written especially for Beerbohm Tree and presented by him with great success at his theatre in London. The same play is now running in New York to crowded houses, and it comes to Boston with direct arrangement with the author and Mr. Tree. The title character will be taken at the Castle Square by Marion Ballou, and all the other leading members of the stock company will be assigned to important roles.

MARY LYON IN THE HALL OF FAME.

A woman stood on a rock-ribbed hill;
Her eyes were clear, her heart was true;
With folded hands she humbly prayed;
"Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?"

"For if I only know thy will,
Naught else on earth—I ever fear,
Only that knowing, I should fall
To do the duty lying near."

Then came the answer: "Go and build A temple, dedicate to me!"
"I, build,—with empty hands?" "Yea, thou!
My needy daughters wait for thee."

"But I am naught, and naught have I To build to thee this temple shrine."
"Go thou! Go in my name, and know
The silver and the gold are mine."

Then up and down with tireless feet
This clear-eyed woman went her way;
Nor feared to ask for help to do
His work! Nor know or stop or stay.

Until, behold in valley fair
Brick piled on brick and stone on stone,
She welcomed to wide open doors
Who had no children of her own.

That they might have an even chance,
The hungry daughters of the land,
Wide as the world, her loving heart,
Tender and strong her out-stretched hand.

And ere they laid her down to rest
In sacred spot where angels wait,
She reaped the labor of her hands,
Her own works praised her in the gate.

"All honor to the mighty dead!"
The nation glorifies its best!
"Give woman there a place!" it cries,
And let her name lead all the rest."

Springfield Republican.

London's Women's Clubs

(Boston Transcript.)

These English clubs apparently have sprung into existence and continue their progress on essentially social lines, very much as did our American clubs in their early days, before they took unto themselves philanthropic duties. Whereas the London clubs were devised for the personal convenience of their members and still remain unaggressively altruistic. Therefore, they do not conflict with the demands of church activities, while here it is a perpetual puzzle for a club woman to adjust her income and her leisure to the affairs of both church and club.

Twenty-one years ago London was without a woman's club; today there are thirty in that metropolis alone, with a total membership of over 20,000. The Alexandra Club on Grosvenor street was the first one that was organized, and solely for ladies. It still remains exclusively for their benefit, though other clubs valiantly provide smoking rooms for their gentlemen friends. Membership in it is an acknowledged part of the social curriculum of the dames belonging to the country gentry. The extreme opposite of Alexandra Club life is that of the Alliance Club, composed of Protestant women, who, however, must be evangelical in belief. Bible readings, morning family prayers, prayer meeting and no wines make its success among those to whom such lines or work are acceptable.

The Army and Navy and the Empress Club are the smartest centres. The first has only one billiard room, but sixty bedrooms. Almost all the London clubs make the housing of their members a practical issue in their management. At some clubs children are allowed in vacation times and even babies under certain restrictions. It is hoped that tiny pet dogs will soon be admitted in like manner. The Athenæum Club is more like the New England Women's Club in Boston, with its raison d'être centering round art, literature, music and politics, though the latter is practically excluded from the Boston club. The Austral Club of London is devoted to the promotion of Australian interests. The Empire Club is supposed to unite women from everywhere, being a meeting place for colonial ladies. The Lyceum Club is for women of intellectual pursuits, who either have published something or have distinguished relatives who are intellectual! On such a broad foundation many women can be clubbed together, their Saturday dinners corresponding to the Saturday lunches of Boston's Twentieth Century Club. The University Club, with its "Silence Room," is what its name indicates.

In the personnel of these and of other London clubs, the average Boston club woman is impressed with the superabundance of titled presidents, secretaries and treasurers. Yet a few of the clubs, in spite of royal officialism, are owned and managed by women somewhat in the same way as individuals here set up tea-rooms. But a London woman's club is first of all a place of entertainment and friendship; secondly it is a place for the accommodation of women who prefer to be housed and fed in their own clubs rather than at any hotel, and thirdly it is a centre for intellectual resource, including bridge. Men are admitted to most of the clubs as affording variety in club life and libraries and luxuries are part of any club equipment. The entrance fee is usually about two guineas and the annual subscription three or four guineas. Membership is always carefully guarded, its prestige being largely dependent upon its list of honorary officers. From a business point of view the clubs have done wonderfully well and have been organized and are maintained with conspicuous financial skill and tactful executive and housekeeping ability. Eventually they may federate or become philanthropic. Certainly the Pioneer Club, with its debates reported by the newspapers and with its loan training fund on behalf of needy women, is already an important element in making for progress. Familiar even to our American ears are the names of some of the club leaders, such as Mrs. George Cornwallis West, Mrs. W. K. Clifford, Mrs. Herbert Chamberlain, Mrs. Felkin (Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler), the Duchess of Leeds, the Duchess of Sutherland, Hon. Charlotte Knollys, Lady Hamilton and Lady Aberdeen. There may yet arise an international club which shall include delegates from the American federated clubs.

At the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning Dr. Deborah Fawcett gave a most interesting paper upon "Athletics for Girls." She approves most heartily of athletics provided they are not indulged in to excess. The physical condition of the girl should be fully understood and she should not be allowed to overdo. Basket ball should not be played except under the immediate supervision of a physical director. She emphasized the value of play in the outdoor air over artificial indoor exercises. To gain the most from exercise it must not be monotonous. She gave the first place to walking, but there should be an aim, even though it be nothing more than to see how one part of the country differs from another or how one section has changed since the last time it was visited. The whole paper was full of suggestion and the subject was treated with the utmost fairness and good sense. The discussion that followed was full of interest and showed how deeply interested the members had been in the paper.

The meeting next week will be the monthly business meeting. As matters of importance are to be considered a large attendance is desired.

Mrs. Mary R. W. Hill

Mrs. Mary R. Wilbur Hill, widow of George Townsend Hill, formerly of Newtonville and West Newton, died very suddenly in Boston, Dec. 23, and was buried on the 26th from the chapel of the Newton Cemetery.

For ten years she was the president of the Newtonville Woman's Guild, and rarely has a club president been so beloved by the women over whom she presided. Although of a modest, retiring disposition that would have made her perhaps the last woman a stranger would have selected for that office, she combined with qualities that enabled her to make a beautiful home, others that made her an admirable executive officer of a club which grew under her leadership from fifty to two hundred members, nearly every one of whom felt it a personal loss, when she was obliged by circumstances to withdraw from any active participation in the work of the Guild. Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson the clergyman who officiated at her funeral spoke of her as "a much loved woman," and for the consolation of those who grieved for her, using the illustration of that one night in high northern latitudes when the sun sinks below the horizon and rises again immediately, he bade them think of her sudden death as a going out in darkness only to open the eyes at once upon the light of heaven.

For the Writing Table

It is possible now to carry out any color scheme in the accessories of the writing table. Such furnishings come in sets.

Blotting paper, long a bit of an eyecore to the fastidious housekeeper because of its rather crude coloring, now comes in exquisite colors and in varied shades of each color. It is an important factor in writing table decoration rather than a deplored necessity.

Bronze, silver and brass lead in desk set materials. Highly burnished brass is popular, as is also brass in dull finish. Many of the brass pad corners show ornate open work. Over the pretty blotter coloring this open work stands in effective relief.

Sets in wood, usually in light tones relieved with silver or bronze, are seen. Leather sets are ubiquitous. Highly glazed reds, blacks, greens, and blues abound. The newer leather sets come in buffed elephant skin.

The fad for uniform furnishing by no means precludes individuality. The woman of taste has her opportunity this fall, for never has there been such a varied assortment of beautiful odd desk ornaments to select from. But in furnishing one's writing table with articles picked up here and there, there should be a nucleus of one style to give character to the table.

One woman has chosen an elaborate bronze inkstand with a central figure in rich colored Dresden china, and candlesticks to match, as her nucleus. Other accessories she has picked up here and there, but with inkstand and candlesticks in mind, she has not allowed herself in a single instance to be led into getting anything that would not harmonize with them. Her blotting paper carries out the deep navy blue in the Dresden china figures.

Another woman has chosen as a nucleus a bronze and clear crystal inkstand and candlesticks. She delights in her paper-weight, which is a heavy crystal ball set up on a bronze standard. It is the real article for crystal-gazing and was imported from the mystic east.

Russian enamel in wood or brass makes most effective desk ornaments. As every color is represented in the elaborate work, any color scheme may be followed out to harmonize with it.

Year of the Glittering Fan

The medium sized fan, measuring eight or nine inches, will be the popular one this year, dealers say. Larger fans, those decorated with real lace and ostrich feathers, will also be fashionable, and as for the smallest fans of all, those perhaps five inches long, this season will see their glorification. These smallest of fans are called theatre fans, bag fans, glove fans, etc.

It is the exceptional fan that is not partially or entirely covered with spangles. In the hands of coquetry nothing could be more effective than the spangled fan.

The queer thing about it, though, is that it may be as dignified as it is mischievous. It takes color from the one who carries it.

The smallest fans, as well as the medium sized ones used for dances and dinners, are practically all made on the same order, though of course the former do not admit of the elaboration of design found on the larger size.

The gauze foundation prevails and is treated with adornment in spangles, hand painting or applied lace or silk in charming designs.

Spangles come in different shapes. The round or sharply pointed oval shapes are the most popular, the latter being largely used for flower petals in spangle design.

A great bachelor button flower done in silver spangles of the oval shape in a white fan is very attractive. On a black fan is seen an iridescent bird perched on a gold branch that bears silver fruit.

Green fans are new and well liked, as are also those in the modish raspberry hue. The latter spangled in a design of gold are especially effective.

Hand painted flowers, like roses and poppies, sprinkled with a little spangle-dew, make a delightfully airy, dainty finish.

Applications of white lace on black grounds or black lace on white grounds are much sought after. Fans of white gauze on one side and of black on the other give a cloudy background which spangles or lace show effectively.

THREE ALARM FIRE.

A three alarm fire from box 224 about six o'clock last Saturday morning started our citizens from their early morning nap, and brought all the fire apparatus of the city to the property formerly occupied by the Nonantum Worsted Company on Chapel street.

A portion of this property is now used by the Newton Woolen Company and spontaneous combustion is supposed to have caused the fire which broke out in the picking room. From there it worked its way into the packing room and did considerable damage to the roof. Several tons of wool waste and oil furnished food for the flames and considerable damage was done to some stored machinery. The total loss is estimated at about $5000.

The music at the night service will be as follows:
Processional, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" Mendelssohn

GOLDEN WEDDING.

An unusual feature of the Christmas celebration on Monday was the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Torrey, which took place at the residence of their son in law Mr. Willard A. Little on Oxford road, Newton Centre.

Mr. Torrey and Martha Merritt were married at Scituate by Rev. C. B. Stetson and have resided at South Scituate, now Norwell ever since with the exception of the last few winters which have been passed at Newton Centre.

Mr. Torrey, who is 72 years of age, is vice-president of the South Scituate Savings Bank of Norwell, a member of its board of investment and a trustee for over 40 years.

He is also deputy sheriff of Plymouth county and court officer of the probate courts of Plymouth and Brockton.

Mr. and Mrs. Torrey have three children, Frank H. Torrey, who for many years was an alderman-at-large in Melrose; Walter R. Torrey, a well known attorney of Boston, New York and Norwell; and a daughter, Martha, who is the wife of Willard A. Little.

How's Your Hair?

Arthur Hudson Announces

That He Has at Last Secured a Cure for Hair Troubles.

Troubles.

We beg to announce to the people of Newton that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years.

We refer to the prescription of Sir Erasmus Wilson, M. D., England's most successful specialist in diseases of the scalp, who was knighted for his many successes in the treatment of skin and scalp. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson this prescription was secured by American chemists and is now offered to the public under the name of Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow bald heads even after all else fails. Unlike other hair preparations it is not sticky or greasy, but gives a live and glossy appearance to the hair. Miss Cornelia Stevens, 6 Smith Ave., Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly bald. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." If you are growing bald, troubled with eruptions, dandruff, scales or a dry scalp, try Dr. Wilson's Life to the Hair. Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., proprietors. Literary Notes

Commencing with the February number, Suburban Life will be printed by The J. Horace McFarland Co., of Harrisburg, Pa. For the past five years Mr.
J. Horace McFarland has been one of America's foremost exponents of country living, and as President of the American Civic Association, his work has been along lines which are in perfect accord with Suburban Life. It is, therefore, with a sense of the peculiar fitness of the relation, that it is announced that Mr. McFarland will occupy the post of Associate Editor of Suburban Life, a position never before accepted by him on any country life publication. This combination of forces will place Suburban Life immediately at the front in the country life field. More pages will be added, commencing next month. The covers will be reproduced from photographs in two and three color effects, and printed on the most modern color presses. Prominent writers of national reputation are preparing leading articles on country life topics, and this arrangement places an exclusive collection of photographic material at the magazine's command. To cover partially this additional expense, the price of Suburban Life will be advanced to 15 cents a copy with the April issue. The yearly subscription price, however, will remain at $1.00 a year until November 1st, 1906, at which time it will be advanced to $1.50 per year.

McClure's begins the new year with a number filled with American activity and decency. From the first article telling of the daily life of probably the most consistently active man in the country, the President, to the editorials at the end which preach the gospel of decent, upright living, there is not a page bare of either instruction, appeal, or healthy entertainment. Lincoln Steffens writes of Mayor Mark Fagan of Jersey City. Ray Stannard Baker presents the third article of his series, "The Railroads on Trial," making astonishing exposures this time of the strange, devious methods of the big shippers to hold up the railroads and the public, and to gobble wealth from both through the private car abuses. Henry Beach Needham in an article illustrated with rare portraits and photographs of Mr. Roosevelt tells of the routine of the President's life, of the marvellous amount of work he manages to accomplish in a brief time, and of the diversity of his interests. The Reminiscences of Carl Schurz continue, dealing with the vital events from which the present German Empire drew its life. Stewart Edward White begins in the January number a new series of short stories woven together by a slight chain of narrative, with the title "Arizona Nights." Each story is to be complete in itself. "Uncle Jim's Yarn, the Indian Story," the first of the new series borrows life from the out-of-doors; it breathes rough health and contentment, and is full of the true spirit of the West.

George Randolph Chester, whose "Bargain Day at Tutts House" was welcomed as the most entertaining force of the summer, has scored again in "Quar-antined Rivals," which appears in the January McClure's. The story of how two young men in love with the same girl, who has just quarreled with both of them, are quarantined in her house by reason of the cook's sister having small pox, has possibilities all of which the author sounds. Then there is "Ellis Johnson's Book," by Myra Williams Jarrell—another sort of story with real pathos; "The Heart of Eric," by Elmore Elliott Peake; "The Lady Across the Aisle," by Ellis Parker Butler, and
"Why Rifles Deserted," by H. T.
Greene, a strong story of the American occupation of the Philippines. The poems of this number are "Song" by A. E.
Housman; "The Old Tunes," by Moira
O'Neill; and "A Colloquy," by Louise Imogen Guiney. There is an editorial on the "True Opportunity of the American Youth," and another on the "Durable Satisfactions of Life," in which is quoted President Eliot's address to the undergraduates at Harvard at the opening of the University last fall.

Correspondence

We take pleasure in publishing the following interesting letter received by one of our prominent citizens.

North British Station Hotel,
Edinburgh, Nov. 11, 1905.

Dear Captain:

Thinking possibly you might find time to read a letter, is about the best excuse I have for inflicting you with this.

The trip over on the steady "Saxonia" was very agreeable and it might be truthfully summed up as an eight day loaf, and if the time spent with the table manifestations was eliminated, it would be more so.

Arriving in this country, a greenhorn is a bit puzzled with the differences to be met with on every hand, that is presuming he has not been out of the states.

London I don't care for, my hotel being located on that busy thoroughfare, the Strand, where at most any point you can count a bus passing every second, to say nothing of countless other teams. I always felt relieved at night, because I hadn't been run over. If however you wish to see a good portion of the city, mount to the top of one of these handy things, give the conductor 2d and you can ride as far as you like, then should occasion require, a transfer is available to continue and so on almost indefinitely.

Should you wish to see something allied to antiquity, come with me to that grand old edifice St Pauls where you can feast your eyes upon the most wonderful handiwork of man. Here you see that ancient carving in stone and wood we read about. Look up into the dome rising clear one hundred and sixty to seventy feet and see the biblical scenes done in mosaic, so fine and true you declare them to be painted, go down into the crypt and look at the funeral car and burial place of the Duke of Wellington, and a little beyond that of the hero of Trafalgar. Let us go back now into the main part of the cathedral as the service has begun. Did you ever hear such organ music? Listen while the choir boys chant their sweet refrain, and occasionally as the mellow notes of the old instrument rolls and vibrates through those vast arches you distinguish those high clear soprano voices of the choir, and you feel yourself in a kind of a delicious trance. It's a master hand upon that organ, and as the chants and responses alternate and mingle with the music, you say to yourself you never listened to such harmony. The service is indeed beautiful beyond description and you have sat listening and drinking it all in for two hours and a half.

Now let us get up into the top of the dome, pausing half way at the celebrated whispering gallery about a hundred feet from the floor, we get out upon a circular balcony running clear around inside and the guide informs us it is 120 feet in diameter, we go to the opposite side and he whispers against the granite wall full descriptions of the old cathedral, every word of which comes around to us clear and distinct.

Now you want to complete the ascent and a series of steep granite steps lets you out upon the outside balcony where you find the old city of London spread out at your feet in every direction. You say to yourself let's go higher hoping to get above that hindrance to sight seeing, the London fog, so up you go, the last sixty feet being by ladders well nigh perpendicular, until you can go no farther and you get your head (as there is not room to squeeze your shoulders through) into the hall which surmounts the highest point above the dome, and you in a way realize you are at the extreme elevation in the city some 450 feet above the sidewalk. You are disappointed in not being able to see off any distance owing to the fog and mist, and you register a mental vow to come again the first clear day. Reaching the street somewhat blown from your exertions, you turn and look back upon this vast pile. You notice the immense height of the hall on the dome, the many towers, and the countless figures cut in the granite, now all blackened and grimed with age and dirt and you feel well repaid for all your trouble.

Wishing still to see something ancient, we take a bus, that in half or three quarters of an hour lands us in front of Westminster, but before going inside you walk over to the hall where the only King of England was sentenced to be beheaded. It's an antique place dating back some six hundred years, spacious, cold and lofty, you read the several inscriptions on brass set in the floor, and you stand before the historic star chamber, with its time honored wording over the floor to the effect that, all who enter here leave hope behind, you examine with interest the various statues of the crowned heads and are glad you didn't live in those days. Crossing the street you are shortly at one of the entrances to the Nave of Westminster, and entering you think at once you are in some museum, a mental calculation tells you that in a space of about sixty feet of the Nave, there are some twenty odd pieces or groups of statues of statesmen and heroes all superb and fine, some of the groups having six or eight figures, and you are more surprised when you find the entire interior is literally packed with works of this sort. You wonder at this show, declaring that what would otherwise be something superbly grand, is nearly spoilt by the manner in which all these figures and busts have been crowded together. You walk the floor of the abbey and around the cloisters and find that nearly every slab is holding down the remains of some person, and it puzzles you when you wonder where they will put the next. You get a look at an old tumble down building at the rear where the first translation of the Bible was made, and in another part you see the wonderful lettering done by the monks in translating. Next you go into the Henry VII chapel and see all about you the remains or tombs of many of the Royal Family dating back hundreds of years, many of them curiously wrought in stone, bronze and other metals. In another portion of the Abbey you see the chair in which England's sovereigns have been crowned for many generations. It's all somewhat gloomy, a bit musty and decidedly ancient, yet you wander about among these cherished relics, it has its fascination and you cease to wonder that the English man is proud of his antiquity.

Now let us take one of these funny little trains drawn by an equally diminutive engine and take a days ride to the North, so that we can get a glimpse of the country. You find the cars all divided up into box like sections labeled alternately first, second and third class, some for ladies and some for smoking and as you distinguish the only difference in the compartments as between first and third is the shade of cushions, with about one half the cost, you jump into the latter and soon after some chap on the platform has blown a penny whistle three or four times, duly answered by a spiteful little toot from the engine, the train is under way without any perceptible motion, inside of half a mile you find yourself under full headway and you marvel at the smoothness of the road bed, the comfort of the carriage and are glad you saved the difference, if only for future spending. You find possibly one or two other occupants of the same compartment and as you are locked in and can't escape, you do as most U. S. people are inclined to, open up conversation with your neighbors, and if they happen to be of the minor born as most of them are, you need not be surprised at their politeness, as that seems inborn and they discovered you were "an Ameriican" before you got seated. You will find also they are great on fresh air, in fact ere you have been here many days you will observe that when the glass reaches above 60 it's time to open up.

Now let us look about us a little, see the wonderfully fertile English farms, every inch of which is under cultivation and every separate lot fenced around with a hedge or a smooth stone wall. No scrubby brush or shrubs line these lots, not a pebble can be seen as the farmer turns the sod, and you wonder where they got the stone to build the houses, as every one is built of this material. The cattle graze contentedly and countless flocks of well fed sheep with their long fleeces, are nibbling the green grass. 'Tis indeed a peaceful rural scene and it greets your eye upon every hand. As far as you can distinguish any object, this cultivated view presents itself, and it all has a finished, completed aspect quite unusual. Arriving at Aberdeen what strikes you as odd is the universal use of stone. Every building, be it a residence, warehouse, office or shop, all the pavement whether street or sidewalk, all the bridges and there are several viaducts, is composed of gray granite. It is all so scrupulously neat and wholesome, that you can't help asking if they have any dirt whatever. Another noticeable feature is the rosy cheeks of the inhabitants, men and women, young and old alike have a daily glow the equal of which no art can reproduce. The air is clear and bracing and you soon feel its invigorating influence.

We board our train again and soon we are out on the cliffs bordering the North Sea. You can toss a biscuit over the edge and it would drop a hundred feet ere it reached the water. As far as the eye can see stretches this turbulent body of water, now glistening so quietly in the sunshine, occasionally the rugged shore is abruptly broken where some foaming little stream rushes madly to the sea, and again you meet with a dainty brown beach tucked away in some little bay as though endeavoring to get out of reach of the storms. On the opposite side of the car lay the peaceful farms, so innocent in their aspect you would never imagine the North Sea was so near, yet in a storm it must be wild indeed.

We pass through Dundee and the track following the contour of the river Tay gradually rises until you are above the house tops and then it takes an even curve as you come out on the bridge of the same name, a magnificent structure and high enough for vessels to pass beneath. The guard tells you it is one and a half miles in length and as you reach the center a fine view you obtain of the city on the one hand and the little town of Tayport on the other, while the river contains all manner of sailing and steam craft. Along some distance and just before you reach Edinburgh you cross a similar structure, only higher, wider and some two miles in length, bearing the celebrated Tay bridge, whose supports, rising hundreds of feet into the air, can be seen for miles around.

Arriving at Edinburgh, justly the pride of Scotland of which you have heard so much, you decide to stop a while. You find it is easy to obtain the best of accommodations in the North British hotel with bath for less than eight bob per day and by intimating that you are a "commercial" they readily reduce it to seven, or in our money $1.75. Getting the cue enroute, you are soon out upon Princess street, considered one of, if not the finest thoroughfare in the United Kingdom, but you haven't time to take it in now, you are on your way to old Edinburgh Castle, that lofty pile of granite which rests so majestically upon yonder hill top within an easy half hours' climb from your hotel. You soon reach the moat over which is an imitation of the old Porticulis as nothing wooden can stand the ravages of six hundred years, you stop a moment as you calculate how many ordinary houses this moat would hold and as the guide explains its use to hold water in case of attack, you readily see how secure it must have been. If you intimate to him as I did that it would be fine filled with beer, you see his look of disdain for all remarks labeled as he thinks, American. Seven huge, thick iron gates let into walls from five to seven feet through, you must pass ere you reach even the outer court of the castle, then through other granite passages and you arrive at the inner one, which is surrounded by stone buildings, with courts, squares and wide avenues all about. The whole being enclosed in the outer granite wall of the castle proper, varying in thickness from twelve to twenty odd feet as occasion demanded. You look over the top of the wall and it's a sheer drop perpendicularly of several hundred feet. The old city of Edinburgh, lies at your feet. Its pretty parks and squares making a pleasing contrast with the different elevations of the buildings and the several monuments. But let us get inside some of these old castle buildings, as they are open for visitors and the first one you enter contains the original crown jewels of Scotland, of inestimable value, consisting as they do of diamonds, rubies and emeralds with heavy clumsy gold settings all properly guarded and beyond reach of any who might be afflicted with a sudden and uncontrollable desire to pinch. Next you enter St. Margaret's Chapel, supposed to be the oldest portion of the castle dating back earlier than the fifteenth century. It's a dingy old place and rather unsightly. In another building you are shown the room where Queen Mary gave birth to James VI, in the sixteenth century. Still another building has the old banquet hall now filled with implements of war, grim relics of Waterloo and Trafalgar. You are told the castle was for many years the retreat of the Kings and Queens of Scotland and you wonder how in those old days it could ever have been taken.

Now you want to see one more sacred old relic and so you walk through the quaintest old streets, some of them having four steps to the curb, while the opposite sidewalk has an even slope to the street, funny looking stone buildings line the sides, all shapes and all angles looking for all the world as though they had been there for centuries. You soon arrive at Holyrood palace now the official residence of King Edward the VII. It sets in a low level plain backed by a couple of high hills which gives the old place a pleasing and at the same time a rugged setting. We find about one half of the palace open for inspection, the remainder being private for the King. You enter the ruins of the chapel portion and the guide informs you it was built in the twelfth century, burned and rebuilt several times until it now lies a mass of half broken walls without a roof, yet still the burial place of many crowned heads. Entering the palace portion you go through several winding passages and through low narrow door ways the walls of which are several feet in thickness and you come to Queen Mary of Scots apartments, which she occupied so much during the sixteenth century. Some of the furniture is to be seen with its quaint carving and inlaid work, also her bedstead with its clothing now fast dropping to pieces with age and decay. Scores of oil paintings of the notable personages of those days still are suspended on the walls, which are completely covered with those marvelously wrought tapestries. Here doubtless were more of intrigue and murder done than most any other place of its kind in the Kingdom, and you feel thankful as the guide relates the various events and tells of the unscrupulous ambitions of the people, that you didn't live in their time. You find it exceedingly interesting and linger in the passages ways until the guide informs you of closing time. You find it difficult to grasp it all and you leave the old place in a sort of a haze but with the idea the Englishman is not far wrong when he boasts of these time honored spots.

If you are contemplating the purchase of a piano, a good precedent to go by is that established by the NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC in selecting forty Stieff pianos for their school this year. THE NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC is the largest institution in the world for the teaching of music. Their judgment on a piano is expert.

THE STIEFF piano manufacturers make a specialty of building pianos for schools. Why? Because they have to stand a severe test and the STIEFF has stood this test for the past fifty years. Why not profit by the example set by the NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC? If you do you will make no mistake.
